MAID CHARGES MISTRESS WITH BLOWS IN SUIT

Many Fits of Temper Endured in Mrs. Brown's Service, She Testifies.

JURORS ASKED OF FAITH

Attorney for Plaintiff Seeking $8000 Damages Inquires if They're Baptists.

GIRL CALLED DENSE FOOL

She Didn't Mind Epithets, but Rebelled at Being Struck, She Declares.

The church affiliation of jurors were the subject of inquiry in the case of Grace M. Kelly of 2917 Fairfax avenue against George W. Brown and his wife, Bettie B. Brown of 40 Portland place, which went to trial Tuesday before Judge Allen.

Miss Kelly, who was a lady's maid in the employ of Mrs. Brown, is suing for $8000 damages, alleging that she was assaulted Oct. 29, 1905, by Mrs. Brown, receiving injuries which confined her to her bed for three months and incapacitated her for work since.

Each juror was asked if he belonged to any church, and if so to what church. Most of them answered that they belonged to one church or another. One said that he belonged to the same church as Mr. Brown—the Baptist Church. More specifically, he said he was a member of the Third Baptist Church.

These questions were asked by Attorney Sutherland for the plaintiff.

Attorney Garvin, leading counsel for the defendants, asked the jurors if any of them had ever engaged in house service or if they had relatives so engaged. All of them answered in the negative.

In his opening statement to the jury Attorney Sutherland said the evidence would show that Mrs. Brown had struck Miss Kelly in the chest, and that severe hemorrhages had resulted.

Miss Kelly was the first witness. She told of applying to Mrs. Brown for employment on a Friday. Mrs. Brown asked her if she was superstitious. Miss Kelly said she was not, and Mrs. Brown employed her. Her duties were to teach Wilbur, an adopted child, answer the telephone and do whatever Mrs. Brown told her to do, but not any housework.

Tells of Eastern Trip.

She accompanied Mrs. Brown on an Eastern trip, she said, and they returned the latter part of September. She was asked if there was an increase of her duties after that and said:

"Mrs. Brown said she had a great deal of church work to do, and she had me do her correspondence."

Asked concerning the first unpleasantness that occurred after the return to St. Louis, Miss Kelly said: "On the evening of Oct. 25 there were some ladies at the house. The telephone rang. I answered it. A business man wanted to speak to Mrs. Brown. She said she didn't want me to interrupt her again.

"Mrs. Brown had given Preston, the chauffeur, orders to fix the lock on her jewel box. He came to me and I gave him the key. He was working at it when Mr. Brown telephoned for the automobile.

Called Her Careless.

"The chauffeur went away, leaving the lock off of the box. When Mrs. Brown discovered the lock off of the box she was angry and said I was careless.

"I told her my responsibility ended when I gave Preston the key. She said: 'I have a great deal of faith in that nigger, but I didn't expect him to leave the lock in that shape.'

"She went down to the dining room and was complaining to Mr. Brown about it. He said 'Well, Bettie, it's your own fault.'

"She came upstairs crying and angry. Very much was said about the jewels. She said it was funny every man in the city could ride home in a street car and Mr. Brown had to have the automobile.

"Mrs. Brown went off to church without her dinner."

The business department has been so systematized that only 10 minutes a day have been required by him to discharge its affairs. Dr. Brown has been able to effect this organization, he says, chiefly because he has not had a single politician under him as head of a department. He has appointed men who did the work, and left him and his two assistants practically free to give all their time to the patients. Dr. Brown has devoted himself to the surgery of the hospital.

He is especially proud of the public clinic instituted by him. It has been visited and praised by noted physicians from foreign countries.

Mayor Wells will appoint Dr. Brown's successor. Superintendent Elbrecht of the Female Hospital has been mentioned for the place.

Still Angry Next Morning.

"After she returned she kept talking about the jewels. I unfastened her clothes and she went to bed. The next morning she was still angry. She kept telling me I was careless. The next morning, which was Sunday, she was fussing about everything. she said I had sewed hooks on her dress wrong. She went to church that evening. When she returned I was writing church letters for her. She was unable to open the door with her latch key, and I went down and opened it.

"She said, 'Grace, did you bolt the door?'

"I said no. She said 'Why didn't you? That's more of your carelessness.' Mr. Brown went to the door. I was gathering up writing material when Mrs. Brown asked me about fixing her skirt. I started to speak and she said: 'You dirty, crazy fool, go up to bed.'

"I had reached the landing when she called me back to her dressing room and told me to unfasten her waist.

Testifies to Blows.

"She was taking the hatpins out of her hat. She had one hatpin in her hand. She turned and struck me three times in the chest and on the arm."

"How did she hold her hand?" asked Attorney Sutherland.

"Her fist was shut. She had her hatpin in her hand. I was afraid that she would strike me with the hatpin and I protected my face. She was screaming and yelling at the top of her voice. I was so frightened, I don't know what she said.

"I ran to my room. Mrs. Brown called Mr. Brown. She ordered me to leave the house. Mr. Brown said he didn't want me to leaeve the house that night."

"How hard did she strike you? Were they love taps?"

"You bet not. They were good and hard. They hurt. When she thumped me on the arm my elbow was knocked against the door. I went to my room. The marks of her knuckles were on my chest and arm. I could not sleep that night. I walked the floor.

Mr. Brown came up and said I would have to sit down if I couldn't lie down, as my walking the floor disturbed Mrs. Brown.

"I was waiting for the morning. I wanted to get out of there. When I was ready to go, about 6:30 the next morning, I knocked at Mrs. Brown's door. She said 'Grace, I want you to forgive me and forget what occurred last night.' She said she couldn't do her church work without me and asked me to stay a few days and consider."

Miss Kelly told of her condition the ensuing days, of a hemorrhage, and of the necessity which arose for her going to a hospital.

"Deuse Fool" Alleged Epithet.

When Attorney Garvin cross-examined Miss Kelly, asked her if there were occasions, other than she had alluded to on the Eastern trip, when Mrs. Brown offended her. The witness said that Mrs. Brown told her at Deal Beach, N. J., that she was crazy and dull and called her a dense fool.

"Mr. Brown, who was across the hall, heard the racket," she said, "and came over. I told him what Mrs. Brown had said to me. I told hi mthat if Mrs. Brown would not speak to me as a lady should speak to a lady, I would come back, and I went to my room."

She had accused me of geting the key to her room from the clerk. I offered to go to the clerk and prove to her that I had not done so. She became greatly enraged. I was provoked, but not offended. There was too vast a difference between Mrs. Brown and I."

SMOOT ATTAGKS POLYGAMY, TALKS IN OWN DEFENSE

Senator Tells Colleagues Plural Marriages No Longer Exist in Utah.

CALLS CHURCH PATRIOTIC

Oath Is Religious, He Says, and Only Fosters Love of the Country.

UPHOLDS HIS OWN VOWS

They Do Not Prevent His Performing Duties as Senator, He Avers.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Speaking in his own defense before the Senate today, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, condemned polygamy in the strongest terms, declaring it does not now exist in Utah and insisted that he had never taken an oath as apostle in the church which would in any way prevent him from discharging the duties of Senator and citizen with the utmost fidelity. He himself had never had but one wife, and would not think of giving his official or personal sanction to any other arrangement in the case of other members of the Mormon Church.

In support of his contention that polygamy was a dead letter among the Mormons, Mr. Smoot took up in great detail the early campaign against the practice by the Government and the tacit agreement on the part of the church to abandon it. The Mormons, he said, at first defended their rights in this respect as a part of their religion. Finally, wishing to obey the law of the land, they agreed to stop the practice, and in 1890 a manifesto was issued discontinuing plural marriages.

Not only are there no more plural marriages, insisted Mr. Smoot, but Mormons in charge of the Utah courts always have rigorously prosecuted any members of their church guilty thereof. Though forbearance on the part of the prosecuting officer resulted in leaving as they were the polygamous relationships consummated prior to the 1890 manifesto, since that time, he said, the church has steadfastly refused to recognize any form other than monogamy and families where there is more than one wife are altogether of the old dispensation.

As an instance of how obsolete polygamy is becoming in his church, Mr. Smoot said that of the seven apostles chosen since 1890, six are Monogamists.

While admitting the possibility of same polygamous marriages being made since the manifesto, Mr. Smoot declared the cases have been rare, and without the church's sanction. In only one case, he declared, has there been direct proof of such plural marriage, and this occurred in a Mormon colony in Mexico. This was in defiance of the solemn commands of the church.

Referring to the alleged treasonable features of the Mormon endowment ceremony, Mr. Smoot declared that rite to be entirely religious in character, and calculated to breed love of country rather than disloyalty. Being sacred, the rite is not divulged to outsiders, but at the same time there is nothing therein preventing a Mormon from being loyal to the United States.

As an instance of how the Mormons love their country, Mr. Smoot told of the large numbers of soldiers furnished by Utah in the Civil and Spanish wars. The commander of the Utah light infantry, he said, was a Mormon, and had taken part in the endowment ceremony, yet where is there a more loyal soldier than he? he asked.

Characterizing "hierarchal" domination as a myth, Mr. Smoot drew a picture of America's future. Built on a foundation of religious tolerance, he said, the nation would grow and prosper, despite the direful prophecies of those who always were finding crises "menacing the life of the republic." The Government is here to stay and to triumph over every obstacle.

In closing, he said:

"Let us say under my obligation as a Senator that what I have said under oath before the committee, that I have never taken any oath or obligation, religious or otherwise, which conflicts in the slightest degree with my duty as a Senator or as a citizen. I owe no allegiance to any church, or other organization, which in any way interferes with my supreme allegiance, in civil affairs, to my country—an allegiance which I freely, fully and gladly give."

ST. LOUISANS DROP MILLION IN PHONE DEAL

Can Sell at 37 Independent Concern Bonds Which They Bought at Par.

STOCK BONUS THE PRIZE

Received $400 Worth of Common With Each $1000 Bond They Took.

BELL FAILED TO ABSORB

Purchasers Were Prominent People Who Looked for Another Wiggins Ferry Coup.

St. Louis investors in the securities of the United States Independent Telephone Co., with headquarters in Rochester, N. Y., have not decided whether they will accept the proposition of the New Jersey Title Guaranty and Trust Co., reputed to be acting for the Bell Telephone Co., to dispose of their holdings at 35 for the bonds, 5 for the common stock and 1 for the common deferred stock. A committee of which Benjamin Altheimer and Edward Faust are members has been appointed to confer with the St. Louis investors relative to the proposition.

W. Roy McCanne, A. J. Mahon and Joseph W. Taylor, representing the Eastern interests, were in St. Louis the latter part of last week to confer with local bondholders. They told the St. Louisans that they could either avail themselves of the opportunity of getting 37 per cent for their securities, or refuse to accept it and face receivership proceedings, in which event they probably would not get over 10 per cent.

A meeting was held in the office of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., but no action was taken on the proposition. Very few of the original investors have sold their bonds, and practically all of the heaviest holders still own them.

It is estimated that between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000 of the securities of the United States Independent Telephone Co. were sold in St. Louis in the fall of 1905. St. Louis investors bought the bonds, which were collateral trust 30-year 5s, at par, receiving as a speculative feature, stock amounting to 40 per cent of the bonds.

The bonds were issued in denominations of $1000 each, and four shares of stock were given as a bonus with each bond. Subscriptions for the bonds were received in St. Louis by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., the Commonwealth Trust Co., Altheimer & Rawlings Investment Co. and Bauer Bros. Other brokers also bought the bonds for their customers.

Purchasers of the bonds say they were surprised when a few months later the bonds began to depreciate in value and finally, a month ago, sold as low as 12. Since then they have advanced to 20 or 30. The offer of the New Jersey Trust Co., if accepted, will net the investors 37 per cent of their original outlay. In other words, every St. Louis bondholder stands to lose 63 per cent of whatever he put in the bonds.

The Heaviest Investors.

Among the heaviest investors in St. Louis were Adolphus Busch, William F. Nolker, William D. Orthwein, Walter Orthwein, Henry Nicholas, Breckinridge Jones, August Gehner, George M. Wright, many other prominent people, and a number of others who invested the savings of years in the bonds.

Of these men Busch, Gehner, Jones and Nolker were directors in the United States Independent Telephone Co. This company was organized under the laws of New Jersey with a capitalzatiin of $50,000,000 to establish independent telephone plants throughout the country. It was the general belief of investors that the bonds themselves would not only prove a good investment, but that the stock given as a bonus would have an immediate value, and in the course of time greatly increase in value.

The company started in business by purchasing, as its principal asset, the plant of the Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co. of Rochester. The Rochester Telephone Co. was also purchased.

In the prospectus issued in 1905 it was stated that the United States Independent Telephone Co. had acquired a controlling interest in the New York Independent Telephone Co., with an authorized capitalization of $50,000,000. This company was reputed to have a franchise in the city of New York, where, it was stated that as soon as practical, and in the near future, it was intended to construct an independent telephone system.

One of the strong arguments used in disposing of the stock was that this franchise was valuable, and would enable the company to invade the stronghold of the Bell Co. and establish a rival system.

Soon after the bonds were floated a statement was issued by the Comptroller of the City of New York, stating that if the United States Independent Telephone Co., owned or had acquired a franchise in New York he did not know anything about it. Subsequently New York officials held that the company had no valid franchise, although St. Louis persons who are financially interested say that their franchise is identical with that of the Bell Co. and that eminent lawyers have advised that it is perfectly legal.

Expected Absorption by Bell.

Many local investors, at the time they purchased the securities, believed that when the interests of the Bell company were menaced in New York by a formidable rival there would be a great appreciation of the value of the stock.

While not so represented, they believed that the Bell company would be forced to absorb its independent competitor, in which event they expected a repetition of the Wiggins ferry stock deal in St. Louis, in which stock valued at less than $200 went as high as $1500 a share.

The speculative feature of the proposition was attractive to investors, and it is said that the demand for the securities was little short of phenomenal. Some investors said they had to hurry, fearing they would not get in on the ground floor.

Bonds to the amount of $13,500,000 were sold principally in Rochester, St. Louis, Kansas City, Cleveland and Louisville. It is said that 45 per cent of the securities were floated in Rochester, many of the big manufacturers being heavily interested.

CLOUDS AND FREEZING NIGHT

Temperature to Be 32 Degrees Tuesday Evening.

The summer days which have been served to St. Louis like hothouse strawberries in January are about to reach an end. The temperature Tuesday night will not go below freezing, but the prospects are for increasing cloudiness and the bluster of winter, if not low temperatures.

The forecast issued Tuesday was: Fair tonight, followed by Increasing cloudiness Wednesday; no decided change in temperature; variable winds; minimum temperature Tuesday night about 32 degrees.

The minimum temperature Monday night was 32 degrees and the maximum temperature for that day was 66 degrees between 2 and 3 p. m. The storm area which was central over the Mississippi Valley Monday has moved eastward rapidly and Tuesday morning was central over Lake Erie. It caused precipitation in the Mississippi Valley and all districts east, except the Atlantic Coast.

Rain and snow fall have been reported from North and South Dakota and the State of Washington. The temperature has fallen on the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains and in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys, but has risen somewhat in other sections of the country.

LEGISLATOR STRICKEN WITH SMALLPOX; THE SESSION MAY CLOSE

Barker of Macon, Democratic Leader, Taken From His Hotel to Cole County Hospital --Fifty Cases Reported in Jefferson City and Epidemic Spreads.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—Jefferson City is experiencing a smallpox epidemic. More than fifty cases of the disease have developed and there is a possibility that the General Assembly may have to adjourn until the danger is passed. Today Representative John Barker of Macon County, one of the important eaders on the Democratic side in the House of Represntatives, was removed from his hotel to the County Hospital, a victim of the contagion. Barker is the author of several bills fostered by Gov. Folk for the regulation of the liquor traffic.

The information of Barker's illness and the fact that he was stricken with the disease in one of the largest hotels of the city, reached the Capitol shortly before the noon recess of the Legislature was taken.

Senator McAllister of Monroe County voiced the sentiments of other members when he declared that steps should be immediately taken to ascertain the extent of the disease in the capital city.

"It was my understanding," said Senator McAllister to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, "that the disease was in check, but, judging from today's developments, this does not appear to be the case."

Recently a malignant case appeared in a private boarding house, where one of the representatives was staying. The House members met quietly and informed the Representative that he would not be permitted to attend the sessions until it was positively assured he had escaped all danger of attack.

The members of the City Board of Health appeared before the House and Senate this afternoon and urged all members to be vaccinated. Dr. Lopp, city physician, however, says there is no immediate cause for alarm, and that the fifty or more cases under treatment are being controlled. He will urge the Assembly not to adjourn.

The members of the St. Louis delegation are uneasy and most of them probably will leave for their homes tonight. Senator Kinney's family was due here today. He wired them not to come because of the threatening epidemic.

It appears that the first case was discovered about four weeks ago, following a social gathering attended largely by residents of Centertown and Sedalia. According to the Post-Dispatch's informant, there are at least 52 known cases and each of them is regarded as serious. The cases have been increasing at the rate of two a day.

30 KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Many Others Hurt in Mine Near Monterey, Mexico.

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 19.—Word has reached Laredo in telegrams from Monterery, Mex., of a disastrous mine explosion in the La Conquista Mine No. 2, of the Las Eperanza District, in which 30 miners are known to have lost their lives. The dead and injured, however, may be increased to 75 when full details are received.

According to meager reports, the explosion occurred at 7 o'clock last night, shortly after the night shift had commenced work. It is thought to have been caused by gas which ignited from a defective lamp carried by one of the miners.

Las Eperanzas is a town of about 5000 inhabitants and is made up almost entirely of employes of the coal mines. It is situated about 75 miles from Eagle Pass, Tex.

House Passes Act to Regulate Incoporations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—The House today passed Representative Sosey's bill permitting corporations to incorporate in Missouri with a capital stock of $50,000,000 or less. The law now prohibits the incorporation of any company with a capital of more than $10,000,000. It is Representative Sosey's belief that the change will result in much more foreign capital coming into Missouri. The Secretary of State several months ago refused to charter the brewery combine in St. Louis, the proposed capital of which was to be $14,000,000, although $4,000,000 of the property was in Illinois.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—The House today killed the bill requiring that exchanges of different telephone companies in the same town be connected to enable the subscribers of one company to have the service of the other company upon the payment of 3 cents a message.

The bill was opposed by the small telephone companies over the State, though there was no apparent opposition from the Kinlach and Bell companies. The bill was killed by being laid on the table. A two-thirds vote is required to take a bill from the table.

EVELYN THAW ENDS HER STORY; TELLS OF WHITE'S OTHER GIRLS

Prisoner's Wife, Relating What Jerome Calls "Tenderloin Gossip," Says Architect's Famous "Pie-Girl" Died in Poverty, Cast Off by Her Husband.

WHITE SNEERED AT HER AS A WIFE, SHE SAYS

Thaw Buries His Face in His Hands When She Repeats Stories Which, Defense Claims, Drove Him Mad—Jerome Reserves Right to Cross-Examine.

HARRY THAW'S DESCRIPTION OF STANFORD WHITE'S "DENS"

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—One of the papers identified while Evelyn Thaw was testifying today was a letter from Thaw to Anthony Comstock, in which Thaw discribed the studio in the Madison Square Tower, and said it was filled with obscene pictures and should be raided. He also described the studio at 22 West Twenty-fourth street, which he said was "consecrated to debauchery," and was used by "a gang of rich criminals." He described the studio and said there were many indecent pictures there.

In this building, the letter said, were the famous red velvet swing, and the mirrored bedroom. He inclosed a sketch of the arrangements of the rooms. "Workmen on the outside of the building," says the letter, "have frequently heard the screams of young girls from this building."

The letter called attention to still another house, saying: "You may also abolish another place at 122 East Twenty-second street—a house used secretly by three or four of the same scoundrels. Young girls are taken there to perform a felony. In one of the rooms is a French painting of a nude woman and suggestive literature."

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was the first witness at the morning's session of the trial of her husband for the murder of Stanford White, and she concluded her testimony, so far as the direct examination is concerned. At 11:47 o'clock Attorney Delmas for the defense turned to District Attorney Jerome and said: "Take the witness." Mr. Jerome, however, reserved the right to cross-examine Mrs. Thaw until he decides whether or not it is necessary to cross-examine her on the issues raised.

Mrs. Thaw was able this morning to bring into her testimony some more of what the District Attorney has characterized as "Tenderloin gossip." Among other stories, she related that of the "pie girl"—the maiden who was the chief exhibit at a dinner part given by Stanford White. She said White himself had told her how the girl appeared in nothing but a gauze robe when the huge pie fell apart on the banquet table. She said Thaw told her later that the girl had married, but that her husband had learned of her relations with the architect and had cast her off and that she died in disgrace and poverty.

Mrs Thaw also testified that she met Evelyn at May MacKenzie's bedside in 1904 and said the architect tried to embrace her.

She said Miss McKenzie had told her later that Stanford White, when informed of Evelyn's happy married life with Harry Thaw said: "Pooh! It won't last long. I'll get her back."

"One more question and then I am through," remarked Mr. Delmas, at the end of Mrs. Thaw's statement.

"Pardon me for asking, Mrs. Thaw. Did Mr. Thaw tell you that any of Stanford White's practices on young women were unnatural?"

"Yes."

"Can you describe them?"

Mrs. Thaw flushed.

"Oh, no," she said, in a shrill little voice; "they are unspeakable."

"Now you may take the witness," said Mr. Delmas to the District Attorney.

Smiles at Her Husband.

Mrs. Thaw looked pale and serious as she took her place on the stand. She appeared in the same simple, girlish costume that she has worn every day since the trial began. She smiled slightly as she caught her husband's eye. Thaw returned the smile and kept his eyes on his wife.

After Mrs. Thaw had sat in the witness chair for nearly five minutes, Mr. Delmas, for the defense, began the examination.

"You have already testified, Mrs. Thaw, that you are familiar with the handwriting of Stanford White," said the attorney.

"I now hand you a paper and ask if from beginning to end it is in the handwriting of Mr. White?"

Mrs. Thaw gazed at the paper, evidently a letter, and said:

"It is his handwriting."

Mr. Delmas handed the witness six other letters, and these also were identified as having come from Stanford White. The letters were marked as defendant's exhibits Q, R, S, T, U, V and W.

Identifies 41 of White's Letters.

Letter after letter Mr. Delmas handed the witness and she identified each one by a simple inclination of her head. She took the letters in her hand one at a time, and merely glanced at each before she returned it to the attorney. When Mrs. Thaw had identified 30 letters Mr. Delmas returned to the counsel table, and then brought forth a new package and the work of identification continued.

In all Mrs. Thaw identified 42 letters. She was nearly half an hour at the task.

When the examination of the letters was concluded Mr. Delmas turned to the witness.

"How long have you known May MacKenzie?"

"Since 1901."

"How long has Mr. Thaw known her?"

"Since 1904."

"Did you, in May, 1906, relate to Mr. Thaw a conversation you had with May MacKenzie especially with reference to what she said to you regarding Stanford White?"

Says Thaw Sobbed at Night.

"Yes. He always talked about it. He would waken me often at night, sobbing. And then he would constantly ask me questions about the details of this terrible thing."

"Did you visit May MacKenzie at her apartments in 1904?"

"Yes; she was ill and sent me a letter to come to see her."

"While you were there, did Stanford White come in?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell Mr. Thaw of anything that then occurred?"

"Yes. Stanford White spoke to me several time, and I always answered yes or no. He then came over to straighten a bow on my hair. My hair was short, having been cut off at the time of my first operation. Then Stanford White tried to put his arms around me and wanted me to sit beside him on the bed. I told him to leave me alone."

Mrs. Thaw said that Harry Thaw always attributed her ill health, the necessity of the second operation, etc., to Stanford White. Mrs. Thaw also testified that Thaw had told her he was going to take up Stanford White's affairs with Anthony Comstock.

"I told him it would do no good, that Stanford White had many influential friends, and that he could stop it. I told him that lots of people would not believe the things about Stanford White on account of his personality."

Testimony Affects Thaw.

During the early examination of his wife, Thaw continued to converse with Mr. O'Reilly and Dr. Evans, occasionally smiling at one or the other. When she reached the point where she told of his feelings when White's name was mentioned he buried his face in his hands.

"Did you and Mr. Thaw discuss the fate of other young women at the hands of Stanford White, and did you tell him certain names?"

Mr. Jerome objected. "Counsel keeps up this incessant leading, leading, leading," commented Mr. Jerome. "I must object."

Mr. Delmas reframed the question and Mrs. Thaw said she and her husband had discussed a number of young womon.

"Are they the same as mentioned in the codicil to Mr. Thaw's will?"

"I haven't seen the codicil."

The codicil was shown. Mrs. Thaw read it, and said the names were the same.

Story of the "Pie Girl."

"Did you and Mr. Thaw discuss the fate of the 'pie girl?'"

"Yes, sir. It was in Paris in 1905. He asked me what other girls I knew of who had suffered at the hands of Stanford White. I told him I had heard of the pie girl, whose name was known to both of us. A girl at the theater had told me about it, and that night when Stanford White came to my dressing room I asked him about it. He asked

PIERCE IS IN NEW YORK TO STAY, HE SAYS

Waters-Pierce Magnate a "Permanent Guest" of the Waldorf-Astoria.

HE IS WANTED IN TEXAS

Indicted on Perjury Charge, Requisition Has Been Issued for Him.

TO MAKE NO STATEMENT

Simply Cannot Discuss Alleged False Affidavits, He Tells Reporter.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—H. Clay Pierce of St. Louis, chairman of the board of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., who is wanted in Austin, Tex., on a charge of perjury, is "stopping in New York permanently," according to an announcement from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last night.

When Post-Dispatch reporters asked for Mr. Pierce at the Waldorf-Astoria early last evening the answer from the hotel emeployes was: "Mr. Pierce is stopping here permanently, but is not in." When Mr. Pierce was found at the hotel later he refused absolutely to discuss the requisition for his return to Texas issued by Gov. Campbell of Texas and now in the hands of Gov. Folk.

ARGUMENTS ON THE REQUISITION DELAYED.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 18.—Gov. Folk said today that he would not grant attorneys for H. Clay Pierce an extension of several days for a hearing on the requisition from Texas for Mr. Pierce, who is charged with perjury in the making of an affidavit that the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. had no connection with any trust. Wednesday afternoon, the Governor said, was the latest time to which he would permit the hearing to be extended.

The Sheriff of Travis County, Texas, has been wired to come to Jefferson City. This officer is the legal agent of the State of Texas and on his arrival the Governor said today, the hearing on the requisition will be held.

The Governor today received a letter from Attorney J. D. Johnson of St. Louis, representing Mr. Pierce, asking an extension of time. Attorney Johnson says he has only recently returned from Texas and that because of other business he cannot be in Jefferson City for several days. He also says Pierce is now in New York and has no intention of returning to Missouri for at least ten days.

The hearing will not be held this afternoon, the time originally set by the Governor, because of the request of Johnson and the fact that the Texas Sheriff has not reached the city.

According to the papers received by Gov. Folk, an indictment was returned by the grand jury of Travis County, [illegible] Nov. 1, 1906. The requisition [illegible] is [illegible] the date of Feb. 11, and is attested [illegible] of N. M. Nagel, a notary public. The St. Louis's witnesses are Miss N. M. Nagel, [illegible] H. Hardy and J. P. Gruet of Jefferson County, Texas. Hardy was Secretary of State and Miss Nagel a stenographer and notary in his office.

The information charges Mr. Pierce with perjury. The indictment is based on an affidavit he made in May, 1900, as the head of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. in Texas, alleging that it was not connected with any other corporation, with a view of controlling prices.

It is said that the affidavit required of corporations in Texas alleging their nonconnection with trusts or combines is similar in most respects to the affidavit required in Missouri. Gov. Folk received no copy of the Texas affidavit.

The requisition papers were brought here by Deputy Sheriff Hall of Travis County, who thought he could act in the place of the Sheriff. Gov. Folk informed him that only the person named by the Governor of Texas as agent for that State could be recognized. The deputy at once telegraphed for the Sheriff, who, it is expected, will arrive tonight.

The indictment against Mr. Pierce is due to the revelation obtained by Attorney-General Hadley in the ouster proceedings he introduced against the Standard Oil Co.

It is thought that the indictment is based on the testimony Mr. Pierce gave before Commissioner Anthony at the Southern Hotel, when he told the relationships which had existed between the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. and the Standard Oil Co. for a period of several years.

Gov. Folk said that several days ago he received a letter from John D. Johnson of St. Louis, in which he stated that he anticipated an effort on the part of Texas authorities to try and extradite Mr. Pierce, and asked to be heard in opposition to a requisition, if one was received.

READ THAW TESTIMONY, IS PREACHER'S ADVICE.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PLAINWELL, Mich., Feb. 19.—"Every man and woman, every boy and girl should read the newspaper accounts of the Thaw trial—should read every word of it."

This was the emphatic statement of Rev. Thomas Laity, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, before a large audience, in an address on "The Model Wife."

"It is all nonsense, this talk of excluding the account of the trial in the newspapers or to withhold it from children," he continued. "Every father and every mother should read it and know how to guard their daughters. All young girls and women should read it and know how to protect themselves from being ruined in a similar way. It is worse than foolishness to believe we must bring up children to know nothing of these things.

"Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, whatever her past life may have been, stands forth today in one sense as a model wife, in that she had shown loyalty in its truest meaning to her husband, even though he may be unworthy of her. Her sacrifice of her character to save her husband should win for this poor, mistreated, deceived girl the sympathy of all."

EVELYN THAW'S TESTIMONY ENDS, UP TO JEROME

me where I had heard the story. I told him a girl had told me. Then he told me all about it."

"There was a stag dinner, he said, and this girl was put in a big pie with a lot of birds. She was very young—about 15 years, I think he said. He also told me that the girl had a beautiful figure, and wore only a gauze dress. He helped put her in the pie and fix it, and said it was the best stunt he ever saw at a dinner. When the girl jumped out of the pie the birds flew all about the room."

Paper Suppressed the Story.

At a dinner party at the St. Regis in 1904, when Mr. and Mrs. Thaw and another man were present, the guest told Mr. Thaw the story of the pie girl.

"He said," Mrs. Thaw continued, "that Mr. White and another man had trouble about it—trouble to keep it out of the newspapers. He said they went on their knees to the editor of one newspaper to keep the story out of the paper, and finally, through the influence of a friend, they had it suppressed."

"What newspaper was it?"

"The American."

"What did Mr. Thaw say?"

"He said he must investigate this story, and see what the truth of it was."

"When did he next talk about this story?"

"The next time was in Pittsburg, when we were married. He told me that the girl was dead.

"He said he had investigated the story and that it was true; that afterward the girl married, but her husband heard the story of her connection with Mr. White and that he cast her off and she died in great poverty and disgrace."

"Did you and Mr. Thaw often speak of these girls?"

"Yes. There was a constant conversation. I could not possibly tell you every place and every time we discussed it. He told me something ought to be done about the girls. I told him I could not do anything. He then said I could help him. I tried to get his mind on other things, and then he would say I was trying to get out of it.

"He said Stanford White ought to be in the Penitentiary; that he got worse and worse all the time, and something had to be done."

"You may take the witness," said Mr. Delmas to Mr. Jerome.

The moment of waiting for the prosecutor's first question was interrupted by Mr. Delmas, who had a few more papers for the witness to identify.

Mr. Jerome reserved the right to cross-examine Mrs. Thaw until he decides if cross-examination is necessary on the issues raised.

Mrs. J. J. Caine of Boston was called to the stand.

The Boston milliner took the stand. Mrs. Caine is a petite young woman, with an abundance of brown hair, worn pompadour. She was smartly attired in a dark brown suit and wore a toque of brown fur.

Mrs. Caine said she had known Mrs. Evelyn Thaw and Mrs. Holman, her mother, for six years, and Thaw for three years.

"Were you, in 1903, in New York and present when there occurred a conversation between Mr. Thaw and Mrs. Holman, in which Mr. Thaw made a proposal of marriage?"

"I was."

"State what that conversation was."

"I was in the room when Mr. Thaw called. He told Mrs. Holman that he wanted to marry Florence"—Florence being the name by which Evelyn Nesbit was called by her mother.

"What happened after Mr. Thaw made this proposal?"

"I then left the room."

"Did you accompany Mr. and Mrs. Thaw to a theater late in 1903, or early in 1904?" asked Mr. Delmas.

"Yes; we went to Daly's and occupied a box."

"Did Stanford White come in?"

"Yes; he came in with three other men, and sat in a box just opposite."

"What effect did this have upon Mr. Thaw?"

"He looked at the box, his face turned white and his eyes popped in a wide stare."

"How long did he look that way?"

"He continued to look at the box until Miss Nesbit told him that if he did not stop she would take him from the theater."

"What happened next?"

"Stanford White got up and went out, and we remained."

"You may have the witness, Mr. Jerome," said Attorney Delmas.

On cross-examination Mr. Jerome asked Mrs. Caine several questions regarding the visit to the theater with Thaw and said, "When next did you see Thaw?"

"In Mrs. Nesbit's apartments."

"Were you in the room?"

Saw From the Bathroom.

"No, I was in the bathroom adjoining, but the door was ajar, and I could see and hear plainly."

"How did you happen to be in the bathroom?"

"When Mr. Thaw telephoned up to the room Mrs. Nesbit asked me to go into the bathroom, so I could hear what was said."

"Did she tell you anything about Thaw?"

"Not then. Sometime before she had told me that Mr. Thaw was interested in Evelyn."

"Did Mrs. Nesbit give any reason for asking you to go into the bathroom?"

"She said she wanted me to hear what Mr. Thaw said."

"What I am trying to get at is why she made this rather unusual request that you act as an eavesdropper—"

Mr. Delmas was on his feet, exclaiming:

"I object, and desire to note an exception on the ground of misconduct of the District Attorney."

"Well," said Mr. Jerome, "it is unusual"—

"I protest, and note another exception on the same ground," broke in Mr. Delmas.

"Well, all right, I'll go at it another way. Mrs. Caine, did not you consider it an unusual performance?"

"I did not consider it at all."

"All that happened some time before Mrs. Nesbit told you that Thaw was interested in Florence, and when he telephoned up all she said was to ask you to go into the bathroom and listen?"

"Yes."

"What did Thaw say first?"

"I don't remember."

"Well, what do you remember of the conversation?"

"He told Mrs. Nesbit something about his desire to send Florence to Europe, and said if she would marry him he would settle enough on Mrs. Nesbit and Howard to keep them forever. Mrs. Nesbit said she would try and fix it so Florence would accept him."

"How long were you in the bathroom?"

"Only a few moments. Mr. Thaw did not stay long."

"When you came out, what did Mrs. Nesbit say to you?"

"She said, 'Now you see his intentions are honorable.'"

"Had there been any discussion as to whether his intentions were or were not honorable?"

"No."

"What next did Mrs. Nesbit say?"

"She said she wanted me to help her to induce Evelyn to take Mr. Thaw as a husband."

Judge Upholds Jerome.

Mr. Jerome pursued his questioning at great length, asking Mrs. Caine to detail every time she saw and talked with either Evelyn Thaw or her mother or Thaw himself. He endeavored to bring out the fact from the witness that on the second trip Harry Thaw and Evelyn made to Europe, Evelyn's mother did not accompany them. This was in 1904. Mr. Delmas objected strenuously to this line of cross-examination, but Justice Fitzgerald upheld the District Attorney, who declared he was not indirectly attacking the credicility of Mrs. Thaw, but was testing the credibility of the witness, Mrs. Caine.

Mr. Delmas noted many exceptions, declaring the movements of young Mrs. Thaw's mother could not constitute evidence against the defendant.

"Did Mrs. Evelyn Thaw tell you that her mother was not on the second trip to Europe?" finally asked Mr. Jerome.

"She did not," replied the witness.

"Did you see Mrs. Thaw's mother in this country while her daughter was in Europe in 1904?"

"Yes, once, here in New York."

"Did you discuss Miss Nesbit's whereabouts?"

"We did not."

"When did you next see Miss Nesbit, for Mrs. Thaw?"

"After her return from Europe."

"Where did Miss Nesbit then live?"

"In Ninety-first street, most of the time; part of the time at the Gregorian in Thirty-seventh street."

The house in Ninety-first street, the witness said, was a private house. Besides the Nesbits and Thaws she saw no one there but the maid.

"Did Miss Nesbit live for a time at the Cumberland?"

"Not that I know of."

Mrs. Caine explained that she often dined with Miss Nesbit. They usually went to the St. Regis. The witness knew several restaurants specified by the District Attorney, but said she did not know Churchill's.

"During the time did you ever have conversations with Mr. Thaw?"

"Yes."

Mr. Delmas objected to her telling of these conversations and he was upheld.

Had No Financial Dealings.

The witness never had any pecuniary dealings with Mr. or Mrs. Thaw.

"During the two months you and Miss Nesbit were so much together, and you so often saw Mr. Thaw, do you know where he lived?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"No."

"You never heard?"

"Never."

"You had read in the papers about the Hotel Cumberland?"

Mr. Delmas objected. Mr. Jerome explained to the Court that he had a right to ask the questions in an attempt to show, if possible, that the witness had not told all she knew or that she was mistaken. After a wordy dispute between the lawyers, Mr. Delmas withdrew his objection, and Mrs. Caine said she had read of the Cumberland.

"When this Cumberland episode occurred, where were you?" asked Mr. Jerome.

Mr. Delmas objected to the use of the word "episode," declaring there was no such thing in the testimony.

"I went to live with Florence."

"Where?"

"In Ninety-first street."

"Who suggested your going?"

"Nobody; I went of my own will to take care of Florence."

"Did she ask you to go?"

"No. She came to the department store where I was working late one afternoon, and I told her I was about to take an apartment, and asked her to come and live with me. We looked up advertisements in the paper, found the Ninety-first street apartment and started there that night. It was a furnished apartment."

SOUTHWEST LAND IN FULL BLOSSOM

Sturdy Men Turn Arid Reaches of Soil Into Productive Areas.

MAN WITH THE HOE WINS

Rain Falls in Desert Regions When Earth Is Upturned, Says Traveler.

The arid West myth has been exploded by the plow shares of 10,000 sons of Texas and Iowa drawn into the Great American Desert by the recent statehood agitation, according to P. Van Houten, an engineer of Raton, N. M., who is stopping at the Jefferson Hotel.

"The published bans of a statehood that failed have nearly ruined the opportunities for writers of desert stories in the romantic Southwest," says Mr. Van Houten. "The playwright or the fictionist who expects to seize upon the local color of dead men's bones that have left their bleached tales in the great silences had better hurry before the man with the hoe has turned all the romance into long furrows that are already giving birth to cereals coaxed from the soil without the artificial help of the irrigation ditch.

"Generations of farmers have been scared out of the wealth of vast acreage by the man with a facile pen and a vivid imagination of death valleys and places of many skulls.

Rail Follows Ploughshare.

"Dry farming by the late invaders of Eastern New Mexico has proved the desert a myth. Close on the heels of the plowman who tackled the hard crust of a soil never pierced before, rain has fallen as if attracted by the establishment of electric currents between the sky and the upturned earth. In the last three years I have seen more rain fall on the work of these settlers than during all my 18 years in New Mexico and Arizona.

"The dead statehood issue did one great thing for both of these territories. It held up the desert idea that has been the stagnation of the extreme Southwest ever since the early Spanish occupation. It will save the expenditure of millions of money for unneeded storage reservoirs and systems of canals. Letters from settlers to thousands in the older civilizations is bringing the vanguard of an army that will in the next ten years turn the desert into a paradise.

"New Mexico and Arizona are getting the benefit of a big advertisement out of the statehood movement. Its direct results will enable the populations to get along until we have another chance to join the sisterhood of States."

Can't Get American Laborers.

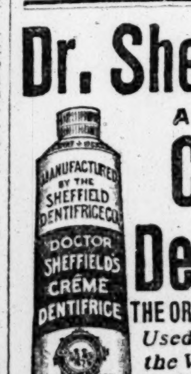

"The railway and mining interests with which I am identified are working nothing but Slavs, Italians and Japanese. It is poor labor. We would rather have Americans and pay them more money, but we can't get them. They are rapidly going into the farming business, while the alien overflow of the big cities is dumping itself into the camps. The Japanese are coolies and know nothing of working farms.

"My experience with them shows that they are poor laborers. If you have a difference with one the whole flock migrates. Tonight you may have a gang of Japs. Tomorrow they will be missing. They are not miners. Slavs and Italians are even driving the Americans from the metal mines.

"With these sociological conditions confronting us, we have the reassuring knowledge in the West that the American is dropping the field of mere wage toil and going in for the dignity of agricultural pursuits where brain power is needed more than has ever been realized before. Recognition of the science of farming, in my opinion, is only the beginning of a new American virility, based upon the explosion of the arid myth.

"The reward is shown by the increase in value of desert acreage within five years from 50 cents to $10 and even $25."

BASEBALL STAKE IN PALM ST. FIGHT

First and Nineteenth Ward Property Owners Line Up Against Robison.

DOOM OF SPORT IS FEARED

Chairman Wiedmer of Committee in Charge Will Recommend Public Hearing.

Public hearings promised by Chairman Fred Wiedmer of the Public Improvements Committee of the House of Delegates promise to renew the bitter controversy over the vacation of Palm street through the National League baseball park. A bill passed by the Council Dec. 18, 1906, and now in the hands of the House committee, contemplates the abandonment of the thoroughfare. Many citizens and owners of property in the Ninteenth and First wards oppose its passage, while M. Stanley Robison, president of the baseball club, and a large number of partisans, are endeavoring to have the House take favorable action.

If the measure fails of adoption and approval this spring and its opponents are strong in their faith that they can defeat it—the fate of baseball at the park during the season of 1907 will be very uncertain. With only a few weeks until the opening of the season, Mr. Robison is still doubtful as to the wisdom of making many improvements in grand stands and buildings, while the possibility of the bill's legislative burial confronts him.

The park has an area of 705 feet by [illegible] feet. It is part of the Lindell Fair Ground addition to St. Louis, and when platted 15 years ago a survey for the continuance of Palm street from Prairie avenue to Vandeventer avenue was made.

A lease given by Chris Von der Ahe and others prevented the opening of Palm street at that time. The lease, which is now held by Mr. Robison, expires next October. Many owners of property contend that when the term of the lease ends Palm street should be opened from Prairie to Vandeventer avenue. To prevent the division of the park and its destruction as ball grounds, Mr. Robison a year ago had introduced into the Municipal Assembly a bill vacating Palm street for 15 years. Both branches passed the bill, but Mayor Wells vetoed it on the ground that it was in conflict with the general law which forbids the vacation of public highways for definite periods.

Robison Asked New Bill.

Last fall Mr. Robison requested Vice-President Rolfes of the Council to present a new bill, providing for the permanent abandonment of Palm street. It was passed by the Council, with an amendment requiring Robison to give a bond to guarantee the city against damages arising from litigation in opposition to its provisions. That bill went to the House Dec. 18 and has been in the hands of the Public Improvements Committee ever since.

Chairman Wiedmer Tuesday told the Post-Dispatch that he had a request from the Nineteenth Ward Improvement Association that a public hearing be granted. He said he would recommend a hearing this week.

Robison Is Hopeful.

Mr. Robison told a reporter for the Post-Dispatch Tuesday that he believed the bill will pass. He says he has assurances of support from property owners who regard the park as a help to business.

"I own 700 feet south of the park, and I don't see why I shouldn't have some consideration as well as others," said Mr. Robison. "Aside from my investment in the park, I have other interests in the neighborhood and I don't see why there is any assertion made that I am trying to injure property adjacent to the park. I would be injuring myself, if the presence of the park were an injury."

Even if the House of Delegates should pass the bill within a week, it is not probable that it could become an ordinance before the beginning of the baseball season. Mayor Wells is out of the city to remain for several weeks, and it is not regarded as likely that Acting Mayor Forman would sign the bill.

If the opposition should force the House of Delegates to defeat the bill or delay its consideration until the end of the present session, Mr. Robison would be kept guessing as to the benefit of his investment. Meantime both factions—those who, with Mr. Robison hold that the park is an advantage, and those who say it is a detriment to the development of the section—are preparing for a vigorous fight.

were heavily interested in the company were George Eastman, the kodak man; Edward Bausch, the optical manufacturer; Walter B. Duffy, the whisky manufacturer; Hiram W. Sibley of the great Sibley estate, Eugene Satterlee and many others of great wealth and influence. St. Louis investors are said to have become interested in the company through a proposition submitted to them on account of the business of a local telephone company which placed large orders with the Stromberg-Carlson concern. Joseph J. Heim of the Kansas City Home Telephone Co. took a large interest, and was made one of the company's directors.

Local investors were very much chagrined when the stock began slumping after the announcement was made in New York that the company had no valid franchise. One St. Louis man invested the earnings of 35 years and went away to the mountains, thinking that in the course of a few years his stock would net him a fortune. While he was there he was informed by a St. Louis broker that the bonds were a drug on the market at 45. They kept on going down until they touched the lowest mark about a month ago.

A St. Louis director gives the following explanation of the cause of the trouble:

The Stromberg-Carlson Co., which was the principal asset of the United States Independent Telephone Co., was earning large dividends when it was purchased, about $9,000,000 being used to pay for its holdings. Immediately after its purchase the business of the company greatly increased.

Its orders had come in from all parts of the country, and it was soon in a position where it had to make heavy outlays for materials. Something like $2,000,000 worth of raw material was purchased for cash. It required considerable time to convert the raw material into telephones, and collect money from customers to whom they were sold.

The company had to meet its payroll as well as carry these heavy obligations for material. It was a case, the director says, of too much prosperity. The company's paper was placed in large amounts with eastern brokers, but about last May, during the tight money market, these brokers began demanding their money. The company collected all of its accounts it could, but was not able to raise sufficient funds to take up all of its paper.

$2,500,000 Was Insufficient.

Some of the Rochester backers of the enterprise went to the assistance of the company last October and issued $2,500,000 in short term 6-percent notes, but even this amount of money was not sufficient to tide the Stromberg-Carlson Co. over the emergency. The Rochester security holders refused to put up any more money, and began to look around for an avenue of escape.

About the same time the New York City officials declared that the only franchise the company had in New York was for a burglar alarm, which was entirely worthless for telephone purposes. This caused a still further slump in the market value of the securities.

Then the Rochester bondholders who were heavily involved constituted themselves into a Bondholders' Committee, of which Eastman, Sibley, James S. Watson, Duffy, Bausch and Thomas W. Finucane, president of the company, were members.

Eastman and Watson went to the officers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the long distance end of the Bell, and offered to dispose of their interests in the independent properties. They got an offer of $350 for each $1000 bond, $5 for each share of common stock and $1 for each share of common deferred. This offer was made upon the provision that 76 per cent of the bond issue of $13,500,000 and 67 per cent of the stock be deposited with the Security Trust Co. of Rochester, or contracted for, prior to March 2.

The Rochester people, holding bonds to the value of several million dollars, accepnted this proposition and agreed to deliver their stock to the representatives of the Bell interests. These same security holders also authorized the New Jersey Guaranty and Title Trust Co. to invest whatever was due them on their United States Independent bonds in bonds of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The Bell company wanted to acquire 76 per cent of the bonds to thwart any attempt on the part of the minority bondholders to have the affairs of the company placed in the hands of a receiver.

There is considerable reluctance on the part of many local investors to dispose of their bonds at the price offered. They say that the Eastern men who so strongly recommended the bonds as an investment at par are the same who are now asking the local investors to take $35 for what they paid $100 a little over a year ago. They cannot comprehend, they say, how a proposition which was so highly recommended by men whose names stood for much in the financial world could prove so disastrous.

St. Louis lawyers and doctors were the special losers in the deal. Many lawyers who hold the bonds are trying to find some way of obtaining legal redress.

It is understood that some St. Louis attorneys have recommended that suit be brought against certain Rochester directors, on the theory that they owned stock in the Bell company at the same time they were promoting the independent telephone company.

In Rochester there has been formed a Bondholders' Protective Committee, which will begin civil action against all of the United States Independent Telephone promoters to recover the entire amount of their investments in the event that the Bell gets control of the stock. The attorneys for the Bondholders' Protective Committee have advised them that there is no question of the liability of the company to its investors. One of the points upon which this theory of law is based is that the bonds were sold upon the declaration that the company owned a franchise in New York.

A telegram to the Post-Dispatch from Rochester states that there is a feeling there that the Bell may refuse to take the bonds of the United States Independent even if 76 per cent are deposited with the trust company, believing that in the event of receivership proceedings it could purchase the properties for less than half of the present offer.

Some other independent companies are said to be trying to raise money to make a better offer than that which purports to come from the Bell, but it is said to be doubtful whether they can raise the $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 needed.

If the St. Louis investors refuse to accept the offer of 35 and 5 they can prevent the consummation of the proposed deal with the Bell. There are $2,500,000 worth of the bonds tied up with a Rochester trust company as collateral security on the loan of the same amount made on the notes of the directors last fall, and under these circumstances it would be necessary for the Bell to acquire practically all of the other outstanding bonds in order to get 76 per cent.

Breckinridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., one of the directors of the United States Independent, refused to talk for publication about the affairs of the company. Other brokers who sold the securities said that mismanagement in the East and a stringent money market caused the failure of the Stromberg-Carlson Co. and involved the entire independent company. It is probable that Altheimer and Faust will go to Buffalo in the interest of St. Louis bondholders. As the St. Louisans are in the minority they say they have either got to take what is offered, and what has been accepted by the majority bondholders, or be left to take care of themselves.

SPURNED BY GIRL, DESERTS CHILDREN

Stepfather Held Clothes to Keep Her From Church, She Declares.

Deserted and alone in the world, four homeless children at the Mission Free School, 369 North Taylor avenue, are awaiting the action of the Juvenile Court on their case. They have told the police of the Dayton Street Police Station that Charles Carl, their stepfather, deserted them because Lillian Cockrill, 15 years old, senior of the little family, refused to marry him after her mother's death last December.

The children are Lillian, Ivey, 11 years old; Lueveanur, 8, and Howard, 6. Carl took with him Arthur, 13 years old, who was able to earn a living by selling newspapers. Lillian's time is taken up in caring for the smaller children.

Until Monday the children lived at 820 North Twenty-third street. Their step-father left them, they say, Saturday. They were saved from actual suffering by Mrs. Sadie Brown, who occupies the flat below, and who gave them Sunday dinner and Monday breakfast.

Prior to the death of Mrs. Carl the family lived at 6537 St. Joseph street. During that time Carl was arrested on charges brought by Lillian, who said he nailed her clothes in a shed to prevent her from going to church. She decided not to prosecute, and the case against Carl at Clayton was dismissed.

Lillian told a Post-Dispatch reporter that after her mother's death Carl asked her to marry him, and that after she refused he persisted so in his attentions to her that she found it necessary to go to East St. Louis to escape them. She returned shortly before he left the home.

Three Brothers Convicted.

Charles, Otto and Louis Kurtz, sons of Charles Kurtz, 4339 Minnesota avenue, were sentenced to the Industrial School Tuesday by Judge Williams of the Juvenile Court. They were convicted of breaking into the shanty boat of Jacob Krekel at the foot of Osceola street last Friday and stealing a shotgun, a revolver and locks and keys.

TRY THIS FOR YOUR COUGH.

Mix half ounce of the pure Virgin Oil of Pine with two ounces of Glycerine and half pint of Whisky. Use in teaspoonful doses. A famous throat and lung specialist, whose camp for consumptives in the pine woods of Maine has attracted great attention, declares the above formula will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, heal the lungs and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients can be secured from any drug store at small cost.

Care should be exercised in securing the best quality of Glycerine and Whisky, while the Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased only in the original half-ounce vials, which are securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), guaranteed under Food and Drugs act of June 30th, 1906, serial number 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio—plainly printed thereon. Cheap or adulterated Oils, which are sold in bulk, always create nausea, and never effect the desired results.

FRIEND DEAD, MRS. BAUDUY SHOT HERSELF

St. Louis Woman Ended Life in New York, Grieving for Fashion Editor.

WROTE "RALPH WAS ALL"

Her Death Discovered at Hour of Ralph Tilton's Funeral in Famous Church.

FATHER STILL LIVES HERE

Mrs. Bauduy Was Daughter of C. H. Sawyer and Graduate of Mary Institute.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—At the precise hour when the funeral of Ralph Tilton, son of Theodore Tilton, was being conducted at the Church of the Transfiguration (Little Church Around the Corner), the body of Mrs. Bertha Bauduy, daughter of C. H. Sawyer of 3846 Delmar boulevard, St. Louis, and a Mary Institute graduate, was discovered in her room at 346 West Fifty-eighth street. She had shot herself Saturday night. In her room, among other letters, was found this:

"Dear Dot: Ralph died this afternoon. He was all that made life worth living.

"BERT."

Ralph Tilton, who was the editor of The Delineator, a fashion magazine, died at his home, 738 West End avenue, last Saturday, of pneumonia, after an illness of two days. He was 37 years old and had lived with his wife and child at the West End avenue address for two months.

Said Best Friend Died.

The house where Mrs. Bauduy died is kept by Mrs. Katherine Frank. She last saw Mrs. Bauduy Saturday, when the latter told her that she was weary of life because her dearest friend had just died.

Mrs. Frank, getting no response when she knocked on Mrs. Bauduy's door yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, called policeman Wagner. He forced an entrance. Mrs. Bauduy was lying on the bed, dead, attired in her underclothing and a wrapper. Her right hand still clutched a revolver, one bullet from which had been fired. Three letters were lying on the table.

Besides the letter to "Dear Dot," Mrs. Bauduy left one addressed to her father, C. H. Sawyer, care of the United States Brokerage Co., Room 710 Missouri Trust building, St. Louis. In this note, which was not stamped, the suicide said that she had received word that a "dear friend had died and that she could "stand it no longer." The third letter was directed to Mrs. Catharine Croasdale of 363 West Fifty-eighth street, and contained a request that her body be cremated.

In this note she also mentioned the death of her friend, and said his funeral would be at the "Little Church Around the Corner" Monday.

Thomas Croasdale, husband of Mrs. Croasdale, said that Mrs. Bauduy was married eight years ago and that her husband, Louis Bauduy, a traveling man, is now in Philadelphia. He is a son of Dr. J. K. Bauduy, formerly of St. Louis. Nearly a year ago the couple separated. Since then Mrs. Bauduy had been earning her living as an employe of the Adams Express Co.

Louis Bauduy was notified, and sent word to his brother here to take charge of the body. It was removed to undertaking rooms in East Fifty-fifth street, late in the afternoon. The effects were placed in a trunk and taken to the West Forty-seventh street police station. In the room was found a suit of man's clothes.

Beecher Case Recalled.

The Tilton-Beecher cause celebre, in which Ralph Tilton's father figured, was as much in everybody's mouth thirty years ago as the case of Harry Thaw is today.

Theodore Tilton, editor of the Independent and a member of Henry Ward Beecher's Plymouth Church in Brooklyn, brought suit against Mr. Beecher, charging the alienation of his wife's affection. Beecher was then at the height of his fame, and the trial of the case, which lasted seven weeks, was followed with deepest interest throughout the country. Tilton did not succeed in proving his charges and retired to Paris, where he still lives.

MRS. BAUDUY TO BE BURIED HERE.

Mrs. C. H. Sawyer, Mrs. Bauduy's mother, said Tuesday to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the body would be brought to St. Louis and that burial would be in Bellefontaine Cemetery. She did not know exactly when the funeral would take place. She declined to speak of the matter further.

The majority of the Bauduy family has ceased to reside in St. Louis. Dr. Jerome K. Bauduy, father of Louis, is now in the East, and Dr. W. Keating Bauduy is in Hot Springs. Vital W. Garesche, an attorney, who is a cousin of Louis Bauduy, said he lost trace of Bauduy after the latter moved to New York.

NEW TRIAL ON MERGER.

Decision in David Barrie's Case Against United Railways Co.

The Court of Appeals Tuesday granted a new trial in the case of David Barrie against the United Railways Co., on which hinges the question whether the merger is responsible for judgments against the St. Louis Transit Co., one of the lines it absorbed. No written opinion was handed down. The case was moved down to the end of the February docket.

Attorney Marion C. Early, who filed the motion for a new trial, contended that there had been imperfect analysis of the facts before the Court. He held that the difference between the market valu of the holdings the United Railways acquired from the St. Louis Transit Co., and the amount of liabilities it assumed, was $252,136.23, and that this should be held as a trust fund for creditors.

THREE ARMENIANS SHOT.

Eighteen South American Revolutionists Executed.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A dispatch from Caracus, Venezuela, to the Herald in giving details of the suppression of the attempt made by Gen. Antonio Paredos to start a revolution, says that Paredos and his followers, after their capture, were executed.

Gen. Paredos and 18 men were captured by Government forces and sent from Bolivar and Maturin and by boat from La Guayara. After this collapse of their expedition they were imprisoned at Barwaneas under a strong guard and later, it is said, all were shot. According to bulletins issued by the Venezuelean government, the dispatch states, Paredes and his men perished while they were seizing arms in an attempt to escape. Three Americans, who are known to have been with Paredas when he landed in Venezuela, are reported among the slain.

Gen. Parades landed with about 20 men at Pedernales, at the mouth of the Orinoco river, Feb. 5th. In his "army" of which Gen. Baldilloo was chief of staff, were several men who are well known in Venezuela. Who the three Americans were that accompanied him cannot be ascertained, but they are supposed to be young men who became tempted by the prospect of adventure.

Dead Body Identified.

The body of a man found in a storeroom in the rear of a saloon at 8441 North Broadway, Feb. 15, was identified Tuesday as that of Patrick Quinn, who formerly lived in the 8400 block of North Broadway. Quinn is thought to have been dead a week or more, when he was found. Death was caused by sewer gas asphyxiation. He was identified by Edward Sullivan, timekeeper for a contracting company, under whom Quinn formerly worked. The body is at the Morgue.

PARADE FOR WORK HORSES.

Show Animals Won't Have All the Glory in Boston.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 19.—Announcement is made of the fifth annual work horse parade in Boston, which will take place on the coming May 30.

No horse with a docked tail will be admitted to this show. A new harness or a new wagon will count for nothing, but every harness must be comfortable, well fitting and not unnecessarily heavy. There will be a sharp eye against ill fitting collars and against throat latches too tight.

Age is to count in favor of the horse where it goes with good condition. Docile and gentle manners will be considered as showing that an animal has been kindly treated.

"The work horse has done a lion's share of the world's toil but the lion's glory goes usually to the show horses. It is well that the Boston parade changes the order—that it makes the good horse the thing, regardless of the rig, and provides a pertinent thought for the humane driver.

Box of Diamonds Stolen.

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 19.—A local jewelry company was robbed of between $50,000 and $60,000 worth of diamonds yesterday. A stranger entered the store and asked to see an unmounted diamond.

A box of loose stones was produced by the clerk and the two went through them, trying to select a suitable stone. The stranger did not appear satisfied and said he would send his wife around in the afternoon. He left the store and, as the clerk supposed, the box of diamonds was returned to the safe. Later it was discovered that the box in the safe contained only tissue paper instead of the jewels. It was almost identical in appearance with the box for which it had been substituted.

TO INVESTIGATE CONGO.

Senator Morgan Curious About Ryan-Aldrich Rubber Grant.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The syndicate headed by Thomas F. Ryan of New York and Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, which holds the most valuable concession in the world, being the privilege of monopolizing the rubber product of the Congo Free State, granted by King Leopold of Belgium, may have its secrets laid bare as the result of senatorial curiosity. The concession given by King Leopold to the Ryan-Aldrich syndicate is said to cover more than 3,000,000 acres of India rubber producing lands in the Congo Free State.

Senator Morgan of Alabama is curious to know all the ins and outs of this grant. Although ill at his house, he prepared a resolution on the subject, which was presented by Senator Carmack. At the request of Senator Hale it was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The resolution is comprehensive and covers all phases of the concession said to have been given by the Belgian King. It asks the President for all the information he has on the subject.

Had to Keep Husband.

Mrs. Elizabeth T. O'Neill, in a suit for divorce filed in the Circuit Court, alleges that during the time that she lived with John J. O'Neill she had to use her own money as long as it lasted for the support of the family and then borrow from her relatives. The couple were married Aug. 12, 1895, and separated in July, 1897. Mrs. O'Neill says that the only money contributed by him since the separation was $10 which he gave to their 10-year-old son John in December, 1897.

L. A. V. L. Brokaw, late professor of clinical surgery at St. Louis University, and chief surgeon at St. John's Hospital. It is expected that Dr. Oscar H. Elbrecht, superintendent and surgeon in charge of the Female Hospital, will be his successor at the City Hospital. Since Dr. Brown took charge of this institution in April, 1903, its standard has been raised.

NAGEL OPPOSES HOWE'S PLANS

Leader of "Silk Stocking" Republicans Writes to Advisory Committee of 200.

McCOY ALSO TALKS OUT

Two Latest Opponents of Convention Nominations Close to State Chairman.

Charles Nagel, leader of "silk stocking" Republicanism, and high in the councils of Chairman Niedringhaus and the State committee, has pronounced his emphatic opposition to City Chairman Howe's plan of selecting candidates for the House of Delegates at a general city convention.

It became known Tuesday that Mr. Nagel had written to former Judge Franklin Ferriss, chairman of the advisory committee of 200, announcing his refusal to act as a member of that body because of his opposition to Chairman Howe's policy.

The Howe plan has been indorsed by the city committee and the advisory committee, and will be used in making Republican nominations for the House, to be voted on at the election in April. A similar plan was rejected by the Democratic city committee.

In his letter to Judge Ferriss, Mr. Nagel denounces the departure from the former system of ward nominations as wrong in principle, erroneous in policy and likely to lead to Republican defeat.

Mr. Nagel declined Tuesday to make public his letter, but outlined its purport as stated.

Another attack on Chairman Howe was made, also from a quarter near the state chairman, when Secretary Joseph McCoy of the state committee, at a meeting Monday night, denounced the Howe method.

McCoy for Home Rule.

Speaking at Colla's Hall, Delmar and Taylor avenues, before the Twenty-eighth Ward precinct organizations, Mr. McCoy said:

"I hope the Home Rule (anti-Howe) delegation will win in every contested ward.

"Each ward has the right to choose its own candidate for the House of Delegates. This is part of the city charter. Only members of the Council are intended to be chosen by the city at large.

"I believe in the people selecting their representatives, and not in giving the power to a convention to be controlled by five men, no matter who they may be. If it be treason to talk this way, then I am a traitor."

The name of Charles F. Wenneker, former city collector, was added to the Anti-Howe delegation, to fill a vacancy, at the same meeting.

The Howe program of convention nominations, as heretofore related in the Post-Dispatch, has brought a storm of protest from party leaders in North and South St. Louis, and has precipitated a fight which, Howe's opponents now declare, will result in his retirement.

The advisory committee of 200 has so constituted its organization that five of its members can act for the entire body. This committee, which is the chief dependence of the city committee for campaign funds, has been active in shaping the campaign thus far.

SLAYER KILLED ON WAY TO JAIL

Doctor Who Slew Two Prominent Malden (Mo.) Citizens Shot From Ambush.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MALDEN, Mo., Feb. 19.—Dr. A. L. Brannon was shot and killed here about midnight as he was being removed from the Police Station to the Kennett Jail. He was charged with having slain Attorney D. R. Cox and Dr. J. W. Beall in the former's office early last evening. Following his arrest threats against his life became so strong that it was deemed unsafe for him to remain in the Police Station. As the officers started from the station several shots were fired and Brannon fell dead.

There is no clew to the assassin, although Deputy Sheriff Simms says he saw a man in the shadow of the building just as the shots were fired. Attorney Cox and Dr. Beall were both slain with a shotgun. The two men were talking with a farmer named Davis when the assassin entered the room. He first fired at Cox and as the attorney fell to the floor, he turned the weapon on Beall.

Beall had jumped to his feet as the assassin fired at Cox, and he received the charge in his breast. Davis, the farmer, dropped to the floor and escaped.

Brannon was arrested on the street by City Marshal Barham shortly after the shooting. He was cool, and remarked to the Marshal that he would "find a couple of them dead back there."

Served Long as Mayor.

Cox had served four terms as Mayor of this city and two terms as Prosecuting Attorney of the county. His property interests were large, and he was well known over this part of the State. He began the local option movement here and was a prominent figure in the fight against liquor. He had spoken at almost every local option campaign in the State and had been fighting Brannon's liquor selling establishment for some time. He was about fifty years old and leaves a large family.

Dr. Beall was a well-known physician and had a good reputation. He belonged to an old and well-known family. He was division surgeon for the Cotton Belt Railway and an officer in the Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri. He was an advocate of local option and a warm friend of Attorney Cox.

Brannon was about 30 years old and unmarried. It is said that he had been a medical student. He came here from Cardwell several months ago and started to sell liquor at the edge of town, in New Madrid County, in gallon lots, but got into trouble and in jail. He then erected a distillery, but had not put it in operation.

Tells of Work in Slums.

Commissioner Kilbey, leader of the Salvation Army work among women and children, will repeat her illustrated lecture, given Monday evening in the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, at the old City Mission Hall, 14 North Seventh street, Tuesday night. Colored views, illustrating the rescue of a white girl from a Chinese opium joint and other scenes in the army's slum work, accompany the lecture, whose subject is "Love in Action."

GIRL UNABLE TO PREVENT BURGLARY

Three Young Men Rifle Apartments of George Seidlitz at Midday.

A daylight burglary in which a pretty, rosy-cheeked girl figured prominently, occurred at noon Monday. In a three-story apartment house, 1520 Papin street, Miss Molly O'Shaughnessy was the only person at home.

She was standing in the doorway when three young men came up.

Miss Molly says she knew one of the men, Norman Dawson, and that they tried to pass her to go upstairs where George Seidlitz lives.

"I told them that they couldn't go in because there was no one at home and that I knew that he (Davisson) had been forbidden by Mrs. Seidlitz to come around the house. They argued about it calling George Seidlitz a 'fat-head.' Just then a neighbor across the street called to me and I went over without thinking the boys would go in anyway.

"I was gone about ten minutes and looking across the street, I saw the three crawl out of a second-story window and drop to the ground."

Mrs. Seidlitz, who works in a Broadway store, felt a premonition of something wrong at home, and about 11:30 o'clock went out to investigate. She was met by Molly, who told her of the young men's actions. A hasty investigation showed that a blue suit worth $20, a coat and vest worth $11, a pair of trousers worth $8 and a rifle valued at $5 were missing. A bureau drawer had been broken open and clothing had been thrown out and trampled on the floor.

Mrs. Seidlitz at once reported to the police. Patrolman Wade Mathews was given descriptions of the men. Later he saw Charles Daly, who was known to him and who fitted the description, leave a saloon at Ewing and Manchester avenues. He followed him to 2916 Manchester, where he found Daly and two other men sitting at a table drinking. The loaded rifle lay across the table.

The officer grasped one of the three, Patrick Corlin, by the collar and covered the other two with his revolver. He landed the men in the station, where they were identified by Miss O'Shaughnessy. The clothing was found at the Manchester avenue number where two of the young men live.

Tuesday morning Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Rosskopf issued an information charging Norman Davisson and Charles Daly, 2916 Manchester avenue, and Patrick Corlin, 904 South Tenth street, with larceny.

KAISER PREDICTS END OF SOCIALISM

Emperor William, Opening the New Reichstag, Speaks From the Throne.

WILL ATTEND THE HAGUE

Believes Peace Conference Will Result in International Good Will.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—Emperor William opened the new Reichstag today, reading the speech from the throne in a clear, loud voice, with considerable elocutionary effect. Referring to the foreign relations of Germany and to international peace, he said:

"The general political situation entitles us to the assurance that peace will continue to be preserved. My Government maintains with our allies our old heartfelt relations, and with the other Powers good and correct relations.

"The treaty with Denmark, signed Jan. 2, which was designed to remove disturbing differences by regulating the status of children in choosing their nationality, will, I am sure, strengthen the friendly relations with our northern neighbors."

In regard to the approaching conference at The Hague, the Emperor said:

"Following the suggestion of the United States, and the proposals of Russia, I have accepted an invitation to the second peace conference at The Hague, which, in view of the results of the first Hague conference, will be qualified to develop further the laws among nations for the good of humanity and of peace."

Faith in New Reichstag.

Alluding to the results of the recent elections to the Reichstag, the Emperor said:

"The German people were called upon to decide a difference of opinion between the federated governments and the former Reichstag, and demonstrated their resolve to safeguard the people and property of the nation by putting aside all narrow party spirit. The strong national feeling that united our citizens, peasants and laborers, will effectively protect the fatherland in the future.

Just as I am willing to observe conscientiously all my constitutional rights and privileges, so am I confident the new Reichstag, composed of intelligent men, duly to acknowledge that its highest duty is to preserve and strengthen our position among civilized nations."

Continuing, the Emperor announced the approaching introduction of various Government measures in Parliament, among them being the supplementary budget for the expenses in German Southwest Africa, upon which the Reichstag was resolved, and measures providing for the construction of the projected railroad from Hanakaon to Kubub, the development of other lines of communication with and in the colonies, the establishment of a colonial ministry, and the indemnification of the farmers of German Southwest Africa who sustained losses as a result of the resolution in that colony.

The emperor said he hoped a considerable reduction of the number of troops in German Southwest Africa would soon be possible, as there were only a few rebels in the field.

Says Socialism Was Checked.

Refering again to the elections, His Majesty stated that the healthy spirit in town and country had asserted itself and had checked the Socialistic movement subversive of the state and society. It was the purpose of the federated government to continue the social work in the spirit that had animated His Majesty's illustrious grandfather.

"And now, gentlemen," said the Emperor, in conclusion, "may the national sentiment and readiness to act which created this Reichstag rule its labors to the welfare of Germany."

As the Emperor ceased speaking and stepped down from the throne the oldest members of the Reichstag, following the custom, proposed three cheers for His Majesty which were still resounding as the Emperor left the hall.

BENCH CHANGE RUMORED.

Finkelnburg Silent About Rumor of Purpose to Quit.

There was a rumor at the Federal Building Tuesday that Judge G. A. Finkelnburg of the United States District and Circuit Courts contemplates resigning. A lawyer mentioned as his possible successor is Matt G. Reynolds, now a Judge of the Circuit Court.

At his home, 4312 Westminster place, Judge Finkelnburg said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"I have not resigned. I cannot tell what the future may bring forth. It is a matter I cannot discuss. I had not heard of the rumors."

Judge Amidon of North Dakota took Judge Finkelnburg's place on the Federal bench Tuesday.

"There is no significance in that," said Judge Finkelnburg, "other than that I have disqualified myself in a number of cases now on the docket, and it was thought advisable to bring another Judge here."

REMARRY AFTER 32 YEARS.

Aged Couple Had Both Wed Since Obtaining Divorce.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Feb. 19.—Divorced 32 years ago, Alpheus P. Cowell of San Francisco and Mrs. Emeline A. Hunter of Cleveland were remarried here yesterday at the Methodist parsonage.

Mr. Cowell was 18 years at the time of their first marriage and his bride 16, now they are respectively 50 and 48. Both lived in Michigan when they made their first matrimonial venture, the groom at St. Johns and the young woman at Lansing. Both married again after their divorce, but death deprived them of their partners and recently, when they came into correspondence again, the love of their youth was rekindled, their second marriage being finally arranged.

SEEKING FIRST WIFE.

Relatives Fear Detention of Accused Bigamist's Spouse.

W. R. Knight of 2241 Biddle street visited Prosecuting Attorney Johnston at Clayton late Monday to learn whether legal steps could be taken toward finding Mrs. Jessie M. Montrose, wife of Ralph Edgar Montrose, who is now in the Clayton Jail awaiting trial for bigamy.

Knight is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Montrose. He told the Prosecuting Attorney that William Anderson, Mrs. Montrose's father, had made several efforts to find his daughter, but that his letters have not been answered. She was living at Terre Haute with Montrose before his arrest. A telegram sent a few days ago brought a reply from Montrose's father, in which he said Mrs. Montrose was ill and would not be able to return to St. Louis for some time. Knight told Prosecuting Attorney Johnston he believed she was being kept in Terre Haute against her will. Johnston said he would investigate the case.

MORE than ONE MILLION people in the city of St. Louis and contiguous territory READ the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH EVERY Sunday.

"SALOME" TO BE MODIFIED ON TOUR

Bloody Head of John the Baptist Plays Less Prominent Part.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—When "Salome" is given during the road tour of the Metropolitan Opera Company there will be some modifications in the stage business. The last scene will be played in an entirely new manner, with the head of the slain John the Baptist out of sight.

"After the head of John the Baptist has been delivered to Salome," said C. W. Strine, manager of the road tour yesterday, "it will be disposed of in a receptacle at the front of the stage. The apostrophe to the head will be sung with the head entirely invisible and when the kiss occurs the stage will be darkened."

"Salome, it is announced, will be presented at least in Boston and Chicago and probably in other cities.

MAYOR'S PARTING WORD.

Concurs With Doctors in Taking Hospitals Out of Politics.

Before leaving for Panama, Mayor Wells expressed himself as favoring the charter amendment as advocated by the joint council of medical societies that will take the city hospitals and institutions out of politics.

The proposed amendment was outlined in full in Sunday's Post-Dispatch after an interview with Dr. John C. Morfit and Dr. John Green Jr. The principal features of the proposed amendment is the creation of a hospital department, to be under the control of a board of six trustees, with the Mayor as ex-officio chairman. The department will include the City Hospital, Insane Asylum, Female Hospital and Poorhouse. The members of the board are to be elected for six years, on a general ticket, to serve without pay.

The members shall be subject to removal by legal process. A president, other officers and a secretary are to be elected by the board and are to be paid a salary. The board shall have the power to appoint and remove superintendents and the board shall appoint a medical staff, representing as much as possible the several schools of medicine.

"I realize," said Mayor Wells, "that the laws now governing these institutions are very defective and agree with the medical profession in its plan to remedy the defects.

"I am convinced that the interests of the public at large will be served better if the hospitals are taken out of politics. Better work can be done by separating the hospital department from the sanitary department.

Day's Work Chopped Down.

Postoffice employes will have a partial holiday Friday, Washington's Birthday. The main office and stations will close at 12 noon. The first three morning deliveries will be made from the main office, Cupples, Merchants, Annex and Bridge stations. From the other stations only the first morning delivery will be made. In the business district collections will be made from 4 to 6 p. m. and one collection will be made at 9:45 p. m. Collections in the residence districts will be made as on Sundays.

STABS SUPERIOR IN MUSCLE TEST

Assailant, Met With Shower of Shots, Would Renew Row in Ambulance.

Bested in a test of strength by Nicholas Hoffaranzen, an innkeeper at 210 South Second street, Charles Long, a laborer, stabbed him in the abdomen and neck in Cannels' saloon at 200 South Second street Monday night, and was repaid with bullets fired into his abdomen and thigh. Though dangerously wounded, both men attempted to renew hostilities in the ambulance on the way to the City Hospital. Both are in a critical condition.

According to Hoffaranzen's statement to the police, Long threatened Sunday night to "mark him for life," and, when they met Monday night in the saloon, drew a knife with a big blade as sharp as a razor and slashed him. Hoffaranzen promptly drew his revolver and opened fire.

When the police arrived Hoffaranzen was staggering out of the door and Long lay on the floor. The knife was found in Long's coat, together with 15 cents. Hoffaranzen had $182.42, some jewelry and a watch and chain.

Long told the police that he did the cutting because Hoffaranzen had threatened his life. He admitted that he had been drinking. He lives at 200 South Second street and is 56 years old. Hoffaranzen is 36 years old.

CARUSO NOW WANTS $3000.

Tenor Thinks One Apearance Is Worth Large Sum.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A few days ago Caruso paid a visit to Heinrich Conried and set forth his claims for terms of engagement after the expiration of his present contract. This has one season more to run, but Caruso's demand for the following years was said to be $3000 an appearance during the season, which would insure him $150,000. At present Caruso is being paid about $1500 each time he sings.

Caruso's demand for increase, it is said, is based upon the claim that he attracts a large audience irrespective of the other singers. Mr. Conried has asked for time, and in the meantime Conried has engaged the Italian tenor Anselmi, from St. Petersburg. Heretofore the highest priced tenor at the Metropolitan has been Jean de Reszke, who was paid $2500 for each appearance.

DIVORCED, HE FINDS GOLD.

Wife Got Separation When Man Sought Fortune.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICKASHA, I. T., Feb. 19.—R. M. Rickards of this city was poor six years ago, and his future prospects did not appear bright. When he left for the Klondike to seek his fortune in the gold fields, his wife straightway applied for a divorce. It was granted, and now she wishes she had not been so hasty. Rickards was lucky and struck pay dirt. He recently returned to find that his wife had divorced and wellnigh forgotten him. When she found he had a draft on a Seattle bank for more than $100,000 she would have been glad to welcome him back, but he would not be reconciled.

TWO KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

Many Others Hurt in Arkansas Sawmill Accident.

BLYTHESVILLE, Ark., Feb. 19.—Wallace Brown of Jonesboro, Ill., and James Seabaugh of Campbell, Mo., were killed and 25 other workmen were injured by the explosion of a boiler at the sawmill plant of L. M. Brothers of Campbell, Mo., at State Line, Ark., four and a half miles north of here, yesterday.

C. M. Lettz, John Persons, Allen Moore, E. V. Marshall and Dallas Brooks are seriously injured. The loss to the plant is $5000. The explosion is said to have been due to letting cold water into the boiler.

ANCIENT GREEKS AND ROMANS

Considered the Pine Sap the Supreme Specific

A Philadelphia Doctor Tells of a New Pine Product

Scripture writings and ancient history go to show that of all the ancient remedies handed down from our remote ancestors, pine is one of the very few that still holds its place on the prescribing lists of the doctors of today as it did with the wise men of old as far back as the time of the Pharaohs. The ancient Greeks were wont to go upon the slopes of Caucasus and the Romans to climb the Alpine crags in search of this wonderful tree, the pine. One drawback to the free use of the great curative properties of the pine has been its insolubility, but a prominent Philadelphia physician who has been experimenting with refined pine products, some time ago announced that he had at last achieved success and gave the world what is known as Concentrated oil of pine. In a recent interview he also gave out the formula which has attracted so much attention on account of its quick results in the relief and cure of all colds, coughs and bronchial troubles. The formula is very simple, being as follows:

"One-half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine; two ounces of glycerine; half pint of good whiskey; mix them and shake thoroughly and use every four hours in tablespoon doses."

These ingredients can be secured at any well stocked prescription druggist and easily mixed at home.

The only care necessary is to be sure to get the "Concentrated" oil of pine, which always comes in half-ounce vials enclosed in round, air-tight, screw top cases to protect it from heat and retain all the original ozone.

Bulk oil and patent medicines using a similar name should be avoided.

The Philadelphia specialist disclaims any credit for originality on the formula, as he states that, with the exception of the improvement in the pine, product is practically the same as that frequently prescribed by Pericles.

Success Lies in Results

What REXALL Has Done:

In a little over three years REXALL Remedies have become the most widely known and trusted medicines in the world—have scored the biggest success in the history of the drug business.

Why?

Because they're made of the purest drugs—but not that alone.

Because the most skilled pharmacists that can be employed make them—but not that alone.

Because they are based on the prescriptions of the most successful physicians in the world—but not that alone.

Because they represent the combined wisdom and experience of over a thousand of the foremost retail druggists in this country, of which we are one,—but not that alone.

All these things have been indispensable.

They CURE—that's why.

Every one of the three hundred REXALL Remedies is a tested and proved success for the particular ailment it is designed to cure—one for each human ill. They're not "cure-alls."

Not patent medicines, either—we'll tell you the formula of any one of them if you want to know it.

We can hold up any REXALL Remedy before you and honestly say: "We know what this is made of and all about it. It has cured thousands. It will cure you. Our reputation, the possession of your good will, our whole business existence depends on this REXALL Remedy giving satisfaction to you."

Isn't that what you want to buy, rather than the sort for which you can hold no one in sight responsible?

A few of the 300 famous REXALL Remedies, one for each human ill, are:

FOR NERVES — AMERICANITIS ELIXIR

The Rexall Americanitis Elixir is a tonic nerve food composed chiefly of free Phosphorus, Glycophosphates, Iron Pyrophosphate and Calisaya.

The wonderful results of this remedy are due to the fact that it supplies Phosphorous to the nerve cells in a condition in which it can be immediately and easily taken up by them.

The Glycophosphates, actual nerve-tissue builders, are one of the most recent and valuable additions to this branch of medicine and unquestionably a more efficient remedy than the well-known Hypophosphites.

The Iron Pyrophosphates are the most easily assimilated form of iron which give tone and color, and the combined alkaloids of Calisaya Bark have a tonic effect on almost all the functions of the body. 75c. and $1.50 a bottle.

REXALL "93" HAIR TONIC

The famous Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is composed in chief of Resorcin, Beta Naphthol and Pilocarpin.

Resorcin is one of the latest and most effective germ-killers discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which not only destroys the germs which rob the hair of its nutriment, but creates a clean and healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Pilocarpin is a well known agent for restoring the hair to its natural color, where the loss of color has been due to a disease of the scalp. It is not a coloring matter or dye.

This combination of curatives mixed with alcohol as a stimulant, perfects the most effective remedy for hair and scalp troubles known today. Per bottle, 50c.

"REXALL" ORDERLIES
The New Laxative

"Rexall" Orderlies have all the virtues and none of the defects of those laxatives and cathartics already known. They are harmless vanilla-flavored tablets that effect a re-adjustment of Nature's functions—no griping, no nausea, no purging.

Pleasant to the taste—they give immediate relief.

A trial will prove to you that they are the best laxative and cathartic ever prescribed.

10c. a box of twelve; 25c. a box of 36.

BOYS IMPRISON MAN, ROB STORE

They Padlock Door on Outside, Then Smash Show Window With Brick.

Locked inside of his own store at 1806½ Franklin avenue, Herman Stone looked helplessly on while two boys smashed the front window with a brick and seized jewelry which he values at $250. They escaped before Stone could break his way out of the store.

The robbery occurred Monday at 8 p. m., an hour when the shops on the street are still open. Stone has a small, narrow storeroom, the door of which may be fastened with a padlock on the outside. This door and one show window form the front of the store.

One of the boy robbers snapped a lock that he brought with him through the staple of the door. Stone and his wife were inside. Before they realized what was happening the other boy threw a brick through the window and the two reached in and grabbed all the jewelry in sight. They disappeared in an alley.

When Stone rushed to the door to give the alarm, he found that he was securely locked in. He broke the glass of the door and crawled out, cutting his hands. Policemen who had heard the crash of glass came running up, but were unable to find a trace of the robbers.

Stone does not think he would be able to recognize the boys. They appeared to be about 18 or 19 years old. One wore a light overcoat and the other a black suit and cap.

The missing jewelry includes ten watches, one diamond ring, several plain gold rings, four or five brooches and a few bracelets and earrings.

HOMESEEKERS WITH RIFLES.

Armed Men in Big Crowd at Union Station.

Fourteen stalwart Indianans and Kentuckians, each bearing a shotgun or a rifle stalked about Union Station Tuesday morning in the midst of the throng of "homeseekers" which was larger all the morning as trains from the East and Southeast rolled into the station.

These armed men are bound for Oklahoma and are under the leadership of Sam Guthrie of Logansport, Ind. They announced, in reply to questions, that they considered a good gun about all a man needed in Oklahoma.

Every first and third Tuesday in each month is "homeseekers' day" and hundreds come into St. Louis from east of here and depart some hours later for points west and southwest. Union Station was thronged Tuesday with one of the largest crowds in the history of the homeseekers' excursions.

Among the homeseekers who appeared were Sam S. Boswell and his family, composed of his wife and three little children. Their home, near Paducah, Ky., bourned recently and the family is now journeying to Salt Lake City to start the battle of life over again. All they saved from the fire was a big sugar box and a meager supply of clothing. Their surplus wearing apparel is in the sugar box.

Thaw's Former Valet Weds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 19.—James Mawley, former valet of Harry K. Thaw, who, it is expected, will testify that Thaw stabbed him with a knife and fired a shot at him from a pistol, was married here, on the arrival of the steamer Saxonia Friday morning, to Miss Augusta L. Carlson. Mawley and his bride have been sweethearts from childhood.

A GOOD BREAKFAST

Some Persons Never Know What it Means.

A good breakfast, a good appetite and good digestion mean everything to the man, woman or child who has anything to do, and wants to get a good start toward doing it.

A Missouri man tells of his wife's "good breakfast" and also supper, made out of Grape-Nuts and cream. He says:

"I should just like to tell you how much good Grape-Nuts has done for my wife. After being in poor health for the last 18 years, during part of the time scarcely anything would stay on her stomach long enough to nourish her, finally at the suggestion of a friend she tried Grape-Nuts.

"Now, after about four weeks on this delicious and nutritious food, she has picked up most wonderfully and seems as well as anyone can be.

"Every morning she makes a good breakfast on Grape-Nuts eaten just as it comes from the package with cream or milk added; and then again the same at supper and the change in her is wonderful.

"We can't speak too highly of Grape-Nuts as a food after our remarkable experience." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.—Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

It's all off with the "snow man!"

And it's on with the Spring Overcoat. Didn't you see 'em blossoming last Sunday? You will see more and more until Easter Sunday—only 5 weeks from this coming Sunday.

And there's more of the Spring Overcoat to be seen. It is tailored large and roomy in back and front. Cut full—not with the waistline outlined.

Gray and light fancy mixtures are the favored fabrics.

ART EXHIBITION WINS ADMIRERS

Tooth Collection at Noonan-Kocian Galleries Charms Diversity of Tastes.

COROT LIGHT IS FEATURE

Pictures Valued at $250,000 Give Artists and Public Deep Enjoyment.

A woman stood before a picture of cloudy sky above a lane in which were many pools of freshly fallen rain and adown which walked old-fashioned mild-eyed cows, and sighed happily—an expression of pleasure characteristic of quiet natures.

"A look at this Mauve alone," said she, "is worth the trip in from Cabanne."

She stepped ever so little to one side, stopped still and looked, then progressed again a seemingly infinitesimal distance and gazed long. All the time she could save from her shopping she gave to the picture, with scarcely a glance at the others of the Tooth collection of masters, which were hung Monday in the Noonan-Kocian galleries, 617 Locust street. She paused for a moment when some one said, "The Israels will be here tomorrow, be sure to come and see that," nodded her head in acceptance of the invitation, and went on.

"She really sees pictures," remarked a man of authority. "She has not tired her mind by trying to see all the pictures in this collection, but has let one masterpiece give her pleasure. If she has more time she will probably view the pictures one at a time, and then she will be able to enjoy a round of visits with a few minutes for each.

Urges Temperate Art Pleasure.

"I learned that at the World's Fair and I have preached it ever since. Don't try to know too many pictures at once or you will have only a jumbled sensation of form and color."

Off at one side a woman whose mind ran toward cost was finding out that the large Van Merce, sister to the one given to Minneapolis by Armour, is worth $25,000, that what she called "the little picture" was valued at $2000, and that the whole collection is estimated at $250,000 by M. Labey, the big Jerseyman who insists that he is no Englishman, but a Frenchman. He brought the collection to St. Louis.

The collection is strangely uniform in point of excellence. No picture has person to feel ashamed of its associates. One cannot stand before one picture and say, "This is the great picture of the collection," at least not until the Israels, for which so much is promised, arrives. It is a depiction of weary womanhood. Its figure is engaged in sewing and might be an illustration of "The Song of the Shirt."

One must begin with the Corot, which has a place in the first corner, and from it make slow progress around the room—unless one can follow the advice of the man of authority and look at one picture a day, letting its beauties come to one slowly, but so surely that they will remain for all time.

Corot's Light Bevitches.

The Corot is wonderful in trees. A line of them border a stream. In the foreground are figures, men and women, busy with a net. In the background is light, Corot's own peculiar light, which seems to be the flower of the gray-green coloring below. Next the Corot is the canvas of Adolph Schreyer, on which almost a dozen horses show the varied expressions of which they are capable. One is tired and broken spirited and would drop if it were not for the harness, another is tired but proud; if he must die from weariness it will be with his head raised; one other is tired and sullen. He will not express his fatigue, neither will he try to hide it by pretense at gladness.

His choice is to be a plodder without wish for either sympathy or praise. And the half-dozen others have each a story. They are driven by Arabs and their task is to draw a big-wheeled, heavily laden wagon across a stream. Schreyer knows horses and, unlike other animal painters, he is willing to let the work horses have a place in art.

There are two cow pictures by William Maris, one small and one large. The small one is beside the Mauve, which is "worth the trip in from Cabanne," the large one is across the gallery and shows a strange kind of milkman—one who crosses a stream in a cat and takes with him big milk pails in which to take back the milk. The marsh country and the faraway windmills that might be cloud fantasies increase the interest which the picture demands.

"Painted" Cow's Bellow.

Neuhuys has an interior in which a little flaxed-haired girl reaches for an egg in the hand of a woman. The third figure is a woman at a spinning wheel. One looks at the child and then turns unconsciously to the big Van Marcke, where a little white calf is standing with some cows and another calf in water. Van Marcke's well-known big brown cow has a front place in the picture. The "bellowing cow" is there too. A man looked at her and turned to his companion, saying, "Van Marcke has actually painted that cow's bellow."

The big house and the trees and the cabbages in the DeBock make for the happiness of those that look upon the work of this man who, critics say, "has a wonderful prestige for one but two years dead."

There is a Harpignies which is cloud and river and hill and some strong trees and rocks, which look much as if they belonged out on the Missouri River; also a Diaz, which is one great forest, with only the sky that shows through thickly clustered leaves. One must look long before the figures of the wood gatherers show, but the longer one looks the greater the joy.

Joseph Ball has a place in the corner. His picture shows three young women at a watering place. The water from the fount is flowing into the beautifully shaped old copper urn held by a pink-waisted girl and one can see it flow. The painter has distinguished between the wool of the gowns and the linen of the aprons, also between the wood of the walls and the stone slab and the copper of the faucet.

Army Life Pictured.

Detaille, president of the salon, has an army picture that seems almost out of place, so many are the pictures of nature. It appears to be a picture of a stage picture.

Pasini's painting of a tiled building, in which is an archway, is a near neighbor. It has horses so well done that they form a relief for the intense exactness of the tiles.

A picture to which one returns more than once is a Daubigny. It, too, has trees and water and sky and cows. Its cows, however, are miniature and they are under the guard of a red hatted figure, the hat being colored in order that it may rest the eye from the vivid greenness of the trees.

The public is welcome to the galleries.

Illinois Florists Meet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 19.—The second annual convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association opened here today with a large attendance. Today was devoetd to reports from President E. F. Haman of Edwardsville and Secretary H. Hasselbring of Chicago. There will be a banquet tonight.

SALOON FOES ASK WRIT.

Kirkwood Residents Assail Validity of Owner's Petition.

Another legal attack has been made on the saloon of Mortimer Courtney on the Denny Road, just south of Kirkwood, in an injunction suit to be heard in the next term of the Clayton Circuit Court. The suit is accompanied by an application for a temporary order restraining Courtney from operating his saloon while the injunction is pending. The application is to be heard by the Court Saturday.

According to the petition in the suit, Courtney came to St. Louis county from Illinois last September and circulated a petition for a saloon license. The people of Kirkwood fought the saloon, starting a petition of protest. Nov. 12 Courtney petitioned the County Court for his license. The opponents of the saloon replied to the Court, giving reasons why the license should not be granted. The Court said the petition contained the names of a majority of the property owners and voters of Bonhomme Township and that some very definite reason in opposition would have to be shown.

An injunction suit was then brought against the St. Louis County Assessor to enjoin him from placing Courtney's name on the tax lists, thus becoming a legal applicant for a dramshop license. The suit was decided against the opponents of the saloon and on Nov. 30 the license was issued. Almost immediately a writ of certiorari was obtained against the County Court requiring it to present the records to the Circuit Court, showing by what process the license was obtained. The action of the County Court was sustained.

In the petition filed Monday it is charged that the dramshop petition does not contain the requisite number of signers and that many who signed it were desirous of withdrawing their names before it was presented. It is asserted that the Court had set Dec. 3 as a day on which to hear both sides and that Courtney stealthily slipped in four days previously and obtained a hearing with the Court by misrepresentation.

Liquor Causes Suicide.

Mrs. Kate Reufle thinks liquor combined with ill-health and loss of work caused the suicide of her husband, George Reufle, who hanged himself Monday in the cellar of their home, 3434 Pennsylvania avenue. He was 53 years old. Reufle went home Friday evening, complaining that he did not feel well, and did not go to work Saturday. Monday morning, she says, she saw that he had been drinking. At noon she found him hanging from a joist in the basement. He had tied a clothes line about his neck and swung off a chair.

REPUBLICANS TO OPPOSE EXCISE

Caucus Decides to Fight Folk's Bill—Support for Catlin Home Rule.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—It is predicted by members of the House that several Republican members will bolt the caucus, which has decided that the Republicans to a man will oppose the Governor's State excise bill. There are a number of Republican members who are known to favor drastic legislation against saloons. They are not saying they will bolt the caucus, but there is uneasiness in the Republican ranks regarding their votes.

The excise bill was considered at a caucus two weeks ago, it being then decided to permit each Republican to vote as he pleased. Charges made by Representative Haller of St. Louis that some Republican members from St. Louis might vote for an excise bill in order to get votes for the Prendergast bill is generally believed to be the reason for another caucus, which was held Monday night.

"This caucus also selected a committee composed of Representatives Catlin and Droste of St. Louis and Wade of Greene County to draft a home rule bill to take the place of election and police bills already before the House. The Prendergast police bill will be opposed by the Republican members of the House, while the Catlin police bill will be supported.

The Prendergast police bill provides for an increase in the size of the St. Louis police force and also provides for the three-shift plan in the Police Department. The Catlin bill abolishes the present police law and enacts a new one, providing for only one Police Commissioner, to be chosen by the Mayor.

DIVORCED PRINCESS A PROSPECTIVE BRIDE.

ROME, Feb. 19.—Don Carlos' youngest daughter, Princess Alice, who got a divorce from Prince Frederick of Waldenburg-Shoenburg three years ago, has just entered legal suit at Lucca to have the divorce recognized by the Italian courts. It is said she intends to marry an Italian nobleman. Vatican authorities vainly tried to dissuade her from taking the step, in order to spare the feelings of the Pope, who married her to the Prince ten years ago.

CLUBMAN SEEKS MUNICIPAL OFFICE

Henry C. Garneau Announces His Candidacy for the House of Delegates.

BELONGS TO OLD FAMILY

Members of His Delegation Are Among Best-Known Men in St. Louis.

That the movement recently started to induce young men of position and prominence to run for municipal office has a good headway was shown Tuesday by the announcement that Henry C. Garneau, member of an old family, society man, clubman and athlete, would run for the House of Delegates from the Twenty-eighth Ward on the Democratic ticket. His delegation, which was filed shortly before noon at the Election Commissioners' office contains some of the best known names in St. Louis.

The members of Garneau's delegation are: J. D. Perry Francis, Harold M. Kauffman, James Wear, A. Bert Ewing, Pierre Chouteau Maffitt, D. C. Gamble, Jr., Joseph O'Neil, H. Blakesly Collins, Samuel Plant, William B. Dean Jr., P. P. Connor, R. B. H. Gradwohl, Walter D. Coles, J. J. P. Langton, S. P. Goddard and Sidney N. Scharff. Most of these men are graduates of Eastern colleges and were prominent in athletics there—notably "Jim" Wear and "Perry" Francis, both of whom made their 'Varsity letters, one at Yale and the other at Harvard.

The man they are now running for the House is 32 years old and his executive ability and practical knowledge of handling men and other things was proved during his term of office as president of the Western Amateur Athletic Union. He has been known around town as of a somewhat more earnest type than the average clubman and one who was willing to work hard at anything that interested him. He is a good after-dinner speaker.

A Graduate of Yale.

He received his preparatory education at the St. Louis University. He then went to Yale, where he took the regular academic course. He is a member of the Yale Club of New York, in St. Louis he is a member of the University, Racquet and Triple A clubs. He spends an hour or so a day in the Business Men's Gymnasium.

Garneau has a pleasing personality. He speaks in an enthusiastic manner, and from what he said about his running for office, it is evident that he has ideals.

"It seems to me," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "that it was about time that we stop talking about poor representation in the House of Delegates and do something to make that representation better.

"When my friends put the matter in that light before me and asked me to run I accepted, even though I did not have any particular craving for a political career. I've gone into it with the idea simply to do what I can to represent the people as they should be represented. No thought of any benefit that might accrue to me personally has been considered in my decision.

"I think there is a new spirit in the West End towards running for office, and I believe the time will come when the best men in the city and not professional politicians will be the officeholders."

POSTMASTER BURNED MAIL.

Amount of Waste Paper Aroused Janitor's Suspicions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Feb. 19.—The people of Sheridan are wrought up over discoveries in the local Postoffice in connection with the removal of Postmaster W. F. Brittain. It is announced that Brittain made a practice of burning all mail matter which did not meet with his approval. The janitor noticed the unusual quantity of waste paper sent to the furnace and discovered that it consisted of letters and newspapers, duly stamped and directed, intrusted to the Postoffice for delivery. He informed prominent citizens and they watched and sorted the waste paper, with the result that in three months over nine bushels of letters and papers were found in it.

"KATY" TO JOIN BRANCHES.

President Says Texas Lines Will Be Connected.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 19.—President A. H. Joline of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, who arrived here yesterday, is authority for the statement that as soon as conditions are sufficiently favorable to justify the effort, the "Katy" will connect its Shreveport branch with its isolated line extending between Colmesneil and Trinity. He says that the anti-railroad agitation has had deterrent effect upon the floating of railroad securities and that until the apparent antagonism subsides it will be difficult to project the proposed construction.

BROOKS IS REPRIMANDED.

Captain Defends Action in Stopping Auto With Gun.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 19.—Capt. A. S. Brooks has been reprimanded by Col. B. C. Lockwood of the Twenty-ninth Infantry, for stopping an automobile containing Mrs. Samuel Newhouse, wife of a mining millionaire, and lady friends at the point of a revolver. Col. Lockwood also has sent a letter of regret to Mr. Newhouse.

In defense Capt. Brooks said the automobile had endangered the lives of children at the fort. The matter may yet go before the War Department.

BURNED IN ALCOHOL BLAST.

Two Children Flee Screaming as Flames Dart Up.

Winnie and Edwin Bitza, the two children who were severely burned while playing with alcohol at their home, 223 Dover street, Monday afternoon, were reported by the hospital authorities Tuesday to have but a slight chance for recovery. The lower part of the body of the girl, who is 13 years old, was the most severely burned. The boy, who is three years older than his sister, was burned mainly about the face, but he is suffering from having inhaled the flames.

There was fully a pint of alcohol, says Albert Bitza, the father, in the can which the children took down from a high shelf. They poured some into the stove and ignited the saturated wood. The flames shot out and in an instant the can of alcohol exploded. The flames spread to the children's clothes and they ran outdoors screaming for aid. Neighbors hastened to their assistance and by wrapping them up in blankets and rugs extinguished the flames.

The house had also caught fire, but Mrs. White, a neighbor, put this out with buckets of water before the fire department arrived. Two hours after the accident the father and mother arrived home and learned what had happened. Only a month ago they buried their baby boy.

CANAL NOT A NEW IDEA.

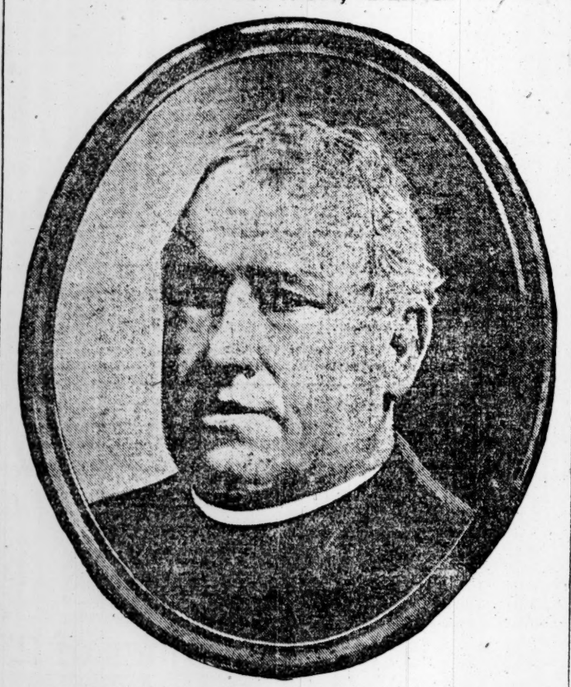

Spanish King Made Panama Plans in 1520.

Panama and Colon are now almost as healthful as cities in this country, according to Clarence Lyon Chester of New York, who gave an illustrated lecture on the digging of the canal at the University Club Monday night. He said that yellow fever, the scourge of the canal zone when the Government took charge, had disappeared. He traced the history of the attempts to connect the two oceans from 1520, when Charles V of Spain ordered a survey of the isthmus to determine the practicability of a canal.

Mr. Chester approved the choice of the Panama Commission of the sea-level type of canal. For the digging of such a canal he estimated that enough dirt would have to be taken out to build a wall three feet wide and 15 feet high around the earth and lap back 1250 miles. To build the canal, he said, would take 15 years and an expenditure of $247,000,000.

THE STORY OF FATHER JOHN'S

An Interesting Bit of History From Lowell, Mass.

In 1848, Rev. Father John O'Brien, a noble man, came to Lowell, Mass., to do the Master's work in St. Patrick's Parish. He built schools, churches and hospitals for the sick, and lived a life devoted to his Church and the spiritual and material well-being of his people—which, in his spiritual and charitable nature and liberality of mind, included all mankind.

Besides his duties of Church and administration, he was ever visiting the afflicted, cheering and encouraging the unfortunate. No matter what the weather, in winter's storm or summer heat, Father John, as he was fondly known to his people, made his daily calls. His cares and burdens greatly increased, and in 1854 his duties began to wear him down. He was attacked with a serious cold, which, developing into a stubborn cough and affliction of the lungs, caused the greatest alarm for the health of the beloved clergyman.

Medical skill seemed unable to stay the progress of the disease. Finally an Eminent Specialist was consulted. The Doctor, who had been called because of his high standing and eminence in his profession, gave Father John a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body.

The clergyman began to improve at once, and the cough soon disappeared. He continued to take the medicine, and it corrected his digestion, its food elements nourished his whole system, made new tissues and gave vital power to the blood and nerves. His people rejoiced when he declared that he had been made as well and strong as ever; and his wonderful recovery was the one thing talked of, for he was loved and admired by all, regardless of race, creed or class.

Father John recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends, and thousands were made well and strong by taking it. In getting this prescription they always called for "Father John's Medicine," and so it was named by the people, and advertised all with the approval and sanction of Reverend Father O'Brien, because he knew of its merit and desired that all who were ailing might benefit by its power to cure. The faith of the people in this valuable prescription grew because of the lasting character of its benefits, a faith that was added to by the fact that many Lowell physicians prescribed it. It is indorsed on every hand, by Clergymen, Doctors, Lawyers and by all classes. By this word-of-mouth recommendation Father John's Medicine has become a Family Medicine in countless homes, until now after 50 years of success it is known to every man, woman and child for miles around.

This old-fashioned, wholesome remedy is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the Eminent Specialist who was consulted when the case of the late Reverend Father O'Brien did not yield to the customary treatment. It is free from opium, morphine, cocaine or poisonous drugs in any form, which are found in over 99 per cent of the patent medicines; it contains no alcohol or other stimulants. It is a Food Medicine and contains only pure nourishment.

While it is not a "cough syrup" or "balsam," nothing equals this prescription for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. It has a most soothing and healing effect, and at the same time builds up the body and makes strength.

This power to make strength at the same time it cures the disease is seldom found in any medicine prescribed for colds, asthma and similar ailments. It prevents pneumonia and consumption and all diseases that waste away the body. Guaranteed.

CANNON'S GAVEL AHEAD OF TIME

Speaker Forgot Time of Assembling and Found Empty Chamber.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon's watch and the belief that the House met at 10 o'clock Monday morning made him suspicious of all mankind.

"Where's breakfast?" the Speaker demanded, coming downstairs at his home at 8 o'clock.

"Breakfast at 8:30 o'clock, sah," answered the butler.

"Hurry up. Just give me a cup of coffee, or I'll be late at the House," he said.

The coffee was given to him, and away he rushed to the Capitol, stopping on the way at one or two of the departments, only to find a sleepy messenger at each of the doors.

"It does look as though some of the officials could get to work on time," the Speaker said, as he was told "no one had come yet."

The Speaker rushed into the House like a whirlwind a few minutes before 10 o'clock.

"Where's Busby?" he asked of an attendant.

"He ain't come yet, Mr. Speaker," the attendant said.

"Huh, he's getting the late habit, too," the Speaker said. "Send Neill, my messenger, in, right away."

"Mr. Speaker, Neill ain't got here, either."

"It certainly looks as though everybody in town was late today," the Speaker said. "Well, I'll open the House at the regular hour, if the Chaplain and I are the only ones present."

The Speaker read the morning papers, and as the hands of his watch pointed to 9:59:30 he dropped his cigar and hurried into the House.

When the Speaker saw only two or three members and half a dozen pages mopping around a look of utter disgust came over his face.

Bang-whack-bang the Speaker's gavel beat a tattoo on his desk as he took his place and savagely said:

"The House will come to order."

The pages looked at the Speaker in amazement and began hurrying to the cloakroom.

"The House will be in order," the Speaker said, rapping his gavel on the desk a second time. "The Chaplain will offer prayer."

"Wait a minute, Mr. Speaker; wait a minute, sir," Neill, his messenger shouted as he rushed up to the chair.

"The House don't meet at 10 o'clock until next Monday," he whispered to Uncle Joe.

"Dammit, you're right," the Speaker said. "The House will take a recess until 11 o'clock, when the Chaplain will offer prayer."

That's why the Congressional Record may possibly show that the House was called to order twice Monday.

Quite a Job.

Boarder (to landlady): Did you hear me come home last night?

Landlady: Did I? I heard you coming home for several hours!—Translated for Transatlantic Tales from Fliegende Blatter.

WHY WOMEN SUFFER

Women have so much to go through in life that it is a pity there is so much needless suffering from backache, headache, dizziness, languor and other common aches and ills of kidney complaint.

Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new life and strength to thousands of women afflicted in this way.

Women are prone to kidney trouble. They have so much indoor work to do, so much lifting, binding and stooping; they are bound by custom to tight, heavy clothing. They get little outdoor exercise, and any little cold may bring on a kidney weakness.

Don't worry if you feel tired and dragged out—if you have backache, headache, dizzy spells, faintness and lack ambition. Don't think it's some trouble peculiar to the sex. Men suffer in the same way when they have kidney trouble.

Ask yourself this question: "Are my kidneys well?" The condition of the kidney secretions may give you an answer. If there is any noticeable irregularity begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Delay may run you into Bright's disease or diabetes.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a special medicine for the kidneys and do not affect the bowels or any other organs. There is not a particle of poison in them—just the pure roots and herbs that nature intended for curing the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of kidney trouble. Read the testimony of a woman of your own city, perhaps a neighbor.

ST. LOUIS TESTIMONY

Mrs. A. C. Grooms, living in the rear of 5239 North Broadway, St. Louis, Mo., says: "Since I used Doan's Kidney Pills in the summer of 1901, I have never had the least sign of kidney trouble. Previous to that time, I suffered for nearly a year with distressing backaches. I could scarcely get around at times, and when the pain was most severe the kidney secretions were irregular. I tried many remedies before using Doan's Kidney Pills, but obtained only temporary relief. Two boxes of this remedy made a complete cure in my case. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many of my acquaintances since 1901, and shall continue to do so."

BAR CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Consumptive "Cured," Officials Exclude Eddy Teachings.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 19.—Christian Science has been excluded from the fashionable Oakes Consumptive Home by order of Bishop Olmsted of the Episcopal Church. Christian Science practitioners have been warned off the premises. The trouble is said to have arisen over the alleged cure by Christian Science of E. E. Johnson of Baltimore, Md.

His case, it is alleged, was given up as hopeless by regular physicians. His problem in life was to wait gracefully for certain death. Then came Christian Science, laughing at the physicians, and Johnson, it is said, was cured. The matter has created great excitement at the home.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes. "First in Everything."

Piles Cured

Broken Down with Twenty Years' Suffering, Massachusetts Man Cured by Wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure.

Trial Package Free to All on Request.

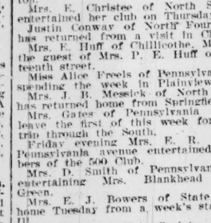

"I tried the sample of your cure you sent to me. I used it and then bought a 50c box. The results were immediate and surprising to me. I assure you, I had been to a dozen of the best doctors and paid much money to them with no results whatever. I had this affliction for 20 years. I was in a hospital for a long time, and I left it physically broken down. I have been so bad for months at a time as to be unable to walk. Having a friend who lost his life by an operation, I desisted from ever having that experiment tried on me. I owe you a debt of gratitude. I believe that piles would be banished from humanity and become an unknown thing, were every one afflicted with them to but spend from 50c to $1.00 for Pyramid Pile Cure. Its speedy action also makes it extremely favorable for impatient people. I am, yours sincerely, George H. Bartlett, Mattapan, Mass."

Why should this man be cured and you left to suffer? Why should you endure the torture of an operation when thousands of cases of the utmost severity have been instantly remedied by our method?

The Pyramid Pile Cure is Nature's method of curing piles. The little suppositories immediately reduce all congestion and swelling, heal the fevered and ulcered parts and bring the rectum back to its normal condition.

It costs you absolutely nothing to try this treatment. We will gladly send you a free trial package of the Pyramid Pile Cure in a plain sealed wrapper without any expense to you if you will send your name and address to Pyramid Drug Co., 80 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

MILLION DIVORCES IN TWENTY YEARS

Census Bureau Makes Preliminary Estimates on Statistics Recently Gathered.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Preliminary estimates made by the Bureau of Census as a result of the investigation of marriage and divorce statistics, which began last summer, indicate that the number of applications for divorce filed throughout the United States, during the 20-year period from 1887 to 1906 will reach the enormous total of 1,400,000. It is estimated that three-fourths of the applications have been granted, so that the statistics when compiled will show that in the period stated more than 1,000,000 divorces have been allowed.

In the 20-year period from 1867 to 1886, for which divorce statistics were obtained, the total number of divorces was 328,000.

On their face the figures indicate a stupendous increase, but when the ratio they bear to the population is considered, it is not so great, though still large enough to warrant the serious consideration of the American people.

Upon the basis of the average annual population of each period it appears that the number of divorces in the first period was 23 per 100,000 of population for the whole United States, and approximately 70 per 100,000 for the second period. It is estimated, therefore, that for the whole country divorces have more than doubled.

There is a striking difference in the reports of divorce applications and divorces for cities and those for the country. In the case of Chicago, for example, the number of divorces granted from 1867 to 1886 was 8136. The records thus far transcribed for the second 20-year period show 43,658 applications, of which 31,785 were granted.

It is estimated that the total number of applications will be 50,000, of which 36,000 have been granted. Upon the basis of the average annual population divorces in Chicago during the first period numbered 73 per 100,000, while they increased to 107 per 100,000 for the second period.

Chicago's increase is not nearly so great as that of Philadelphia, where the average number increased from 22 per 100,000 for the first period to 63 per 100,000 for the second period. Boston is passing Chicago in the rate of increase, which has gone up from 40 to 63. The statistics for New York have not yet been compiled.

COUNT ESTATE TO CHARITY.

University Gets $500,000 Under Creighton Will.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 18.—The will of the late Count John A. Creighton, filed for probate, makes specific bequests of $1,150,000, of which $500,000 goes to relatives and his housekeeper and $900,000 goes to educational and benevolent institutions, the Creighton University leading with $500,000.

But all that is left over, estimated to be upward of $5,000,000, is to be distributed among the beneficiaries specifically named in the will in the same proportions that their shares bear to the whole amount. Thus it is estimated each one will receive four to five times as much as specifically named.

The following institutions—besides Creighton University—are given the amounts named in the relative shares in the residue of the estate: Creighton Memorial (St. Joseph's) Hospital, $200,000; Little Sisters of the Poor, $50,000; Working Girls' Home, $50,000; Sisters of Good Shepherd, $50,000; Sisters of Poor Clare, $50,000.

Principals on Chicago Program.

Principals Bryan of Central High School and Hamsher of Smith Academy will take part in the program of the North Central Association of colleges and secondary schools at the annual meeting to be held in Chicago March 29 and 30.

KILL BURGLARS, CHIEF ADVISES

Head of Edwardsville Police Promises to Stand by Home Defenders.

Don't waste time trying to capture housebreakers. KILL THEM!

That is the advice of Chief of Police Argalus Stubbs to residents of Edwardsville, following a carnival of housebreaking and attempted highway robbery. Chief Stubbs says he will stand back of any person who shoots and kills an intruder in his home.

Six houses were entered within a short time Monday in the eastern portion of the town. Mrs. Henry Voge, wife of the president of the Henrietta Coal Co., living on North Fillmore street, was awakened by a noise and saw the face of a man rising above the footboard of her bed. She screamed and the man ran out.

Miss Ella Weeks, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Otto Milfs, residing on Browne avenue, awoke when she heard a movement in the room. Presently she felt a hand on her shoulder and heard a man's voice warning her to be quiet. She tried to cry out, and the man shifted his hold to her throat. Choked almost into unconsciousness, she screamed. The man struck her a blow that rendered her insensible and fled.

Dollie, the young daughter of William Davis of Buchanan and Wolf streets, was aroused by a man stumbling over a rug as he left the house. A small amount of money was missing.

In the home of Charles E. Cooper, on Browne avenue, a child awoke to find an intruder in her room at 4 a. m. Cooper investigated and found that $4 had been taken from his trousers pockets.

Attempts were made to enter the homes of former Alderman John Janes and Mrs. Leonard Kellerman.

At 4:30 a. m. three men tried to rob Louis Anderson at Wolf and Fillmore streets. He broke away and escaped.

HORSE DEFEATS GOAT IN TEARFUL CONTEST AT LODGE ROUND-UP

Eminent Attorneys in Rhetorical Argument and Eloquent Periods, With Erudition and Statistics, Debate the Question to the Undoing of "Billy."

THE goat is not more valuable than the horse. That fact has been established beyond cavil or peradventure by Old Guard Council No. 2021, Royal Arcanum, in solemn session and after judicial inquiry into all the merits and shortcomings of the respective quadrupeds. With all his strong claims to distinction, and despite the obligations under which they as members of a secret order feel themselves to the goat, the brethren of Old Guard stand by the horse.

The momentous case of the horse versus the goat was submitted to W. H. Kaltwasser, E. A. Oeters and Charles Chamberlain, judges, after exhaustive arguments by E. S. Delaplane and James B. Evans as counsel for the goat and Louis Tische and Joseph Seelig as attorneys for the horse.

Mr. Delaplane opened the goat's side of the question with a flood of statistics, poetry, biblical quotation and miscellaneous information that almost took the horses off their feet. He spoke like a combination of goatherd and active member of every secret organization in the universe. Beginning with Genesis he trotted faithfully behind all the goats of ancient and modern times, recounting their virtues, palliating their faults, relating their value as friends and their worth as investments.

Our Old Friend, the Scapegoat.

The convenience of the scapegoat, Mr. Delaplane said, and its benefits to mankind were prodigious. If there had been no other individual or edition of the species, Mr. Delaplane argued, the scapegoat would alone have put on the human race a debt of eternal gratitude. But Mr. Delaplane had other goats up his sleeve. The caprine herds of Cashmere, the Angora ditto, the tens of thousands of the family roaming the hills and dales of Australia were driven forth, slaughtered, butchered, skinned, sold and totaled into figures that staggered everybody.

Mr. Delaplane's dissection of his subject in a commercial sense, showed that there wasn't an ounce of a respectable goat but had a pecuniary value. Our spring lamb was nothing but poor, innocent goat. Most of our Beau Brummels in fine raiment, purporting to be all wool and of various fashionable widths, was no more nor less than deluded persons in goats' clothing. We even make light of the goat—literally as well as metaphorically.

His fat is done into expensive candles, according to Mr. Delaplane, and he continues to shine after death as an example to other beasts of the field. The milk of goats fed most of the world's heroes and philosophers (from Moses down to Napoleon and John D. Rockefeller.

Some Beauties of the Goat.

When Mr. Delaplane began unloading figures on the number and value of the goats now living there was a general disposition to take notice. So many millions of goats in Texas were worth so much, on foot and in other attitudes. Twice as many other goats in Australia, reduced to hair, hide and tallow, represented other vast sums.

Goats frolicking on the Alpine peaks, in hazardous altitudes wherein their lives appeared to be rendered hardly worth a sou, were in reality of larger pecuniary importance than all the horses in the lower and safer districts of that country.

It looked exceedingly blue for the horse when Louis Tisch arose and feelingly told what he knew of many faithful friend. He had recourse to a technicality. He held that the question was whether "a goat was more valuable than a horse." Not whether goats were more valuable than horses, not whether one species, but one individual, was of more worth to the human family. The judges upheld the point and the goat's stock fell precipitately.

Mr. Tisch Sheds Tears.

There were tears in Mr. Tisch's eyes when he mounted his steed, as it were, and went on a round-up of Mr. Delaplane's goats. He scouted the statistics which Mr. Delaplane had lavished on his subject. Mr. Tisch didn't believe there were as many goats as Mr. Delaplane indicated and demanded a count. Mr. Delaplane refused to surrender a single goat. He declined also to come down a cent on their value. Mr. Tisch appealed to the sentiment of the judges and auditors. He wanted to know whether they intended to desert their ally after all these years.

Five minutes' intermission for weeping preceded the introduction of Mr. Evans' arguments in behalf of the goat.

Like Mr. Delaplane he subpenaed the Bible as a witness of the goat's services. The goat had a cloven hoof and was good for food. The horse not having that evidence of his edibility, is barred by the Mosaic laws from the table—except during sieges and public calamities of that sort.

Makes Better Butter.

Mr. Evans said he didn't like to introduce a kid in so serious a debate, but he couldn't refrain from some mention of their value in the old biblical times. The 20,000,000 of members of American secret societies and fraternal organizations, he declared, would find themselves unable to proceed with their missions without a sufficient supply of goats.

They had managed to get along nicely without horses, by substituting automobiles for them in faring back and forth on pleasure and business. He clinched his argument by the declaration that a goat invariably made the best butter.

Joseph Seelig closed for the horse. He said he would be afraid to look one in the face if the council should decide against the animal's superiority. He said he loved horses and was sure they would win. He felt always, he said, that they would win, though his optimism had many severe jolts in the days of racing.

This argumentum ad hominem was regarded as the thing that did the business for the goat and the judges gave a decision against him without delay or consultation.

The auditors towards the end were about evenly divided. The goats were more vociferous in their applause of points, but the horses were calmly confident after the technicality made by Mr. Tisch had been sustained.

CLIMATE NO CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Patients Will Do Better at Home, Physician Tells Ministers.

The ravages of consumption, which destroys 5000 in St. Louis every year, have caused the Christian Ministers' Association to decide to combat the disease and aid its victims. Dr. Louis M. Warfield, a member of the medical staff of the City Dispensary, and head of the tuberculosis clinic there, addressed the ministers Monday on the "white plague."

The principal thing to do, said he, is to persuade people to begin fighting the disease in its first stages, when it can be cured, for after it has passed a certain period, all learning can avail nothing. It is certain, he declared, that science has as yet no cure for consumption.

It is folly, and a waste of money, time and hope, he said, to send patients to Colorado and other so-called cure climates. With proper care and treatment, the patients are better off at home. One of the worst evils, he said, is the mental worry incident to the disease. Consumption slays, he said, more victims than any other three diseases.

Dr. Warfield, with others interested, is trying to raise money to establish a sanitarium in St. Louis for treatment of the disease in its incipient stages.

BUSINESS MEN OFF FOR PANAMA CANAL

Eighteen Members of St. Louis Commercial Club Start for Big Ditch.

TRIP NOT FOR PLEASURE

Merchants of Chicago, Cincinnati and Boston Will Join Them En Route.

The party of 18 business men representing the St. Louis Commercial Club, who are on their way to Panama with the members of the commercial clubs of Boston, Chicago and Cincinnati, have made elaborate plans for a thorough study of the canal.

They left Union Station Monday night as if they were pleasure seekers out for a month's hunting in the mountains. But as soon as they leave the wharf at Charleston, S. C., they will organize themselves into an ambitious body.

Walter Stevens, who was secretary of the World's Fair, will be elected official historian of the trip. Mr. Stevens will have two kinds of eyes with which to see on the trip—eyes that see deeply and eyes that see not.

Collins Thompson, private secretary to David R. Francis, will be the secretary of the party.

Members of the Party.

Following is a list of the St. Louisans who are making the trip: W. K. Bixby, Murray Carleton, George O. Carpenter, Daniel Catlin, L. D. Dozier, David R. Francis, Robert McK. Jones, Homer P. Knapp, Charles Gordon Knox, Robert Moore, D. C. Nugent, Henry C. Scott, Mayor Rolla Wells, Oscar L. Whitelaw, George M. Wright, Walter B. Stevens, Collins Thompson and Charles W. Knapp.

Two special Pullman cars were obtained to take the St. Louisans to Charleston. In this connection an amusing story is being told about Daniel Catlin. Mr. Catlin is somewhere near 6 feet 7 inches in height. He always has much inconvenience on ordinary Pullman cars, owing to the short length of the berths.

Room to Stretch Himself.

Secretary Thompson heard of this and he went to the Pullman company and explained that as long as Mr. Catlin was taking such a long trip from home everything ought to be done to make the beginning of the trip as pleasant as possible. The Pullman officials got busy and as a result a car was found with a drawing room berth of unusual length.

The Cincinnati and Chicago Commercial Clubs' delegations will join the St. Louis crowd when the train passes through Cincinnati today. The Boston crowd will meet the rest at Charleston and the entire party, numbering over ninety of the best-known business men of the four cities will sail Wednesday from Charleston on the Prinz Joachim. Porto Rico and Havana will be visited on the trip to Panama.

HELD ON A CRUELTY CHARGE.

Woman Accused by Girl Under $500 Bond.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PERRYVILLE, Mo., Feb. 19.—Mrs. Joseph Neihaus of Point Rest, charged with burning and beating her adopted daughter, Maggie Shinn, 12 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $300 at the close of her preliminary hearing here yesterday before Magistrate W. D. Brewer. The courtroom was crowded when the girl told of the alleged cruelties of her adopted mother.

Prosecuting Attorney J. J. Selbel and J. F. Greenwell conducted the State's case and John V. Noell appeared for the defense. Many witnesses were heard. The womans' trial is expected to come up at the April term of the Circuit Court. She gave the bond.

JUDGE'S LIFE THREATENED.

Incendiaries' Prosecutor Denounces Letter Writers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINN CREEK, Mo., Feb. 19.—Letters signed "Protective and Collection Company," threatening the life of Judge Argus Cox, and the lives and property of others, if he persisted in investigating incendiarism in the western part of Camden County, were read by Judge Cox when he opened Circuit Court here.

Judge Cox said he construed the letters to be admissions of guilt by members of the organization and denounced them as criminals. He expressed the belief that some of them were present and notified them no effort would be spared to bring them to justice.

Man Hurt in Alley Dies.

August Loeffler, aged 56 years, a laborer, died at the City Hospital Monday afternoon without regaining consciousness. He was picked up insensible Monday morning in the rear of a saloon at 509 South Second street and when taken to the City Hospital was found to have three fractured ribs and wounds on the head. These the police think he suffered from a fall, as he was said to have been drinking for several days. His body was taken in charge by the Coroner.

Navy Paymaster Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Assistant Paymaster W. P. Sypher, U. S. N., has been dismissed from the Navy on account of technical embezzlement. Sypher was tried at the navy yard in this city on the charge of being unable to account for $1300 of funds entrusted to him. The board convicted him and the matter has been before the Secretary of the Navy for some time for review. The law in cases of this kind is mandatory, requiring dismissal or conviction.

Postoffice Safe Blown.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 19.—The postoffice safe at Sandborn, Knox County, was blown by cracksmen this morning. Three hundred dollars in cash and stamps were taken. Sheriff Westfall has the Boonville bloodhounds on the scent.

All Clews in Case Fail.

No trace has been found of the robbers who made an unsuccessful attempt to loot the safe of the Pickel Marble Co. and were frightened away by the night watchman. The heavy iron door, which was removed when the men smashed the hinges with a sledge hammer, has been replaced. William Pickel, head of the concern, is an uncle of Capt. Pickel of the North Market Street Police Station, which is two blocks distant.

MRS. LEE ROBBINS, ERRING HUSBAND SHE FORGIVES, MAN WHO SHOT HIM AND A SPECTATOR OF TRAGEDY

FORGIVES HUSBAND WHO WOOED ANOTHER

Mrs. Lee Robbins Visits Man Shot By Frank Baker Whose Wife He Was Escorting to Theater—Baker's Defense Is to Be "Unwritten Law."

Though wronged by her husband, Mrs. Lee M. Robbins declared Tuesday that she was ready to forgive him. She called at the City Hospital, where Robbins was taken immediately after he had been shot Sunday night by Frank Baker, whose wife he was escorting to the theater.

"Oh, Lee, how could you give up your life for such a woman?" she exclaimed as she approached the bedside of the wounded man. Robbins looked at her, but was prevented by the attendant physician from talking.

Mrs. Jane Robbins, mother of the wounded man, and Emery Robbins, his brother, both from Bloomington, Ill., arrived late Monday. They immediately took sides, the mother defending her daughter-in-law, and the brother denouncing his sister-in-law with much vigor.

If the wishes of the wounded man's mother are carried out Mrs. Baker will not be permitted to see Robbins at the hospital. She called there and said she was his wife, demanding to see him. She was admitted, but not allowed to talk with the patient.

Mother and wife unite in saying that if Mrs. Baker would leave him alone Robbins would be content to live with his wife.

Baker has engaged Attorney Phil H. Sheridan to defend him. It happens that he was the attorney for Mrs. Robbins in a police court case, and it was this reason that prompted Baker to select him.

"This is a strong case with the unwritten law defense," said Attorney Sheridan. "Mrs. Baker and Robbins have been flaunting their affection for each other in the face of Mrs. Robbins and Baker. I have letters written by Mrs. Baker to Robbins when she was in the West."

BOY AND SISTER BURNED.

They Were Trying to Kindle Fire With Alcohol.

In trying to build a fire in the kitchen stove with the aid of alcohol, Minnie and Edward Bitza, aged 13 and 15 years, of 223 Dover street, Carondelet, were burned by the explosion of the liquid. They were taken to the City Hospital, where the girl is in a critical condition.

About 3 o'clock Monday afternoon the neighbors were horrified by the screams of the children and their appearance as they ran, blazing from head to foot, into the yard.

The house had also caught fire and the neighbors were kept from the front entrance by the blaze. Three men entered by tearing down a part of the rear fence, and smothered the flames enveloping the children with carpets and rugs.

CAT BURIAL BILL KILLED.

House Doesn't Think Graveyard for Pets Necessary.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 19.—The bill for the incorporation of a cemetry for the burial of pet cats, which last week had been advanced to the third reading stage in the Legislature, was itself consigned to the graveyard when Representative Mock of Boston said:

"I thought this measure was a joke last week, but I really begin to believe that some men are taking it seriously. First we have the burial ground for these pets. Then, of course, why not funerals? Then the decoration of the graves of these pets, for the decoration of graves is entirely proper. And who knows but one of the ministers of this House might not be called on to officiate at the burial services?"

The House reversed its previous action and killed the bill, 52 to 71.

Soldier's Children Unclaimed.

Two negro children, Anna May Braden, aged 9 years, and her sister, Emma L. Braden, aged 6 years, who reached St. Louis from Cheyenne, Wyo., Tuesday morning, are at Union Station with nobody to claim them. They told the matron they were destined for the Oblate Sisters Home, but there no one knew of them. They each wore a tag marked "St. Louis, Mo." The older child said her father is a member of Troop H, Tenth United States Cavalry. They left Cheyenne Sunday.

FIRE ROUTS WHIST PARTY.

Child Drops Lighted Match on Carpet, Damage $900.

The carelessness of a child in dropping an unextinguished match on the carpet after lighting the gas is supposed to have caused a $900 fire at 105 North Eighth street Monday night. The house is a three-story brick structure. The E. B. Fink Insurance Co. occupies the first floor and Samuel Goldstein and family the second and third floors.

The fire started in Goldstein's apartments, while he was entertaining a party of friends at whist. Goldstein's furniture was damaged $500, the building $200 and the fixtures of the insurance company $200.

THEY MUST NOT KNOCK.

Salem (Mass.) Couple Agree to Strange Separation Contract.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALEM, Mass., Feb. 19.—Much to the amazement of their friends, the Rev. Charles H. Puffer, pastor of the Universalist Church of Salem, has signed a unique contract of separation with his wife, to expire at the end of three years, when both will agree to a divorce, but during the three years neither shall say one word of a disparaging nature regarding the other.

The terms of the separation agreement were drawn up by Attorney William E. Chaple, representing Dr. Puffer, and Attorney J. F. Quinn, representing Mrs. Puffer. They are that Mrs. Puffer shall be paid $75 a month for three years, and if a divorce be granted at the end of the three years Dr. Puffer is to turn over to her property valued at $7000. Mrs. Puffer was wedded to Dr. Puffer in Arizona 22 years ago. They came to Salem a few years ago.

Wife Refuses to Prosecute.

Sida Mogab was dismissed Monday in the Dayton Street Police Court on a charge of mistreating his wife, Mira Korie Mogab, because she refused to testify against him. He lives at 1119 North Vandeventer avenue, and was arrested there Feb. 3 on complaint of his wife, who said he had beaten her. She gave every evidence of having suffered violence, and was confined several days in the Deaconness Hospital. The case against her husband was continued several times because she wasn't present, and when she was finally taken into court it was on an attachment. She refused positively to say anything at all against Mogab. They have separated, and she is now living at 508 South Fourth street.

SAYS HUSBAND BROKE HER NOSE

Wife Seeking Divorce Avers He Repeatedly Threatened to Kill Her.

Mrs. Nellie Lemon, who is suing H. Brent Lemon for divorce, alleges that he twice broke her nose. She sets out other indignities in her petition, filed late Monday afternoon in the Circuit Court.

The couple were married in Belleville. She says that he cursed her and called her names, stayed out until 1, 2 and 3 a. m., and sometimes all night, and refused to provide for her, although well able to do so.

He broke her nose the first time, she says, in June, 1906, at Jefferson avenue and Olive street, by hitting her. Three or four weeks later, she says, at 4040 Olive street, where she was living, she heard an automobile in front of the house and went to the door. The automobile had stopped across the street. She saw him assist a woman to alight from the machine, she says, and she crossed the street and remonstrated with him. When she started to return to the house he followed her, she states, seized her and again broke her nose with a blow. She says she believes that but for the intervention of a policeman he would have killed her.

She alleges that on Sept. 4, 1906, he called on her at her sister's home, where she was then living flourished a revolver and threatened to kill her. Her sister telephoned for a policeman.

She alleges that on Sept. 17, 1906, he broke open the door at her sister's house and searched the premises, threatening to kill her. She escaped by the back door. Policemen guarded the place, she says, and at 2 a. m. arrested him and Thomas O'Brien in a gangway. She says he had a revolver. She preferred charges against him and states that he fled under a $1150 bond.

She states that in 1905, at the office of an automobile company, he struck her in the face with his fist and that she twice had him arrested for beating her.

She names Louise Lassar in her petition and states that he associated with other women whose names she does not know. She says she does not know where he is now. She asks the restoration of her maiden name, Nellie Martin.

Car Protests Win Reform.

A better street car service for Maplewood is the promise held out by the United Railways Co., according to the report of the committee of the Maplewood Improvement Association chosen to protest against the present service. President G. A. Hoffman of the Bank of Maplewood, chairman of the committee, read the report Monday night. A committee was appointed to seek better fire protection. A volunteer department was suggested.

He Feared 300 Pursuers.

Henry Beckley, 27 years old, a molder, living at 545 West Davies street, is a patient in the observation ward of the City Hospital. He was arrested by two policemen at 2:45 a. m. Tuesday while running east on Robert street, near Pennsylvania avenue. After he told them that he was being pursued by 300 armed men, he was taken to the First District Police Station and then sent to the hospital.

Pupils to Give a Recital.

The pupils of Mr. John Towers will give a song recital Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, at 8:15 o'clock, at Balmer & Weber's Musical Hall, 1004 Olive street. Solos will be given by H. T. Lindsey, Miss Morris, Miss Strauss, Mr. Edwards, Leo Miller, Miss Watt, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Hoffman.

GARDNER SAYS HE WAS FROZEN OUT

Defense Hopes Judge Will Throw Out Case Charging Embezzlement.

GERARDI ANGRY WITNESS

Objects to Attorney McCoy's Sharp Cross-Questioning Method.

The trial of Henry B. Gardner, a real-estate dealer, with offices in the Mercantile Trust Building, charged with the embezzlement of $17,500 from Joseph Gerardi, was resumed Tuesday before Judge Sale.

Joseph Gerardi Jr. took the stand Tuesday, after his father had been cross-examined on Monday's testimony, and told of his discovery that the property was listed in Gardner's name, and not in his, as he had supposed.

"Why didn't you say something about it at that time?" Attorney McCoy, for the defense, asked.

"Because I trusted him implicitly," Gerardi retorted.

Gerardi said he made the discovery early in October. Later he told of the formation of the Monarch Realty Co., which was incorporated to build the hotel and in which Gerardis were stockholders. He said at first he thought this company was formed after he found the property was listed in Gardner's name, then that it was before, then refused to make any positive statement about it at all.

In one important respect the witness' testimony seemed to conflict with his father's. Joseph Gerardi said Gardner was to receive no commission for buying the property. His son said the comission was to be $5000.

Gardner and Charles P. Johnson of counsel for the prosecution, became angry during a conversation begun in an undertone, and Gov. Johnson startled those about him by saying sharply: "Don't address me, sir—don't address me again." The Court took no notice of the incident.

Elder Gerardi Testifies.

The elder Gerardi testified Monday that he had been a hotel keeper in St. Louis for 30 years, and was part owner of the Grand Avenue and Westmoreland hotels.

He charged in his original complaint that Gardner, while acting as his agent, purchased a lot 150x250 feet at King's highway and Maryland avenue. This lot was to have been the site of a family hotel, to be erected by the Joseph Gerardi Hotel Co., which was incorporated later.

Sept. 27, he testified, Gardner told him that he had purchased the lot, making the first payment of $20,000. The lot was valued at $115,000.

Gerardi testified that he then gave Gardner a certificate of deposit for $18,702.79, in part payment of this $20,000, which Gardner had paid from his individual funds. Gardner, he said, gave him a receipt for this amount.

Oct. 3 Gerardi said he was told by Gardner that a note for $16,500 was due on the property and that if it was not paid within 10 days it would be protested and the property sold. With his wife and son, Joseph Gerardi Jr., Gerardi said, he went to Gardner's office and gave him a certified check for $18,000. Gardner, he testified, gave him a check for $500, saying that $17,500 was all that he needed, $2,500 to apply on the note and the other $1000 due on the first payment made by the Gerardis to Gardner.

Stories Clash, Says Lawyer.

On cross-examination Gerardi startled attorneys for both defense and prosecution by declaring that the criminal action brought was caused by the handling of the first sum and not the second transaction involving $17,500 the exact amount Gardner is charged with embezzling.

Attorney Joseph McCoy's methods of cross-examination drew protests from Attorney Charles P. Johnson, assisting the State. McCoy explained to the Court.

"Your Honor," he said, "I have managed to get this witness to tell several conflicting stories, and that is the reason I am asking him these questions."

Twice McCoy appealed to the Court, asking that the State's counsel be prevented from coming to the assistance of his client. Twice he stopped his questions and told Johnson that if he (Johnson) wished he would turn the witness over to him.

Gerardi became very excited, and once shaking his finger in McCoy's face, said: "You must not come to me, an old man, and make me out a liar."

Judge Sale, when Gerardi answered a question before it had been completed, cautioned him against answering so quickly.

When asked by McCoy if he ever saw a contract between Gardner and members of the hotel company, he made a vehement negative answer.

He denied that he knew anything concerning the Monarch Realty Co., organized to finance the hotel, or that he knew any of the plans of this company.

Discovered a Mortgage.

He said he found out that the deed whereby the property was acquired by Gardner was made out in the name of Gardner and his wife, and also ascertained that a mortgage of $45,000 had been placed on the property by Gardner. His memory failed him when it came to fixing the dates of the several transactions, and it took considerable effort on the part of McCoy to get him to give a definite date.

After the adjournment of court, Gardner declared to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the charges on which he had been indicted were unfounded.

Paid Earnest Money.

"Gerardi employed me to purchase the lot," he said. "The price was $115,000. Of this $5000 earnest money was to be paid at once, and $15,000 later as the first payment.

"A first deed of trust for $47,500 was already on the property, as well as one for $2500, which as assumed. With the $45,000 deed of trust which I put on, the total amount of the transaction equaled the purchase price of $115,000. That was the way the property was to have been paid for. I paid the first $20,000 out of my own pocket and told Gerardi that the $45,000 must be paid in 10 days. At the end of that time, when he did not pay me, I put the mortgage on it. It was the only way to hold it and raise money.

"I was also retained to finance the building of the hotel, which was to cost $600,000. The Joseph Gerardi Hotel Co. was organized, and for my part in financing the deal I was to receive a certain amount of the stock. Later, all the stock and property was assigned to the Rookery Realty, Loan and Investment Co., of which Gerardi controls the majority of stock and I was 'froze out.'

"When asked if he was going to file a demurrer to the State's case, McCoy replied that he would do so after all the evidence was in. "I want to get all this before the Judge, and I don't think it will ever get to the jury," he said.

HOTEL OWNER AND HIS FORMER AGENT HE IS PROSECUTING

HARRY D. GARDNER, the Defendant.

JOSEPH GERARDI, Sr., the Plaintiff.

HIS MIND WAVERS FIGURING OUT PAY

Prodigy Amazes Crowd at Hospital While Recovering by Mathematical Feats.

The observation ward at the City Hospital contains a mathematical prodigy, Arthur Griffin, aged 26, of Milford, Ind. Without a moment's hesitation he gives the correct answers to problems in addition, multiplication, division, square and cube root and interest.

He had been working as a blacksmith's helper for a St. Louis firm, but quit his job Saturday, because, he says, extra work was put upon him without extra pay. A delay in getting his money caused him to fear that he would not get it at all, and this worry appears temporarily to have deranged him. He has now received his mental balance, but is being held for observation.

A reporter asked him the product of 579, multiplied by 63. In an instant he replied 36,477. He was then asked to multiply 46,956 by 25,231. The almost instant answer was 1,235,208,836. When he was told by a bystander that his birthday was Nov. 30, 1882, Griffin immediately announced that was Thursday. Many other difficult problems he found just as easy.

Griffin says that he has been studying mathematics for 12 years and that his feats are accomplished partly by memory and partly by a system of short cuts in calculation which he invented. His memory is so retentive, he says, that whenever he passes through a street in any town, he is able to recall at any moment afterward not only the name of the street, but also the numbers and signs on the houses.

He has exhibited his talent, he says, before college professors all over Indiana and Illinois.

HIS STORE A LANDMARK.

Louis Feldmann Kept Place Half a Century.

The funeral of Louis Feldmann, who died from old age at 826 Wash street, where he had conducted a grocery for more than half a century, will be held Wednesday afternoon. Rev. C. L. Carriere, pastor of the New Jerusalem Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Feldmann was 77 years old when he died. He came to St. Louis as a youth, and was first a shoemaker. Then he bought the property at Ninth and Wash streets and started the grocery store which has become a landmark. His wife died two years ago, aged 74. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Louis Heckert, Mrs. Cassie Schmidt and Mrs. Theodore Faust, and a son, Louis Feldmann Jr.

BOY TRIES HIS HAND AT FORGERY

Philip Robonovitz, 1122 North High Street, is Now Sorry He Did It.

LOOKED AWFULLY EASY

Taken by the Police in the National Bank of Commerce.

Fourteen-year-old Philip Robonovitz of 1122 North High street, thought all that was necessary for him to do to obtain money was to get a blank check, fill it out for the amount he desired, sign Louis P. Aloe's name to it and present it to the paying teller of the National Bank of Commerce. Philip's dream was gradually nearing realization. He got as far as the paying teller's desk, and then when all he had to do to make his dream complete was to accept the money, a policeman stepped in and awoke him. It was a bad dream that made Philip a better boy. In the matron's detention room at Four Courts he now deeply regrets that he entertained such slight regard for the great financial system of the United States.

Last summer Philip went to work for the Modern View Printing and Publishing Co. Part of his work for the printing company was to take checks to the bank. The company's banking business was done with the National Bank of Commerce. One of the customers of the printing company was Louis P. Aloe, and frequently Philip took Mr. Aloe's check, made payable to the printing company, to the bank.

Dental Company After Him.

Philip had previously collected for a dental concern which left St. Louis and went to New York. The manager left some uncollected bills with Philip to collect. He collected the money and forgot to send it on. When the manager wrote to him the other day for a statement, Philip resolved to get the necessary money by presenting a check of his own origin to the teller for payment. After depositing checks his employer had sent him to the bank with he walked over to the desk in the center of the banking room and took a blank check from the rack. Then he filled it out. "Pay to the order of Phillip Robonovitz the sum of $34.50. Louis P. Aloe," is the way the check read when Philip got through writing on the blank. Then he stepped out to the sidewalk and inspected the check carefully. "I don't see why that won't work," he said to himself as he again entered the bank. Walking up to the paying teller's window, Philip boldly presented the check for payment. The teller looked at it and then at Philip. The official could hardly suppress the smile that crept across his face. The check looked as funny to him as a comic valentine. The writer had made no apparent effort to imitate Mr. Aloe's signature. He had merely disguised his own hand.

"Where did you get this check?" asked the tellen.

"From Mr. Aloe," said Philip, looking the teller squarely in the eye.

The teller stepped to a telephone and called the police. Then he went back to the window and again began questioning Philip.

Admits His Guilt.

Philip gave evasive answers to the teller's questions. He wanted to talk about the weather and the banking business. In a few minutes an officer from headquarters hurried up to the teller's window.

"Where's the forger?" asked the officer.

"Here he is," said the teller, pointing to the boy in front of the cage.

Philip was taken to the Four Courts. He denied that he had made out the check at first.

"How did you ever expect to get any money on this thing?" asked Chief of Detectives Smith. "Why, it not even indorsed."

"A man gave it to me and told me to get the money," replied the lad.

"Who was the man?"

"I don't know."

Samples of Philip's handwriting were taken, but they did not correspond with the writing on the check. Then an officer went down to the printing office where Philip is employed and obtained samples of his writing there. The samples did not correspond with the samples Philip made for the police. He broke down and confessed to having made out the check.

"I don't know why I did it," he sobbed. "I thought all I had to do was to make out a check and sign Mr. Aloe's name and then get the money. If I get out of this I'll never do wrong again."

WIFE AND FATHER NEED NOT DEFEND

C. C. York Withdraws Divorce Suit in Which He Made Serious Charges.

Charles C. York, who accused his father of flirting with his 18-year-old wife, withdrew his suit for divorce Tuesday. The suit was pending in Judge Foster's court and was set for trial on Feb. 25. York, who describes himself as a "jack of all trades" and who is, more specifically, a cornet player, lives at 915 Buchanan street. He is 30 years old.

In his suit for divorce, filed early in February, he alleged that on Sunday, Dec. 16, he returned home earlier than usual and heard sounds of merry making as he entered the door. He said that he found his father, Hiram York, aged 65, with a whisky bottle in his hand, talking to his young daughter-in-law. The father, York said, explained that they were "lifting the lid" and that he was merely keeping the young wife company during her husband's absence.

York said he left the house, but, returning later in the evening, found his father still there, whereupon he separated from his wife. Shortly afterwards the suit for divorce was filed. York's father is supposed to be in Illinois. The wife was in a hospital at the time the suit was filed. Mrs. Angelina Vail of St. Charles, mother of Mrs. York, indignantly denied the charges against her daughter.

"FIRST IN EVERYTHING."

Possibly no telephone tree trimmer ever graduated from any school of forestry.

Mr. Baer will please note that Harry Thaw labored under the hallucination that he was the Agent of Providence.

The Municipal Assembly can easily demonstrate by its work the falsity of Senator Prendergast's charge that it is more devoted to special than to public interests. In this case a demonstration is far more convincing than a protest.

IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

The bill empowering municipalities to regulate the rates of public-service corporations is apparently the victim of lobby trickery in the House, as it was in the Senate. The House Committee on Municipal Corporations, to which were referred several bills similar to the Senate bill, which was amended to include St. Louis after the Post-Dispatch had exposed the job of eliminating this city from the bill as originally reported, has held them beyond the 10-day limit permitted by the House rules.

This 10-day rule was adopted to prevent the smothering of bills in committee, and its revival shows how desperate the Public Service Corporation's lobby is in its efforts to prevent legislation which may affect public utility rates.

The members of the House Committee on Municipal Corporations are:

Michael E. Casey, Kansas City; J. G. Miller, Saline County; W. H. Sherman, St. Joseph; J. T. Barker, Macon; W. T. Heathman, Randolph County; John Moroney, St. Louis; N. R. Halcomb, Kansas City; N. A. Ditzler, Kansas City; J. P. Porth, Jefferson City; James Roach, Carthage; E. L. Hart, St. Joseph.

How is it possible for any legislator to justify his standing in the way of a bill placing in the hands of municipalities the power to regulate public-service rates?

This power ought to reside in the municipalities as a measure of protection against public-service monopolies. If there is any danger in such a grant of power to the municipalities, it is not a danger that affects the people or is to be feared by the people. The only ground for fear lies in the possibility that the rates for gas, electricity, street railway transportation and other public utilities may be reduced. This fear is on the part of the public-service corporations; but there is no real danger that municipal governments will do an essential injustice to the public-service corporations, because the courts would not sustain confiscatory rates.

The power to regulate rates should reside in the municipalities in order that no public-service monopoly may be able to oppress the public by unreasonable charges. No corporation should be permitted to squeeze interest and dividends out of the public to make good millions of dollars of watered capital.

The legislator who stands against a bill which will give the power to municipalities to prevent oppression of this kind stands for the public-service monopoly and not for the people.

Though St. Louis is not in St. Louis County, the County has in the past year increased its taxable wealth $6,000,000.

NOTHING IN IT.

The rather widespread suspicion that Providence is not in league with any political party, notwithstanding the assurances of such mortal viceroys as Speaker Cannon, is confirmed by the Rev. Dr. Bitting, an eminent Baptist divine of St. Louis.

Dr. Bitting does not mention any names, but he asks us to be "piously impatient" of these claims. He assures us that Providence has not delegated its functions to any political party. Inasmuch as this has never been claimed for any party but the Republican, the Doctor's rebuke necessarily applies there. It ought to do a great deal of good. The tendency to detect divine afflatus in party platforms and editorials has been very strong among Republicans, and the successes which have uniformly attended the efforts of the party for which the claim was made have rendered a great many Democrats more or less uneasy lest their politics be an offense in the sight of Heaven.

To learn that the Republican party is, after all, only mortal, may encourage the Democrats to get together in the next national campaign and see that it goes the way of all mortals.

In a tariff war with Germany, the consumers in both countries would be hard hit.

UNHOLY BARGAIN HUNTERS.

The "unholy lust for bargains" Bishop Charles D. Williams has attacked in Chicago, must be raging there this Lent. The Bishop tells his Lenten penitents that "judgment day will be a day of surprises for them," and that they may stand speechless with the "brand of shame written on their brows," because of the way they hunt bargains.

This is strong language. It seems the lust for bargains has reached a pitch in Chicago where it is almost as unholy as murder and much more so than cornering the wholesale market for breadstuffs and provisions—a species of Chicago unholiness which goes on just as usual and wholly unnoticed, while the blaze of Lenten reform is sweeping towards the retail bargain counters.

Fortunately in St. Louis, we are reaching a stage where the natural and, therefore, commendable instinct to spend half a day in saving 10 cents at a marked-down sale in baby clothes, is being chastened by the moralizing influences of higher civilization.

It is more than a year since the police had to be called to any St. Louis bargain counter. It is over eighteen months since St. Louis bargain hunters have been caught in the crush and squeezed until they fainted, three or four at a time.

Of course, some St. Louis bargain hunters (and some others) may find surprises at Judgment day. It is possible to be surprised by certain processes of self-revelation even without hunting bargains. But it is comfortable to think how our St. Louis bargain-hunters will look, at least on the average, when those of Chicago are all lined up with the Brand of Shame burning on their foreheads.

Mark Twain's new suit of soft white broadcloth will exclude him from both St. Louis and Pittsburg.

THE HIGHEST LAW

In every such case of homicide under the "unwritten law" as that with which St. Louis began the week, the jury is almost sure to decide its verdict on a single point—that the man who was killed "deserved killing."

This has nothing to do with law or evidence in such cases, but it is useless to argue against it.

It is not the real and final question in any case where the question is of one man killing another.

The real and final question is of what any man's life is worth after he has killed another man for revenge.

A higher law, the very highest "unwritten law" of human life, runs against him in all such cases. He has by his own act shipwrecked his own life. He cuts himself off from the great mass of mankind who have not killed others. He may be acquitted by them; he may go among them as usual and be treated with sympathy, but he knows and they know that he is isolated in a class from which he can never escape while he lives. If others did not know it, he would know it himself, and that self-knowledge would be enough to cut him off from every hope of the higher development of mind and the higher usefulness he might otherwise have reached.

For a man to kill his own higher faculties, the better and higher part of his own life, is to inflict on himself a capital punishment of higher law from which there is no escape.

Among almost all wild animals which mate in pairs the law of combat is part of the law of the family and the fight to the death is often part of its operation. The same law operates even when such animals are tamed, and until men become rational, it governs them also.

As a man does become rational, he becomes aware not only of the law in the books and the law of public opinion in the community, but of the law of his own mind, the highest law, to violate which is to wreck his own life.

The decision that a wife has a right to her husband's money, regardless of the use to which she wants to put it will be hailed with joy by the victims of too little pin-money.

BY WAY OF SUGGESTION.

The 24 business men, representing commercial bodies of St. Louis, who go to Panama this week, are acting with business men from other cities on "a suggestion from President Roosevelt."

It may turn out to be a highly useful suggestion of what the "era of canal digging" may mean.

At the Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway Convention in St. Louis, one of the best informed speakers of the convention, called attention to the fact that English merchants can deliver goods of all kinds at Vera Cruz for the City of Mexico by water from Liverpool at less cost for freightage than they can be delivered from St. Louis.

This is a result of the water rate in which a thousand miles or so of distance disappears when the goods are once loaded. With an open way by water through the Panama Canal, the same goods from Liverpool can be delivered in San Francisco at a lower rate than they can be delivered by rail from New York, Chicago or St. Louis.

If President Roosevelt wishes to give St. Louis business men another lesson in the benefits of water routes for all wholesale business, the lesson ought to be received with thankfulness and its fruits digested.

Just now, however, when St. Louis is trying to use for the benefit of the Mississippi Valley and of the whole country what it has already learned of the benefit of water transit from Lakes to Gulf, there are obstacles in Washington which it may take more blasting to get through than St. Louis business men will find going on in the Culebra cut.

Jones, Smith and Brown are evidently passing when three sisters in Illinois each marries a gentleman of the name of Thompson.

WATCH THE JAPANESE.

Count Leo Tolstoi.

The Christian nations have for centuries, under the pretext of self-defense, invented one device after another to exterminate each other, and have employed these devices to threaten each other and to acquire all sorts of advantages amid the uncivilized peoples of Africa and Asia. And out of these uncivilized peoples comes a military, clever and enterprising nation, and seeing the dangers threatening all the unchristian nations, it masters with remarkable rapidity all that had given supremacy to the Christian nations, and becomes stronger than they, realizing the simple truth that if someone strikes you with a big, strong stick, you must also take such a big stick, or perhaps even a still larger and stronger stick, and strike him that strikes you. The Japanese have quickly learned this wisdom, and also the technique of warfare, and possessing besides the advantage of religious despotism and patriotism, they have demonstrated a military power which has proved stronger than the strongest of military powers.

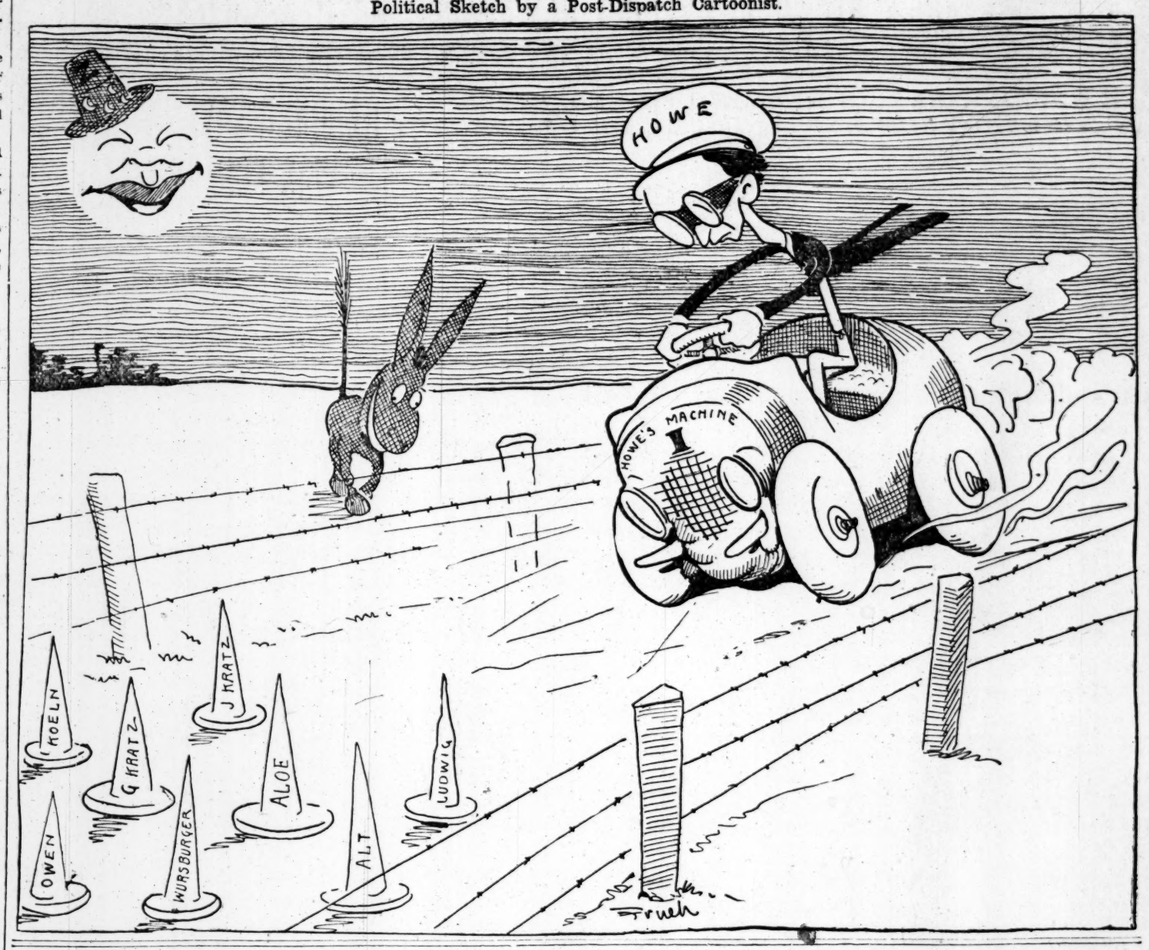

SERVANT MAIDS' MONTE CARLO.

From the London Telegraph.

Two servant maids attended a meeting of the Guilford Charity Trustees to throw dice for the charity known as "Maids' Money." This was left by John Howe in 1674, and each year there is a competition for a check for £11 9s. The dice throwers must have been employed for two years in one service in Guilford, but not at an inn or alehouse. Laura Cadman, who had 16 years' service, secured the check with a double six. Emma Trimmer (eight years' service) throwing six and three. Trimmer will be allowed to try again next year.

JUST JOKES

A ROYAL JOKE.

From Harper's Weekly.

Spain's 20-year-old King is still, it seems, very much of the boy. Every once in a while he drops unexpectedly into the unconventional in a way productive of much embarrassment to his entourage.

His latest prank was played in the great cathedral at Leon, to which, with his Queen, he recently paid an unofficial visit. He had gone alone into the organ loft, and had begun to play a chant—for Alfonzo's education has made of him an organist of ability as well as a linguist—when with no warning whatever he switched off into a sharp military march, at the same time calling out in a loud voice:

"Attention! Quick step! Forward!"

Priests and suite were for the instant too surprised to do anything but gasp—and the next minute there was the solemn strain of the chant again, with the laughter of the King heard beneath it.

Folly to Be Wise.

From Life.

"But why should I keep books?"

"Well, you would know just where you stood at the end of the month."

"But, my dear fellow, why rub it in?"

Privileged Character.

From the Milwaukee Sentinel.

"Pardon me, but who is the man youder talking in such a loud tone of voice?"

"He's an agent for 'The Society for the Suppression of Useless Noises.'"

Soldierly Wit.

There once was a soldier quite thin,
Whose tongue hung away from his chin,
When asked what was wrong
He gulped loud and long
And said he was just mustard in.

Mrs. Newed: Certainly. Otherwise he wouldn't have married me.

Nursery Rhymes to Date.

From the New York World.

IN addressing a recent meeting of the Brechin Local Association of the Educational Institute of Scotland Mr. R. J. Muir, H. M. Inspector of Schools, suggested that the nursery rhymes handed down to us from generation to generation are in need of revision.

Mr. Muir cited the story of "Little Jack Horner." There he was, sitting in solitude, gorging fare that was probably unwholesome—a boy who was a combination of sensuality and self-conceit. Was that a model for a growing boy? Would it not be better to substitute something like:

Little John Cable sat at the table,
Serving some Irish stew;
He heaped up the plate of his small sister Kate,
Saying, "What a good girl are you!"

Take, again, "Mary, quite contrary." Was that the type of womanhood they wished to develop—a contradictious girl, given to jewelry and other vanities? No. Rather this:

Mary, Mary—prudent and wary—
How does your garden grow?
With peas and beans, with turnips and greens,
Which are good for soup, you know.

Consider, too, Miss Muffet—how did she agree with an age when girls played tennis, rode bicycles and even drove motor-cars? Try this:

Mary McDoull sat on a stool,
Eating some nice minced veal;
There came a big spider, but Mary defied her,
And calmly went on with her meal.

THE JOY OF MARRYING

How the Increase in the Price of Marriage Licenses Corresponds to Other Luxuries Set Forth for the Post-Dispatch

BY O. LEONARD.

Hein Dear Mister Edider:

I WILL be greatnessful to de Bost-Disbatch if you vill haf the goot heartiliness to bublish mine protestationess about getting marriet men to bay more for deir licenses in getting married. It vas your babers vich hat der announcing dat dere vas "No check to Cupid in Joy fee raise." Vell I should say there vas no check left for Cupid ven men like Mister Choy unt oders get a grip on a poor man who vants to prowite a life long lukchuries mit himself in der form of a weib.

It vas not very choyful for a man ven he is held up to take out 50 cents more unt gif it for a piece of babers. For 50 cents a newly marriet man can drown his trouples ten times in mine frient Inspitzer's beer academy.

Mister Choy is not only de man vat vants to pile more droubles on a married man. The landlord says the same dings. He arguffes mit himself alone: If a man is so dat he vants to get married, he vill not stop pecause I vill charge him $2 a month rent more. Unt he vents unt did as he decisions. Unt de man rents less rooms for more money unt he calss dis a home. Vich is goot for the landlord, already, ain't it, yes?

Unt the probrietors of all the meat in the country get in a conversation of confiding nature unt they elucidation: Ven a man is married he ought not to care if ve charche him 2 cents or 5 cents more on a pound of meat. If he cares he vill haf to pay it all the same. Der other men cries mit Choy, "Soak him! Let us make him pay for peeing married."

Der beebles, a small few of them, who are in controlation of coal vich vas made in the earth expressfully for dem by sbecial order, ven they see a man get marriet, they come mit elnander yet, unt advise to each other: If a man has nodings to do but spent money on lukchuries like a weib for de rest of his living, let us get a rake-off by making coal a leedle higher. He must be glat to contribution his share to make us have bigger bank accounts.

Uut so, mine dear Mister Edider, they keep on all the vay, unt, a poor man whose money looket big before he vas enchoyink the altruisticness of buying eferydings for two, begins to dink he has not made a goot bargains. Uut he grunioles to his weib, as if she vas guilty unt conspirationed mit der licens barons, land kings, coal magnates unt all the rest of de titelless beeble mit no nobility who make it tite in dis country.

Mit bleasure to exbress mein feelings, I am your for bedder days,

WHERE WOMEN ARE ALLOWED TO VOTE

From the North American Review.

THE argument that women will not vote is completely disproved by Australian experiences. They not only vote, but they vote in continually increasing numbers as time goes on, and they become educated up to a sense of their political responsibilities and all that these imply. Not all the States discriminate in their returns between men and women voters, but those that do show something like the following: In South Australia, at the last general election, 59 per cent of the men on the rolls voted and 42 per cent of the women; in Western Australia 49 per cent of the men and 47 per cent of the women voted; at the last Federal election 56 per cent of the men voted and 40 per cent of the women. None of the Australian States has yet reached the extraordinary record of New Zealand, where in 1902 nearly 75 per cent of the women electors recorded their votes, as against 76 per cent of their brothers.

$10 FOR AN IDEA

IN THE making of a popular independent newspaper which strives to keep in touch with the people, to meet their needs and tastes and to voice their sentiments, the co-operation of its readers in the way of criticism and suggestion is valuable. The Post-Dispatch wants the co-operation of its million readers. We want to know not only what they think of the work it is doing, but what they think it ought to do. To this end the Post-Dispatch will pay $10 for every practical suggestion and meritorious idea, criticism, news tip or suggestion concerning features, cartoons, public questions—anything which interests the public. The criticism or suggestion should be as brief as possible. The names and addresses of those rewarded will be published on Saturdays.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

(This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters must give name and address of writer and should not exceed 150 words. Names will not be published, if so desired. Suggestions and criticisms concerning the Post-Dispatch are invited.)

Desires Publicity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Post-Dispatch did good service the last election in showing up the candidates not fit to hold office, and it ought to give its readers the same for the spring election in April. It will do a world of good for St. Louis.

ANDREW WILLIAMS.

An Indiana Decision.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Circuit Judge S. R. Artman, of Lebanon, Ind., has held that the Legislature has no more legal right to license the sale of intoxicating liquors than it has to license gambling. If the decision is upheld by the higher courts it will close every saloon in the State of Indiana. In other words, the Legislature cannot legalize a menace to public health, nor can the State, under the guise of a police regulation looking to the public morals, license the saloon business. Both Federal and State courts have ruled that no form of gambling, such as lotteries, etc., could be legalized, since they are a peril to the welfare of society. Now if all this be true, then what is to become of the saloon business? Any citizen taxpayer, if he sees fit and proper to do so, can compel every saloon to close its doors and quit business, not only in the State of Indiana, but in any other states in the Union, provided the Legislature has not the inherent power under the fundamental principles of law to legalize and license the saloons in the retailing of intoxicating liquors.

GEORGE A. RITTER.

Bakery Merger.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Inquiry for my favorite brand of bread brought the information from my grocer that several well known brands of bread, heretofore of high quality and deservedly popular, were, this morning so inferior that he refused to handle them. A very inferior quality of flour is being used, and the bread is dark clored and heavy. From this it would appear that we are suffering already from the promised "economics" which were to result from the bakery "combine." The Post-Dispatch should expose this meanest of all "trust" methods and make things as interesting as possible for the "combine." If the small bakeries will rise to the occasion they can get the business.

D. B. GRANDY.

A Social Problem.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

After hearing and being greatly benefited by Rabbi Harrison's eloquent lecture Sunday on "What Money Is For," I would like to bring up one point out of which it seems to me he did not give us poor people any way. The rabbi stated most beautifully that one of the uses of money was to gratify desires for learning, for music, art, etc. But how solve the problem of the same life-long ambition of the poor, which are just as right as those who have the money wherewith to gratify them.

The rabbi said: "I am not a Socialist and do not believe in equal distribution." I do not think that Socialism stands for equal distribution, but for equal rights, and if it stands for anything which might suggest help for the present conditions of the ambitious poor, who have really struggled to gain wherewith to satisfy their ambitions, I would highly advocate it. It would certainly seem a better and grander way to win the hearts of the people in the way which the rabbi suggested, that is, by making them feel their responsibilities and their interdependence on each other; but when the struggle becomes too hard and heavy we certainly long for some relief.

JUSTICE.

Uses Golden Rule.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Since I became a convert to kindness in my dealings with employes, I have not had the inconvenience of doing without help. My allowance does not permit me to pay my maids the highest wages, but I do grant a few privileges, such as use of phones, bargain day shopping, occasional tickets to the theater or some other amusements, an early dinner on weekdays and tea on Sunday evening, as this allows the girl who is "in" a chance to attend the evening service. Many girls who live out are trying to help others, so by the time they dress respectably, pay for little necessaries, carfare, drugs, dentists, doctors, there cannot be a large sum to put aside for old age.

A word of approval will accomplish more than half an hour's fault-finding. The trouble is our sympathy does not extend to the girl who really serves a long day if it in any way interferes with our plans. The Golden Rule can be employed to the best advantage in the case of mistress and maid.

HOUSEKEEPER.

THE OPTIMIST

He Objects to a Statement About the Weather, but the Man With the Umbrella Gets in the Last Word.

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Hiram Hayes.

"BEAUTIFUL weather," said the Optimist as he unbuttoned his overcoat and threw out his chest. "This is the kind of a day you're glad you're alive."

"It's too good to last," said the man with the umbrella.

"Now, why should you say that?" inquired the optimist; "because it's good is just the reason it should last. If it were disagreeable you might say it's too bad to last."

"That hasn't been my experience," said the Croaker. "Good weather is all too fleeting. Bad weather"——

"Now why should you look upon something good as less likely to continue than something bad?" continued the Optimist without heeding the interruption. "And especially this season, you have had no occasion for such comment upon the weather. Isn't it reasonable to look upon good as more natural than evil, anyway?"

"It may be more reasonable as philosophy, but, as Grover once remarked, 'It is a condition, not a theory that confronts us.'"

"I'm sure you're wrong. I don't think anyone ever has had the temerity to question the sentiment of the old song which runs:

For taking the year, together, my dear,
There isn't more night than day.

Which means, I take it, that throughout life, as it goes, there isn't more gloom than sunshine; in fact the continuation of the sentiment is that

Taking the year together, my dear,
You always will find the May.

"Nothing but sentiment," interrupted the man with the umbrella. "I tell you the weather's too good to last."

"No! No!" said the Optimist. "I'll not have it that way! In the first place nothing can be too good, and in the second place experience shows that not only does the good last, but the better it is the longer it lasts. The weather is not, therefore, too good to last; it"——

"Well you just wait and see," said the man with the umbrella.

Olympic—Grace George in "Clothes."—A "smart" society satire along lines of "The New York Idea," smartly played and flippantly entertaining.

Century—Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle."—The son playing a famous father's famous role, capable at certain moments and weak at others. Company mediocre.

Grand—Nat M. Wills in "A Lucky Dog."—Farce comedy with musical trimmings. Somewhat above the average, with Wills familiar "hobo" again in evidence.

Kalich in "The Kreutzer Sonata" And Grace George in "Clothes" Thus Impressed Post-Dispatch Cartoonists

IN A powerful play so bold in objectionable material that it offends even while it fascinates with its horror the mind of an audience, Bertha Kalich at the Garrick last night confirmed the judgment of those who rank her as the greatest living tragedienne of the English-speaking stage. Her Miriam Friedlander in Jacob Gordin's Yiddish tragedy, "The Kreutzer Sonata," done into English by Langdon Mitchell, proved to be one of the most appalling creations in—I was about to say modern drama, but this would give only a weak and futile idea of its awfulness. I am tempted to venture the opinion that it takes its place among the most terrifying dramatic figures in all stage history.

Appalling, awful and terrifying are the only terms that may fitly be employed to convey an adequate impression of the tremendous aspect of this new figure contributed to the twentieth century drama by Yiddish genius, yet to these terms must be added that of piteous, because the pity-compelling quality of the character makes its poignant demand at every moment of the story. As conceived by Gordin and vitalized into being by Kalich, the Miriam Friedlander seen by St. Louisans for the first time last night makes an appeal for sympathy so overwhelming in its dreadful environment of bald realism as to be emotionally exhausting. The sympathy may not be withheld—it is commanded alike by playwright and player on grounds so sound in the natural logic of incident and character that it comes into existence with irresistible potency and increases in intensity to a close that finds one breathless under the strain of the climax then developed and swiftly terminated. The dismissed audience turns homeward silenced in comment—not lightly may so profound an impression be dismissed from the mind.

And yet, to me, the most astonishing phase of the impression thus made lies in the fact that Gordin's play is faulty in its construction when judged by the laws of the drama controlling tragedy in their operation. Miriam Friedlander, from the moment of the story's opening to that ultimate moment just preceding its end, is a figure of sacrifice, doomed to a tragic fate by every rule of convention that has heretofore prevailed. Nevertheless, at the play's terrific close, Miriam lives, the judge and executioner of her false sister and false husband, a wide field of conjecture as to the possibilities of the future being left open for the curious consideration of thoughtful students of the play. The canons of tragedy as hitherto written demanded the suicide of Miriam and her slaughter of her little son, a child of shame. The trend of the play until almost its very close makes it appear that this will be her final and crowning sacrifice, made in behalf of her sister, her father, her family's good name, and in expiation of her own sin which set the tragedy in motion, and such an ending would have made of "The Kreutzer Sonata" a tragedy which at every point would meet and satisfy the accepted requirements of greatness in art.

But Gordin refuses to make this sacrifice to convention, therein proving anew the courage of the modern school of realists who set at defiance the ancient law. To him it seems that, in the moment of her discovery of the guilty love existing between her husband and her sister, and under the latter's reckless taunting, the most natural result of her surrender to passion would be the slaying of the offending two. Here, however, a legitimately powerful motive is lacking, for it must be remembered that Miriam does not love, and never has loved, her husband, consequently jealousy has no place in the storm of soul-stress that possessed her. Neither may it be a pure and lofty condemnation of her sister's sin that justifies her, because she herself had offended as now does her sister, and such a condemnation would have called for her own suicide eight years before, when she sinned with the young Russian officer who was the father of her child. Nevertheless, Gordin carries his realism to its farthest extremity of defiance of convention—and the proof of at least the temporary power of his own reasoning is found in the fact that Miriam's sudden killing of her sister and her husband seems the one, the only and the inevitable termination of the story. This is weakness or strength, according to whether the critic be bound to the conventions of tragedy or freed of them and under the new dispensation of absolute realism.

When Kalich made her first appearance on the scene last night, a white-faced, somber figure clad in the black house gown of a Russian Jewish girl of the better class, the pitiful story of Miriam Friedlander was already well under way. We knew that she had sinned, that the Russian officer whom she loved, despairing of making her his wife because of their differences of race and religion, had slain himself; that her stern old patriarch of a father had learned of her sin and bought for her a husband who would take her to America and thus save the family name. We saw, too, that she loved her father better than she loved anything else in the world, that she was to loathe the husband whose chattel she became, and yet that she went to the sacrifice resolutely for her father's sake and accepted the life to which her sin had doomed her. Wasted by grief and shame, low and tremulous of voice, heartbreakingly eloquent in every gesture and change of expression, Kalich filled the scene of her sale to Gregor Randar with the most touching pathos. Repression and an utter quietness of method was the keynote of her art at this point, a repression so marked and a quiet so unbroken that monotony would have been the result in the hands of a player less capable of sensing her own emotions, unexpressed in words, across the footlights.

So, to, did this insistence upon repression prevail in the second act, showing the New York flat to which Gregor Randar and his wife have come from the Russian town where we first saw them—that is, it prevailed until the moment when Miriam, getting the first inkling of the sinful love beginning its existence in the bosoms of her husband and Celia, her sister, turns upon the girl in a passion of sisterly protest, compelling her to abandon her intention of remaining in New York and consent to a return to the Connecticut farm upon which their father had now established the family. It was at this moment that the full power of Kalich's marvelous voice was first revealed—a voice of amazing volume and emotional range, now hoarsened by overpowering passion, now sinking brokenly to the tenderest pathos, and at all times unerringly conveying to its hearers the feeling that swayed the soul of the speaker. In this scene, too, the tenderness of which Kalich is possible was shown in the meeting with her little son after the music lesson in which her husband, taunting the unknowing boy with names hinting at his bastardy, finally ends by striking him—a scene which Kalich handled with the greatest masterfulness in art, and in which she was finely assisted by George S. Spencer as Gregor and little Gladys Hulette as David, the son.

Into the third act of the quarrel at the home of old Raphael Friedlander, the father, and his desertion by his wife, son, and younger daughter, with a further revelation of the guilty passion between Gregor and Celia, we go, and thence to the terrific closing act where Miriam, learning that her sister has given birth to a child of which Gregor is the father, and waiting up to hear their lying story of a visit to an opera that had not been sung, is swept away by the despair and shame of the situation and, temporarily made mad, kills both. In this scene Kalich's acting was of such greatness in tragic force as to hold her audience spellbound and wellnigh awed by its intensity. The trance-like mood in which she moved and spoke, the growing horror finding place in her soul, the absorption of the sudden rage that finally possessed her, and the tremendous frenzy in which, ultimately, she wrought retribution upon Gregor and Celia, constituted what to me seemed the most memorable revelation of tragic power that I have seen for many a year. In fact, I cannot easily recall a moment surpassing in emotional strain that moment when Miriam, with a cry of unspeakable agony, rushes to the pistol that her father has unwittingly left within reach and turning, fires with lightning swiftness the several shots that leave Gregor and Cecil dead at her feet. A moment later the last curtain falls upon Miriam in her old nurse's arms, sobbing incredulously: "What have I done? What have I done?" and one of the strongest, most unpleasant and most strikingly original plays I have ever encountered comes to its close.

The old Raphael Friedlander of Mr. Theodore Roberts, stern, implacable and yet touchingly tender, was the feature of a support in which there may not fairly be found a weak spot. The company with Mme. Kalich is of such high quality that I feel it unnecessary to make individual mention of the work of its members. To this support, seconding Kalich's own epochal work, is due the strength of a presentation which made last night memorable in the minds of those who appreciate genuine artistry in the most vital of all arts.

RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

GRACE GEORGE IN "CLOTHES."

With some few limitations, the play "Clothes" is the goods. It offers Miss Grace George more advantageously than we have hitherto seen her. It is smart and of the soil along the line pointed by Langdon Mitchell and some others who are supposed to be on the right track toward the creation of American drama. It has been the object of a great deal of expert stage-managing, and is uncommonly well-acted. It is in no sense a great play, but is worth seeing. It has occasional fine comedy and some very excellent drama in it, and there are in the supporting company three players whose work is exceptional in the support of American stars. They are Frank Worthing, Miss Selene Johnson and A. H. Stuart.

The play was written by Avery Hopwood and Channing Pollock. It gets its name from the predicament of the heroine, who finds herself without clothes to move in her New York set, and goes to dangerous lengths to get them. The first scene is rather familiar if one read "The Fighting Chance." It reveals people of the same sort limned by Mr. Chambers. The women have been playing billiards, and some of them are smoking; the men have been having a go at poker. There are two people in but not of the picture. They are Olivia Sherwood, a Western girl who fell in with "The Fighting Chance" set in New York and has neither the money nor the inclination to continue with it definitely, and Ricahrd Burbank, a wealthy young Westerner in New York who can afford the pace but doesn't see anything in it he likes except Olivia. The first scenes are laid in this "Fighting Chance" atmosphere, but the story straighway gets into a better atmosphere and remains there until the end with occasional lapses.

The big Monday night audience enjoyed "Clothes." Aparently that transcendental word had magic to bring out the people most interested in clothes and best informed as to them. At any rate, the people enjoyed the smart dialogue, the dear little society dogs with boots on their feet, the grateful part given Miss George and her capability in it, the capital acting of most of the members of the company, and the dramatic strength of the story.

Columbia's New Bill.

Anna Eva Fay is again the headliner at the Columbia this week. Her cabinet experiments and somnolency stunt more than interested a packed house at each performance Monday.

The four Fords, two brothers and two sisters, in their rapid-fire dancing act, and the Glinseretti troupe of capable acrobats are also top-liners on the new bill. The acrobats perform some difficult and hair-raising feats that have been imitated before but not so successfully done. The playette, "Pals," by George Fisher, Walter P. Richardson, Blanche Alexandre and William F. Powell, tells the old story of the friend and his love for chum's wife. Fisher's entrance onto the stage—with his hurry-up, lively capers—is welcome, as things are dragging at times.

Lindsay's monkey circus; Preston Kendall in his 11 lightning changes to play as many roles in "Across the Line"; Edward Gray, the tall tale teller; Arthur Don and Minnie May Thompson, in comedy sketch, and the Kinodrome pictures complete the bill.

ADVICE TO LOVERS

Written for the Post-Dispatch
BY BETTY VINCENT.

He Courts Two Girls.

Dear Betty:

I AM very much in love with a young man who I know is keeping company with a young girl friend. He lives next door to us and he comes over to our house about three times a week. He displays a great deal of affection for me, and seems to think a great deal of me. In fact, he took me out a few times before he met this girl, and she is very wealthy, and I, of course, am not. Since keeping company with her he has often asked me to go out, but I, of course would not think of such a thing, although I love him dearly and I think he is undecided. Do you think because I am poor that will make a difference?

ELLENORE C.

It might make a difference. The young man has no right to ask you to go out with him if he is engaged to another woman. Do not accept his invitations. If necessary, tell him he must choose between you.

He Stays Away.

Dear Betty:

I AM a young girl of 20, and have been going with a young man of 23. He asked me to marry him last June, and then stayed away without reason. He has taken out several different girls since then. He comes back and then stays away. When I ask him why he stays away he says he doesn't know. Do you think he loves me still?

HEARTBROKEN.

He does not act as if he loves you. Try to become interested in some other man, or, at least, let this one see he cannot treat you with such a lack of consideration and respect.

He Says He Loves Her.

Dear Betty:

I AM a young lady 18 years of age and recently met a young man about two years my senior. I have been out with him several times, and have always enjoyed myself while in his company.

Towards the last, however, he has been very affectionate, and has confessed his love for me, and has also asked me if his love is returned. I do love him, but do you think it would be proper to tell him so, on such a short acquaintance?

WAITING.

I think you had better reserve the confession of your love until the young man has asked you to marry him. It is the seriousness of his intentions, not the length of your acquaintance, which should determine you.

BEFORE THE SOLONS.

FOR THE BOYS AND GIRLS

DUMB CRAMBO.

From the Philadelphia Record.

DIVIDE the company into two equal parts, one-half leaving the room. The remaining players should then select a word, which will have to be guessed by those outside the door. When, the word has been chosen, say, for instance, the word "will"—the party outside the room are told that the word they are to guess rhymes with "till." They then consult together and may conclude that the word is "ill." The company then enter and begin to act the word "ill," but without speaking a word. The audience, when they recognize the word that is being performed, will immediately hiss, and the actors hasten out and think of another word. Thus the game goes on until the right word is hit upon, when the audience clap their hands. They then change places with the actors and proceed to represent the word as given them.

The Jolly Miller.

The players decide among themselves which one of their number shall act the part of the Jolly Miller. This being done, each boy chooses a girl as partner; the Jolly Miller having taken his stand in the middle of the room, they all begin to walk, arm-in-arm around him, singing the following lines:

There was a jolly miller who lived by himself;
As the wheel went round he made his wealth;
One hand in the hopper and the other in the bag;
As the wheel went round he made his grab.

At the word "grab" all must change partners, and while the change is going on the miller has the opportunity of securing a partner for himself. Should he succeed in doing so, the one left without a partner must take the place of the Jolly Miller, and must occupy the center of the room until fortunate enough to get another partner.

The Height of a Hat.

Very few people have any idea of the real height of a gentleman's high hat, as you will easily discover if you show one to the company. After they have viewed the hat, put it out of the room, and ask those present to mark what they think to be the height of it on the wall.

When this has been done, bring in the hat again and you will find that nearly every one is absurdly far from correct in their estimate.

Conundrums.

What is the greatest surgical operation on record? Lansing, Mich.

Why is a bad epigram like a useless pencil? Because it has no point.

Why should a person not like to gaze on the Niagara forever? Because he would always have a cataract in the eye.

What bridge is warranted to support any strain? The bridge of a fiddle.

Who are the men who have made their mark? Those who can't write.

Why is a railroad exceedingly patriotic? It is bound to the country with the strongest ties.

Why is there some reason to doubt the existence of the Giants' Causeway? There are so many shamrocks (sham rocks) in Ireland that this may be one of the reasons.

X-RAY FOR SMUGGLERS.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

EVEN such tricks as hiding jewels in hollow shoe heels or swallowing diamonds cannot longer be depended upon to cheat the customs officials. In the French Government tests of the X-ray detective of Alphonse le Roux, persons representing smuggling passengers have been examined without removal of clothing or any indignity except being detained a few moments before the apparatus, and so rapid is the process that 167 persons received attention in 45 minutes. On these individuals were articles of many kinds, variously concealed. Watches were revealed in the lining of a man's coat, rings in the hem of a woman's skirt, a tiny locket under a young man's tongue, watch chains and a bracelet in the coils of a woman's hair, card cases in a man's shoes, and even buttons—proving the presence of gloves—under the clothing over a man's chest. Tried on postal packages, without breaking seals or untying strings, all kinds of articles were shown in the most innocent and unlikely hiding places.

WAYS OF FALLING.

From the Philadelphia Record.

A visitor from another city here on a tour of inspection of the public schools came to a West Philadelphia school the other day when the pupils were writing original sentences on the blackboard, and found an opportunity to air his pet hobby of avoiding superfluity in the use of words. One boy had written, "The man suddenly fell down." "What is the need of the word 'down' in that sentence?" asked the visitor. "How else could the man fall?" "Over," promptly replied the boy who had written the sentence. "Backwards," suggested another. "Against a wall," volunteered a third; "upstairs," said still another. The visitor promptly gave up criticism and was silent during the remainder of his stay.

Courteous Retort.

From Harper's Weekly.

They were quarreling over their children.

"Well," she exclaimed, spitefully, "it is certain John has your temper."

"Well," he replied, quietly, "it is also certain he hasn't yours, because you've got it all yourself."

WHO AND WHERE THE MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS WILL GIVE TRY-OUTS

Complete Roster of the American and National Organizations Together With Dates of the Spring Practice Games.

DO you know what the ball teams will do this spring? Do you know where they will train? Do you know who will go on the Southern trips?

Of course, every St. Louis fan knows that the Browns will go to San Antonio and the Cardinals to Houston. In the two leagues there are 14 other teams, however, and just who every squad will try out and where will be told in the following lists. They are good lists to keep. Cut them out and paste them up somewhere until April 11, when the big games begin.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

St. Louis.

McAleer has ordered his players to report March 4, and will leave for San Antonio, Tex., the following day. Games had been scheduled at Dallas and Fort Worth with the Texas State League teams, but it was found advisable to cancel these dates. Practically the only games McAleer has arranged for his men will be those played with the New York Nationals at San Antonio.

The make-up of the team will practically be the same as last year, although some slight changes may be made in one or two of the fielding positions. McAleer declares he expects to have much better team work than was shown last year and that the whole tone of the team will be improved.

On returning home the regular spring series with the Cardinals will be played.

Several new youngsters have been signed for the training trip, and it is hoped to develop some phenoms out of the bunch. Smith, the pitcher who held the White Sox for the last five innings of one of the games last summer, when Glade was knocked out of the box, has been released to St. Paul for a season. Jacobson, it is said, would accompany him were it not for the fact that Comiskey will not waive claim to him.

The following is the make-up of the squad that will go South:

Pitchers—Hall, Powell, Pelty, Glade, Criss, Compton, Farris, McGill, Lattimer, Morgan and Jacobson.

Catchers—O'Connor, Spencer, Rickey and Stephens.

Infielders—Jones, Niles, Wallace, Harizell, O'Brien, Delehanty, Butler and Rockenfield.

Outfielders—Stone, Hemphill, Pickering, Prisk and Davidson.

Chicago

The roster of the champs follows:

Pitchers—Altrock, Walsh, White, Owen, Patterson, Smith, Pfiene, Chesney, Freeman.

Infielders—Donohue, Isbell, Davis, Tannehill, Rohe, Dundon, Quillin and Lejeune.

Outfielders—Jones, Dougherty, Hahn, O'Neill and Weidaw.

New York

Clark Griffith will take his band of Highlanders to Atlanta, Ga., for their spring conditioning. Griff wants that pennant and wants it badly. He says he is tired of running second in close finishes, and this time he is going to make good.

March 8 has been chosen as the date for the starting South. The men will remain in Atlanta until about the beginning of April. Only a few exhibition games will be played on the way North. Getting his squad of uncertain pitchers into condition to win games consistently is the main task that confronts the crafty Griff. If the pitchers will do their share of the work during the coming season the Highlander rooters have no doubts as to the success of the team.

Mike Martin and two assistants will again have charge of the physical condition of the team.

The following men are the Highland roster:

Catchers—Kleinow, Thomas and McGuire.

Pitchers—Chesbro, Orth, Hogg, Doyle, Hughes, Clarkson, Brockett and Griffin.

Infielders—Chase, Williams, Elberfeld, Laporte, Moriarity and Yeager.

Outfielders—Keeler, Hoffman, Delehanty and Conroy.

Cleveland

Manager Napoleon Lajoie believes that getting his pitchers into shape is the really serious work of the spring, and for that reason the Cleveland squad will be divided. One contingent, composed of pitchers and a catcher, will go to Hot Springs, while the remainder of the team will go to Macon, Ga. Lajoie is strong for short trips, and thinks the long list of exhibition games in bad weather does the men more harm than good.

The Hot Springs aggregation will consist of Pitchers Bernhard, Hess, Rhoades, Moore and Joss and Catcher Wakefield. This bunch will leave Cleveland March 2, which is ten days later than it started last year, and the Macon contingent will get under way about March 10.

The first exhibition game will be played at Atlanta, Ga., April 1, and will bring about the union of the two contingents.

Macon has little to offer in the way of amusement, and it is expected that the men will attend strictly to their work. Third Baseman Lajoe, who was on the Cleveland reserve last season, is manager of the Macon team, and has promised every advantage to the Naps in their training.

The following men are on the reserve list:

Catchers—Bemis, Clarke, Buelow and Wakefield.

Pitchers—Rhoades, Joss, Hess, Bernhard, Berger, Liebhart, Thielman, Hinson and West.

Infielders—Stoval, Lajoie, Turner, Bradley and Perrine.

Outfielders—Flick, Bay, Congalton, Hinchman, Catlin and Birmingham.

Philadelphia

Connie Mack will take his Athletics to Marlin, Tex., leaving Philadelphia March 1 and arriving at the Southern watering place on March 4. The plan is to give the men a good bolling out at the spring training trip. On March 8th, when the squad will be divided into two teams and begin the real training work under the direction of Capt. Harry Davis for the veterans and Mack for the youngsters.

The principal engagement for the training trip will be a series of five games which has been scheduled with the New York Giants at New Orleans just before the regular season starts. These teams fought for the world's championship in 1905. The baseball fans of New Orleans are rejoicing over the chance of seeing the series.

Rube Waddell will, of course, be one of the great features of the Athletics, as he has been in past years. Connie Mack expects that Rube will be back in his winning form this year and declares that he is one of the trump cards he will use to land the pennant.

The men who will be taken to Marlin by Mack are:

Pitchers—Waddell, Plank, Bender, Coombs, Dygert, Cunningham, Bartley, O'Connor and Myers.

Catchers—Schreck, Powers, Berry and Carlisch.

Infielders—Burke, Oldring, Davis, Cross, Knight, Shean and Sullivan.

Outfielders—Lord, Hartzel, Seybold and Nichols.

The Athletics will return to Philadelphia March 24 and will play a series of ante-season games with the Phillies. Following is the schedule of this series:

March 29—American League grounds.
March 30—National League grounds.
April 1—American League grounds.
April 2—National League grounds.
April 3—American League grounds.
April 4—National League grounds.
April 5—National League grounds.
April 6—American League grounds.
April 8—National League grounds.
April 9—National League grounds.

Detroit

Hughey Jennings will assume the managership of the Tigers this season, and from the plans that he is making for the training trip it can be seen that he is going to do everything in his power to turn out a bunch of winners. The Detroit team will leave for the Southern training trip in three divisions.

The first squad, composed of Pitchers Donovan, Mullin, Siever, Killian and Eubanks, Catcher Schmidt, and Capt. Coughlin, Crawford, Schaefer and O'Leary will leave for Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 16.

On March 2 Manager Jennings will take the new pitchers to Augusta, Ga. The young twirlers are Willett, Rowan and Forrester, from the Western Association; Elijah Jones and Lakaff from the Three I League, and Schneiberg from the Wisconsin State League. Catcher Payne will accompany this party.

Washington

Washington will start the season under a new manager, Joe Cantillon of last year's Milwaukee American Association team, and will do its early work in Galveston, Tex. The men will gather in Chicago March 4, and expect to arrive in Galveston March 6.

The management is determined to turn out a winning team this year, and with that in view has signed a large number of players and will give Manager Cantillon his pick of the bunch.

The following are on the list:

Catchers—Warner, Heydon, Blankenship and Starnagle.

Pitchers—Patten, Hughes, Falkenberg, Smith, Kitson, Wilson, Hilleband, Wilton of Canton, Bonno, Goodwin, Graham, Edmundson, Hardy and Otey.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

St. Louis

The Cardinals will have the unique distinction of not having a game scheduled for its spring training trip. Manager McCloskey declares he wishes to develop the individual work of his youngsters as much as possible, and will depend upon games between the players for the work-out.

The squad will report in St. Louis March 5 and go directly to Houston, where it will remain until the opening of the season. The squad will be made up for the most part of youngsters, and several changes in the make-up of this year's team is looked for when the squad returns.

In the pitching line McClockey has some of the most promising in the league. Beebe, who was bought from the Cubs last year, proved that he was well worth the price, and will be used as one of the dependables this year. In addition to Beebe, Higgins and McGlynn are expected to show well in the box.

Outside of Beckley at first and Bennett at second, the make-up of the infield is very much of a lottery, according to McCloskey. Crawford, Holly and Zimmerman are probable candidates for the balance of the infield positions, but they will have to show their manager before they have a cinch of the positions.

The following is the make-up of the training trip squad:

Pitchers—Brown, Beebe, McGlynn, Rhodes, Fromme, Karger, Thompson, Druhot and Higgins.

Catchers—Marshall, Noonan, Grady and Hostetter.

Infielders—Beckley, Bennettet, Zimmermann, Hilly, Crawford, Arndt, Payle and Byrnes.

Outfielders—Murray, O'Hara, Kelley, Burch, Mertes and Barry.

Chicago

Following is the entire roster of the Cubs:

Catchers—Kling, Moran, Walsh and Seabough.

Pitchers—Brown, Reulbach, Taylor, Lundgren, Overall, Harper, Fraser, Pfiester, Cheanault, Perdue and Durbin.

Infielders—Chance, Evans, Tinker, Steinfeldt, Hofman and Sweeney.

Outfielders—Sheckard, Slagle, Schulte, Gessler, Osborne and Randall.

The Cubs will train at New Orleans this year after a week's preliminary work at West Baden, Ind. The team will leave Chicago for West Baden Saturday morning, March 2, at 8:30, and will arrive at the Indiana spa at 5:45 p. m. the same day. The squad will remain at West Baden until March 8, and will then leave for New Orleans. The first game of the trip will be played at the Crescent City Sunday, March 10.

Five games will be played with Dolly Frank's Pelicans, and then the team will leave for a long list of exhibition games, which will end at Toledo, Ohio, April 9. The men will then return to Chicago for the National League opening, April 11.

Dates for Exhibition Games.

New York

The Giants will take the longest training trip in the National League, going to Southern California for their workout. The squad will gather in Chicago Feb. 25, and will be the first to really get under way. Some of the other teams will start part of their men South before the 25th; but all the Giants will start on that date.

Los Angeles, and incidentally Ascot Park will be the headquarters of McGraw's men. The squad will land in Lost Angeles March 1 and leave there for San Antonio, Tex., March 21. While at Lost Angeles games will be played with San Francisco, San Jose, and the local teams. Nearly 6000 miles will be covered during the trip.

The Giants will gradually work their way back through the Southern States. Following is their itinerary:

March 23-24—At San Antonio, Texas.
March 27-31—Philadelphia Americans at New Orleans.
April 1—At Montgomery, Ala.
April 2—At Nashville, Tenn.
April 3—At Louisville, Ky.

Outfielders—Seymour, Donlin, Browne, Shannon and Burke.

Pittsburg

The Pirates will vary their usual training program by spending a week at West Baden, Ind., before going to the usual headquarters, Hot Springs, Ark. Previous to this season they have gone directly from Pittsburg to Hot Springs, but Manager Fred Clarke thinks a week at the Indiana Spa will help the men greatly. There will be little baseball work at West Baden, as the men will devote most of their time to the waters.

The squad will leave Pittsburg March 10, and, after a week at West Baden, it will remain at Hot Springs until April 3. A few exhibition games will be arranged on the way back.

Clarke will have complete charge of the team this season, and has stipulated that he will not play in the outfield unless it is absolutely necessary. His present list is not one to cause him to leap for joy, but if the men get together in good shape they will be near the top at the finish of the season.

The return of Abbatichio to baseball after a year's rest will help a great deal. The Italian is one of the best infielders in the game, and would bolster almost any club.

The weakest point in the Pirate lineup is behind the bat. Gibson, who slumped a bit last season, is the only old man, and a great deal will depend upon whether or not he has returned to form. Of the old timers Ganley, Peitz, Ritchey and Beaumont will be missing.

The team will play at Little Rock, Memphis, Louisville and Indianapolis before opening the season at Cincinnati April 11.

Following is the list of players:

Catchers—Gibson, Heuston and Smith.

Pitchers—Phillippi, Willis, Lower, Brady, Camnitz, Leifield, Hillebrand and Lynch.

Infielders—Nealon, Abbatichio, Wagner, Leach and Abstein.

Outfielders—Anderson, Hallman, Sheehan, Clymer and Clarke.

Philadelphia

The Phillies will be taken to Savannah, Ga., March 4, where they will get their spring work-out preparatory to the opening of the ante-season series with the Athletics in Philadelphia March 29.

The Phillies will be watched with interest at the beginning of the season on account of having a new manager. Billy Murray of the Jersey City Eastern League team last year will guide their destinies from the bench. Murray had great success with the Easterners and goes with the Phillies with absolute authority in his grasp. Murray will take all the men who finished last season with the team on the training trip, and several additional youngsters. The most prominent of the baby class is Grant, who played with Murray last year at Jersey City. Grant will make a strong fight for the third sack position.

All of the spring training will be done in Savannah. The only work-out the players will have with other teams will be with the Athletics when they return to Philadelphia for the ante-season games.

Following is the roster of the team which will go South:

Pitchers—Duggleby, Lush, Richie, Corridon, Pittinger, Searks, Neuer, Mack, Moren, Moser and McCloskey.

Catchers—Doolin, Donovan, Crist and Jacklitsch.

Infielders—Bransfield, Gleason, Doolin, Courtney, Grant and Sentelle.

Outfielders—Magee, Thomas and Titus.

The ante-season schedule:

March 29—American League Park.
March 30—National League Park.
April 1—American League Park.
April 2—National League Park.
April 3—American League Park.
April 4—National League Park.
April 5—American League Park.
April 6—American League Park.
April 8—National League Park.
April 9—National League Park.

Brooklyn

The Brooklyn bunch will do its conditioning work on the Atlantic coast, Jacksonville, Fla., being its objective point. The squad will sail from New York March 5 on the Clyde line steamer Comanche and expects to arrive at the Florida resort about the 8th.

According to the present plan, as outlined by President Charles Ebbets and Manager Patsy Donovan, the men will spend eighteen days getting into condition before starting north via rail. Games are schedules with the Jacksonville team for March 15, 16, 22 and 23.

Outfielder Hedine Datch and Pitcher Scott are already at Jacksonville getting into shape and write that the place will be ideal for the training work.

It is expected that the following men will take the trip:

Catchers—Bergen, Butler, Ritter and Hurley.

Pitchers—McIntyre, Pastorius, Eason, Whiting, Bell, Rucker, Bush, Stricklett, Henley and Scanlon.

Infielders—Casey, Jordan, Lewis, Alperman and Hummel.

Outfielders—Lumley, Maloney, Batch, McCarthy and Reardon.

The three ex-Cubs—Casey, Maloney and McCarthy—will be with the team again. Pitcher Bert Briggs, the other Cub included in the Sheckard trade, has been sold to the Indianapolis American Association team.

Exhibition games:

March 27-30—At Savannah, Ga.
April 1-2—At Macon, Ga.
April 3-4—At Atlanta, Ga.
April 5-6—At Lynchburg, Va.
April 7—At Paterson, N. J.
April 8—Yale at Brooklyn.
April 9—At Holyoke, Mass.

Cincinnati

The advance guard of the Cincinnati Reds will start for Marlin, Tex., March 2, and the remainder of the squad will follow March 10. The first aggregation will be composed of pitchers and catchers. Manager Hanlon believes that by getting the pitchers into tiptop shape half the battle is won.

The Reds will, as usual, divide into two teams, the Vets and the Colts, for practice games on the trip. Only a few regularly scheduled games will be played while in the South, as several games have been billed with American League clubs in Cincinnati in April.

The following players are now on the Cincinnati list:

Catchers—Schlei, McLean, Haas and Laughlin.

Pitchers—Mason, Leary, Kennedy, Chapple, Ewing, Weimer, Essick, Hall, Minnehan, Coakley and Hitt.

Infielders—Huggins, Telmyer, Lobert, Ganzel and Mowery.

Outfielders—Thomas, Kane, Walters, Mitchell and Davis.

John Ganzel, manager and owner of the Grand Rapids Central League team last season and ex-first baseman of the Highlanders, will hold down the initial sack and captain the Reds during the coming pennant fight.

The following exhibition games have been scheduled by Business Manager Frank Bancroft:

March 28-30—Vets at Birmingham, Ala.
March 30-31—Colts at Dallas, Texas.
March 31-April 2—Boston Americans at Cincinnati.
April 3-4—Colts vs. Vets at Cincinnati.
April 5—Washington Americans at Cincinnati.
April 6-7—Chicago White Sox at Cincinnati.
April 8-9—Cleveland Americans at Cincinnati.
April 5-6—Colts at Columbus, Ohio.
April 7—Colts at Lancaster, Ohio.
April 9—Colts at Dayton, Ohio.

Boston

The interest in the Boston Nationals at the present time centers in the fact that young Cy Young has refused to sign the contract that the new owner of the club, George E. Dovey, has offered him. Cy wants an increase over last over last year's pay check, and Mr. Dovey says that he will either sign or quit the game.

The number of men to be taken on the training trip to Thomasville, Ga., will probably exceed twenty-five. Contracts have been received by President Dovey from 15 of last year's squad and it is expected that Cy Young will be brought into line before the coming week is over. Dovey announced yesterday that he is negotiating for two new pitchers, two infielders, and one outfielder.

Other new material may be tried out on the training trip, but President Dovey declares that he will not announce the names of any of the youngsters until ready to start for the South. The lines-up of the team will, it is thought, remain the same as last year, although it has been announced that the youngsters will be given every chance to show why they should be given a regular berth.

The following will probably go South on the returning trip:

Catchers—Needham, Brown and Orendorf.

Pitchers—Pfeffer, Lindaman, Dorner, Flaherty, Bonites and Young.

Infielders—Tenney, Ritchey, Birdwell and Brain.

Outfielders—Howard, Bates and Dolan.

Omega Oil for All Aches and Pains That can be reached externally. Trial bottle 10c.

JOCKEY DIXON WILL RIDE IN FRANCE

SYDNEY L. DICKSON, the diminutive jockey who calls St. Louis his home because he started riding in the Fair Grounds here and was formerly a Post-Dispatch newsboy, has departed for New York from where he will go to France for his third season on the turf across the water on or about the first of March. He will visit with his parents in the metropolis in the interim.

Dickson is one of the most striking little figures ever brought before the public. Ten years ago he was a newsboy in the employ of the Post-Dispatch and had a route in South St. Louis. Barefooted and ragged he trudged about the streets, picking up an occasional nickel or dime here and there, but mainly striving to earn enough to furnish himself with food and lodgings. Today at the ago of only 20 years he is worth considerably more than $20,000 in his own right and has it invested in property in Oklahoma.

"To what do you attribute your success?" Dickson was asked yesterday.

"To the fact that I was born in Oklahoma with the horses and always loved them and that I was lucky enough never to grow as fast as other boys," was the prompt reply to the quaint little lad.

Dickson was a sensation at the Fair Grounds four or five years ago. He was always about the stables gazing wistfully at the horses and finally he attracted the attention of Clint Burnett. He was given a mount on Edith May and it is hard to decide whether the boy was the making of the horse or the lightgoing mare the making of the boy. Either way, Dickson attracted the attention of other horse owners and he was given as many mounts as he wanted, winning on the majority of them.

Wm. K. Vanderbilt Sr., saw Dickson ride later on one of the Eastern tracks and took him to France in 1906. In 1906 Dickson rode for Nash Turner, and this year he returns to France to ride for the real enough nobility, he being under a verbal contract with Count De Bremod. Dickson rides at 104 pounds.

BASEBALL LOVERS WORK FOR HERMANN

Cincinnati Bowlers Knew Whereof They Spoke in Naming Him Candidate.

In every little hamlet where the Cincinati Reds are beloved and where the magic word baseball opens the door straight to the heart of the people, there will be some sort of a bowling club organized to root, work for and laud Garry Hermann, the Cincinnati candidate for the presidency of the American Bowling Congress, subject to the action of the convention to be held in St. Louis during the latter part of March. When the Cincinnati bowlers invaded the domains of baseball, seeking whom they might place upon a pedestal as an ornament in the bowling world, they know what they are doing, and in naming Garry Hermann they struck the most popular chord possible in Cincinnati, throughout Ohio and in many of the other cities of the A. B. C.

Bowlers in the territory of the American Bowling Congress and baseball lovers the country over have come together in the promotion of the candidacy of Hermann. Hermann is chairman of the National Baseball Commission and president of the Cincinnati club of the National League and his remarkable success in baseball, politics and baseball prove his executive ability.

It will be a great thing for bowling if the country over if Hermann is elected. He is a true sportsman and a "Young Kid" Farmer at Peoria, before the Riverside Athletic Club last night, Farmer was fouled and was given the decision. Both men were going fast when the foul occurred and it was anybody's fight. The foul was apparently unintentional. Mowatt swung for the wind when Farmer backed away and Tommy's blow fell low, hitting the Peoria boy in the groin. The first round of the battle was a furious one, Mowatt showing his old-time speed and Farmer being clever.

CHAMPION SKATER OF EAST ARRIVES

Clarence Hamilton of Boston Will Compete in Jai Alai Championship Races.

Clarence Hamilton of Boston, Mass., champion roller skater of New England, who exhibits a whole volume of newspaper clippings to prove that he has beaten the best men in the East, in two, three and five mile races at Madison Square Garden, New York, and other big rinks, arrived yesterday to compete in the world's championship races at the Jai Ali rink. Hamilton at present claims to be the champion five mile skater, which title he won three weeks ago at Boston.

Tonight Hamilton will meet Ollie Moore of Charlevoix, Mich., Jim Sweeney of St. Louis, Joe Munch of Minneapolis, in the second qualifying race for the two mile championship. Hamilton did not compete in the one mile championship races. The final race for the two mile title will be skated Saturday night and Hamilton will also stay in St. Louis to compete in the three mile event.

Hamilton is expected to give Harley Davidson, National champion, who won the one mile event, a hard rub in both the two and three mile events. Against Sweeney and Munch Hamilton will have but a fair speed tonight to qualify as only the winners of the five preliminary races will be allowed to compete in the final.

In the first preliminary race skated last night Leo Jones, the young St. Louis skater, won easily. Ollie Moore was second, Joe Munch of Minneapolis, third; Clarence Graves of St. Louis, fourth, and Elmer Kelley of St. Louis, fifth. The time was 6:43 4-5.

DONLIN TOUCHED BY MAN'S STORY

Took Stranger In for Night and Was Taken In Himself for $500.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—"Mike" Donlin, member of the New York National League Baseball Team, was robbed last night of $500 in cash and a diamond stud by a stranger. The man who gave the name of T. P. Smith, and his residence as New York, told Donlin that he had just arrived from New York, and was without money or friends.

His story aroused the sympathy of Donlin and he invited Smith to share his room for the night. This morning when Donlin awoke he found that Smith, the money and the stud had disappeared.

BOXING WAS resumed in Chelsea, near Boston, last night at the Winnisimmet Athletic Club. Two State police officials visited the club, but made no trouble. The feature bout was between George Murray and Johnny Lynch, who went ten fast rounds to a draw. The referee stoped the bout between "Butch" Howe and Young Murray in the third round and gave the fight to Murray.

IN THE second round of the battle between Tommy Mowatt of Chicago and "Young Kid" Farmer at Peoria, before the Riverside Athletic Club last night, Farmer was fouled and was given the decision. Both men were going fast when the foul occurred and it was anybody's fight. The foul was apparently unintentional. Mowatt swung for the wind when Farmer backed away and Tommy's blow fell low, hitting the Peoria boy in the groin. The first round of the battle was a furious one, Mowatt showing his old-time speed and Farmer being clever.

New Boat for Missouri.

The Ryman line of Nashville will put the steamer Electra in the Missouri River service between St. Louis and Miami, Mo., some time in March. Capt. George Hunter will be in charge of the boat. He says that if the occasion warrants, another boat will be placed in service. The Electra is a passenger and freight steamer, and is larger than any that has traveled the Missouri for several years.

COLORED BOXER RECEIVES CARD

Amateur White Glovesmen Are Opposed to His Entering Tourneys.

OTHER NEGROES BARRED

The news that William Macklin, the negro boxer, had been granted a membership card in the Western A. A. U. is causing no end of discussion among amateur officials and athletes. As was announced last week, Macklin applied to John J. O'Connor, president of the W. A. A. U., and temporary chairman of the Registration Committee for membership in the W. A. A. U.

It is now said that Macklin has received a card. He is therefore eligible to compete in open amateur boxing tournaments. Kirk, Jones, Lydon, Gresham and the other local amateur boxers are up in arms over the fact that Macklin was granted a card. They declare positively that they will refuse to enter any tournament for which Macklin's entry is accepted.

It is stated that last fall, before the W. A. A. U. championships, that a number of negro athletes applied for registration in the W. A. A. U. They were turned down. The boxers are now demanding to know the reason why, if negro athletes are not accepted, that boxers should be allowed to become members of the union.

Macklin, who weighs 135 pounds, is a light-colored, well-built fellow, 24 years of age, who is said to be very clever. He is well-educated and is employed in a local library. Macklin claims to have never taken part in a public bout, although he has boxed with Billy Saunders and a number of other professionals. Macklin stated when he applied for registration that he did not want to try to force himself into tournaments, but if any club wished to put him on and any white or colored boxer was willing to meet him, he wanted to be eligible to box.

M. A. C. JUNIORS BOOKED FOR MEET

Track Team Is Being Put Through a Grueling Practice.

RULES BAR RUNNERS

Sam Geddes, assistant physical director of the Missouri A. C., has made arrangements for a dual track meet between the Missouri A. C. junior track team and the track team of the Hamilton A. C., to take place at the Missouri A. C. inside of the next two weeks.

Among the M. A. C. juniors are some most promising young athletes. Twice a week the squad is divided into three teams for practice meet. If the Hamilton A. C. boys have enough swimmers a dual aquatic meet between the M. A. C. juniors and the H. A. C. will also be arranged. The Hamilton A. C. recently lost in a dual meet with the St. Louis University minims.

Meanwhile athletic director Bassett of the M. A. C. has the M. A. C. track team training in the gymnasium two evenings in every week. Most of the men also take part in the cross-country runs in Forest Park each Sunday morning.

Frank Mason, W. F. Warner, Robinson and Drehman will as usual be the club's representatives in the sprints. O'Connell, Christy and Forshaw are the best men in the distance runs. Big Hans Wulff will continue to heave the shot and hammer. Gwynne Evans, captain of the track team, is training as usual for the pole vault. It is expected that Emil Freymark and Georg Mattis will both be in good form for the high jump and broad jump. Harry Krener and Frank Mason will look after the hurdles. Kiener, the high sticks and Mason the low.

SPORTING NOTES

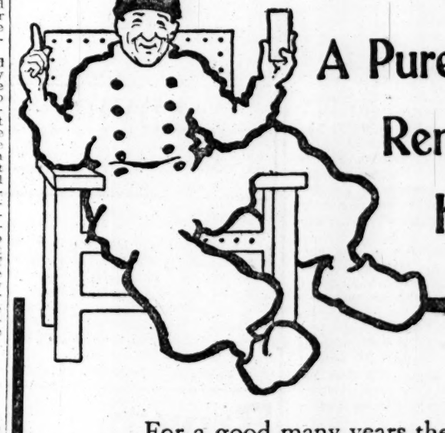

"CURLEY" COOMBS is out for the managership of some minor league baseball club. Coombs has managed teams in Fort Worth and Hueston, Texas, and is well known about the city. He can be found at 727 Erskine avenue, city.

ALLEN A. LINDGREEN of Chicago, Homer Sanders of St. Louis, and Ericson of Oskosh, Wis., will be matched in a three-cornered contest during the national tournament here in March. Secretary D. J. Sweeney made arrangements for the match and a side bet of $100 or more will be placed on the results. The matches will probably be rolled on the tournament alleys.

THERE MAY be a game after all between the St. Leos and St. Mathews socker football teams. Manager Klosterman of the St. Leos says he is willing to have the game played at any time or any place that can be arranged most conveniently.

THE UNDERGRADUATES' track team of St. Louis U. will meet the team from McKinley High School in a dual affair next Friday afternoon. The meet will be held in the varsity gymnasium and the university team is under the direction of Linus Ryan.

LEO JONES, the clever little St. Louis roller skater, who only lost the race in the finals for the mile at the Jai Alai rink last Saturday night through a fall, was the winner of the first of the two-mile elimination races taking place Monday night. The distance was covered in the fast time of 6:45 4-5. Ollie Moore of Charlevoux, Mich.; Joe Munch of Minneapolis, Clarence Gray and Elmer Kelley of St. Louis finished and set the pace throughout the entire race. Joe Munch and Moore will be in again Tuesday evening, and Jim Sweeney will be the local entry. Clarence Hamilton of Boston, Mass., arrived in the city yesterday and will enter tonight.

A Pure, Honest Remedy for the Kidneys and Bladder

For a good many years the Dr. C. Bouvier Specialty Company has been an earnest worker in the cause of a Pure Food Law that would apply not only to solid foods, but to drugs, proprietory remedies and liquors.

Dr. C. Bouvier's
BUCHU GIN

Complies Fully with National and State Pure Food Laws.

It was from the first an honest and pure remedy, and we believed that a law compelling honesty in the preparation and sale of all similar products would be beneficial. There has never been any secret about our remedy. It is compounded of pure gin of high quality, percolated through clean, selected buchu leaves imported by this company from South Africa and ground by this company, and mixed with a moderate quantity of pure rock candy syrup.

When we succeeded in getting the pure food law, there was no disturbance here. Neither formula nor labels had to be changed. The goods had long ago been analyzed by the Government chemist at Washington and by the chemists of various State Boards of Health and passed as absolutely pure.

We KNOW that the remedy is right, and we know what it has done in thousands of cases of

Kidney Trouble — Lumbago
Bladder Trouble — Rheumatism

and we are sure that it will do good to any man, woman or child thus afflicted. That others know it is attested by innumerable letters like these:

CHICAGO, ILL.

DEAR SIRS: For a long time I had been suffering with kidney complaint to such an extent that it caused me considerable pain and inconvenience. When your first case arrived I tried it with considerable doubt, but at the very start it gave symptoms of its great merit. I have continued its use, and today feel as good as I ever did in all my life. I am in the saloon business, and from the great benefit I derived from it I strongly recommend it to my patrons with results as I experienced. In fact, several of my customers were afflicted quite seriously with kidney and bladder troubles. It cured them entirely. Your Buchu Gin is the most meritorious thing sold in a bar. Yours very truly,
LOUIS S. OGREN, 2459 Wentworth Ave.

DETROIT, MICH.

DEAR SIRS: On the 11th, at noon, I bought a pint bottle of your Dr. C. Bouvier's Buchu Gin, which was recommended to me by one of my customers while in your town. To tell the truth, I placed no stock in it, as I had tried so many different remedies for my kidneys and bladder that I simply resorted to old methods of relief, but after taking a few small doses of your gin, after walking around the day previous in the utmost misery, I got up in the morning feeling like a new-born child. I mean every word I say.
Yours respectfully,
FERD L. CAHN.

The genuine has the signature (Dr. C. Bouvier) on back label. It is never sold in bulk.
For sale at all good bars and can be had for family use by telephoning any liquor dealer.

CITY TO PAY PART OF VIADUCT COSTS

East St. Louis Accepts Its Portion of Cahokia Creek Repair W

By a unanimous vote Monday the East St. Louis City Council accepted the apportionment of the cost of repairing the Broadway viaduct across Cahokia Creek. The repairs and reconstruction of two spans across the railroad tracks will cost $50,000.

At a meeting held last Tuesday in Mayor Cook's office, which was attended by representatives of the Illinois Central, Big Four, Louisville & Nashville and Terminal railroads and the East St. Louis street railway, it was agreed that the railroads should pay one-half of the expense and the East St. Louis Railway, whose cars run over the viaduct, should pay two-fifths of the other one-half. This left three-fifths to be paid by the city. The plans have been submitted and work will be begun within a few days.

The Council also passed an ordinance submitted by the Board of Health prohibiting the crowding of living and sleeping apartments in tenements. The ordinance provides that 350 cubic feet of breathing space must be allowed for each person. In a room 12x12, having a 10-foot ceiling, this ordinance will allow only three persons to sleep.

A communication from the St. Louis House of Delegates and Council was read accepting the invitation of the East St. Louis Council to visit East Louis in a body next Monday night. At next Monday's meeting Council will transact routine business in the presence of the St. Louis visitors.

RESISTS THIEVES; STABBED.

John Dellinger Badly Slashed by Highwaymen.

John Dellinger, 1516 Chouteau avenue, was attacked early Tuesday on Chouteau avenue, near Fourteenth street, by two highwaymen, who cut him about the face and neck when he resisted. He is at the City Hospital. He is badly wounded.

Dellinger told the police that he was on his way home when the men slipped up behind him and pinioned his arms. He struggled and was cut several times. After he freed himself the men fled, and he staggered into a saloon, where he fell unconscious to the floor. He is 29 years old.

UNIFORM QUALITY IN CANNED MEAT

A Characteristic Which Has Marked a Well-Known Packing Firm's Products for More Than 50 Years.

In 1853, when the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing Co. began operations in a modest way, the meat packing industry was in its infancy. Today there stand, as monuments to untiring energy, honest methods and, above all, uniform, superior excellence of their products, three packing plants which, for size, capacity and equipment are unsurpassed anywhere on the continent. These three plants are located in New York, Chicago and Kansas City.

As in the business world the S. & S. Co. has for years been regarded as one of the big powers in the packing industry, so, in the household, their canned meat products, familiarly recognized by every housewife under the well-known Advance and Majestic Brand labels, have attained a degree of popularity made possible only by their exquisite flavor, absolute purity and the scrupulous care exercised in the selection of material.

In fact, it has long been a matter of trade comment that the "S. & S." system of stock inspection is the most rigid known among packers. Nothing but primest of prime stock is ever allowed in the preparation of products bearing Advance and Majestic Brand labels. The thoroughness of Government inspection of meats is well known, but threefold more rigid is the inspection of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger's own inspectors before they allow any of their products to be placed on the market under their name.

The particular housewife, therefore—the housewife whose desire it is to set her table with the choicest and best the market affords in canned meat products, the flavor, purity and wholesomeness of which are absolutely assured—need experience no hesitation in making her selections and giving her order to her grocer. For if she orders Schwarzschild & Sulzberger's Advance or Majestic Brand of canned meats, she will secure what for years have been recognized as the highest standard.

SCARCITY OF FLOUR ALARMS MERCHANTS

A Large Portion of the Flour Used Here Being Shipped Into St. Louis.

MILLING NOT PROFITABLE

Local Millers Say That With Wheat at 80 Cents a Bushel It Does Not Pay.

Flour is scarcer in St. Louis than it has been for years. It is said by commission merchants and wholesale grocers that the manufacture of the product from which bread is made has not kept pace with the city's growing demand, and that the output during the last 12 months was so small that a large portion of the flour used here had to be shipped into St. Louis from other markets.

Millers say that with wheat around 80 cents a bushel during the greater portion of the year, there was practically no profit in making flour for the local trade. Several of the largest mills are now running only half time or less and one big manufacturing firm has announced that it has withdrawn entirely from the local retail field.

Many millers, instead of seeking their market here, have found more profit in supplying the export demand. St. Louis flour is being sent abroad by the ship load, because the foreigners are bidding higher prices than local dealers are willing to pay.

Stocks in store are rapidly decreasing. Because of the high prices the family demand is falling off and the consumption of baker's bread is abnormally large, bakers say.

Commission brokers say that the present advance is due almost entirely to the depletion of stocks, and that when the price of wheat reaches a level where milling will be profitable, there will be a decline. Just when this will be they cannot say. It depends on the outlook for the coming wheat crop. Should the output of wheat be short, wheat prices might go so high as to affect the price of bread for family use.

Dealers say that the high price of flour is the one thing which is now preventing the proposed merger of some of the largest bakeries in St. Louis. The margin of profits is so small that the concerns interested in the projected consolidation are unable to make a statement of earnings which would induce outsiders to purchase stock in the combination.

Retail grocers are carrying smaller stocks of flour than they ever did because of the falling off in the family demand.

A representative of the J. B. Buss Flour Mills Co said Tuesday to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "We have given up our grocery trade entirely because it does not pay. The orders are becoming smaller all the time and the expense of delivering the goods eats up the profits. The big bakeries are the heaviest purchasers now. Home-made bread is a scarce article in the St. Louis."

BUSINESS MEN LOBBYING.

Members of St. Louis Bodies at State Capital.

Telegrams urging favorable action upon the bill appropriating $50,000 to establish a state immigration bureau, with agents abroad to recruit desirable immigrants to till Missouri farms, have been sent by the Manufacturers' Association to Representative Burch and Senator Humphrey, chairmen, respectively, of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations. The association has also issued circulars hostile to the corporation tax bill.

A committee of the Retail Grocers' Association has gone to Jefferson City to join committees from affiliated bodies in an attempt to kill the Peck bill, which, it is believed, would practically repeal the garnishment law passed four years ago at the instance of the grocers. The present law makes it possible for a creditor to garnishee a debtor to the extent of 10 per cent of his wages. Senator Peck's bill exempts the first 30 days' wages of the debtor from garnishment.

The shoe manufacturers of St. Louis will hold a conference with Senator Bradley within a few days upon a bill which he has introduced making it a felony for a wholesaler to expose for sale any leather footwear not made entirely of leather. The shoe manufacturers are friendly to the spirit of this bill, but think it has some minor defects, as its failure to include retailers as well as wholesalers. The Senator's real intent, they believe, is to prevent the sale of penitentiary made shoes by providing that all footwear shall bear a stamp stating the place of manufacture.

WANTS $10,000 OF CORBETT

Lillie Krebs Claims Pugilist Is Using Play She Wrote.

Lillie R. Krebs wants $10,000 from James J. Corbett, once champion pugilist, now actor, because, she alleges, he appropriated to his own use a play that she wrote.

In her petition, filed Monday in the Circuit Court, she says that in 1905 she wrote a five-act, seven-scene play, which she called "The Power of the Dollar, or When Money Was King." She alleges that she submitted the piece to Corbett Aug. 23, 1905, for him to read, and at the same time suggested that he assume the principal role. She expected royalties. He kept the play for some time and finally returned it to her at her request. Later he produced a drama, which she says is in St. Louis now under a different name. She alleges that she has been damaged to the extent of $10,000, and asks the Court to award her that amount.

Corbett denies that he made any use of the play in question. He says Miss Krebs sent him the manuscript of a play, but that he did not even read it. Later, when he received a letter regarding the manuscript, he returned it to her attorneys.

BIRTHDAY MONEY STOLEN.

While the family of C. M. Schwenk, 29 South Thirteenth street, were enjoying themselves at a theater Monday night their house was robbed. On their return home they found a bundle of clothes outside the door which the robbers dropped in their haste. Further investigation showed that the burglars had got a small gold watch, a diamond chip ring belonging to Gertrude Schwenk and $6 belonging to Willie Schwenk. It was money the boy had saved to buy his mother a birthday present.

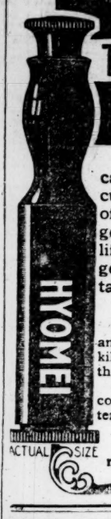

The entrance to the house was gained by one of the men reaching his hand through a window near the door and unlocking the door from the inside.

Two negroes are the only suspects. They were seen walking up and down Thirteenth street before the family went to the theater by Gertrude Schwenk.

FRIEND OF MRS. GRANT DIES AT AGE OF 75.

MARY ELLA WRIGHT

Mrs. Mary Ella Wright, 75 years old, died last night at 6:50 at her residence, 5153 Delmar boulevard. Her son, Thomas J. Wright; her nieces, Misses Mollie, Maggie Mitchell and Mrs. Allen McLane, and a life-long friend, Mrs. McKinnen, were with her, her sons, William L. and John F., being out of the city. Her death resulted from an illness of several years. She died holding her son's hand.

Mrs. Wright was well known for her church work in North St. Louis for half a century. She leaves a large circle of friends and relatives. The immediate members of the family surviving her are William L. Wright, agent of the Eads estate; John Fenton Wright, paymaster of the Wabash Railroad; Thomas J. Wright, assistant auditor of Lemp's and secretary and treasurer of the Apollo Club.

The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the Third Baptist Church, the interment being private at Bellefontaine Cemetery. The Appollo Club will attend the church services and express their sympathy for the bereaved family in song.

Mrs. Wright was born April 15, 1830, at Gratiot, near the Grant farm. She grew up with and was for many years a schoolgirl friend of Gen. Grant's wife, Julia Dent Grant, and with her and Gen. Grant attended school under her brother, who was at that time the local teacher. Aug. 31, 1848, she married Thomas E. Wright, who at his death in April, 1900, was United States Deputy Revenue Inspector at St. Louis.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE AUTOMOBILE TOUR

David Strauss Goes to New York to Interest the Car Owners.

BAD ROADS QUESTION

Dave Strauss, who is promoting the automobile show to be held at the Jai Alai Building April 1 to 6, left for New York for the purpose of securing if possible more features for the show. Practically every make of car will be on exhibition at the show. The moving pictures of the Vanderbilt Cup race, the racing machines just as they came off the road and a number of record-breaking cars for reliability, economy tests and the Eke, have also been promised for the show.

One of the main reasons for Mr. Strauss' visit to New York and to other Eastern cities is to try to stir up enough interest in the show among owners of cars, as well as the manufacturers, to justify organizing a tour to St. Louis. It is practically settled that quite a number of Chicago cars will be driven to St. Louis and shown just as they come off the road.

A great deal depends on whether Mr. Strauss will be able to convince the Eastern men that the roads will be in at least passable condition by April. This will be mere guesswork. Mr. Strauss declared before leaving that he would guarantee that the weather would be perfect for automobiling, and he would try to convince the Eastern manufacturers that even if the roads are bad it would be a good thing for their cars to show their reliability and endurance by making the run under unfavorable circumstances.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

NEW YORK STOCKS HAVE BIG DECLINE

Conviction That Pennsyvania Is Coming Into Market for $50,000,000 Loan and No Favorable Financial Legislation Enacted Said to Be the Cause—Trading Good.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The close was on active trading and a slight rally that made the decline for the day average not more than 1 point.

The news (official) that Pennsylvania is in the market for $6,000,000 of 3-year 5-per-cent notes depressed that stock for a short time, but the rally at the close brought it up to ¼ of a point of the day's opening.

Union Pacific was the feature of the losers, its close being over 2 points under its opening. The industrial stocks came up on the closing rally almost to a parity with the opening for the day.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Growing conviction that the Pennsylvania and some other corporations are coming up to market for large loans, together with the fact that no favorable legislation is assured, caused a big decline in the market Tuesday forenoon.

The decline covered nearly all leading rail issues and amounts to 1½ to 2 points. It is also stated that the results of the forthcoming Pacific investigation are also a cause of the decline.

The Harriman Pacifics declined 1¾ to 1 point. St. Paul lost over 2 points. Pensylvania lost 1½ points and Reading and New York Central were almost as great sufferers from the decline.

In the industrial side Anaconda Copper lost 2¼ points. Locomotive lost 1¾ and Amalgamated Copper lost 1¼ points. Steel common lost ⅞ of a point and Smelter lost 1¾ points. At noon the trend was still downward, and a 3-point average decline for the day is anticipated.

Closing Quotations on the New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—With a good tone and all indications of activity the market opened lower Tuesday. A good trading market is anticipated with an irregular movement of stock prices.

On the industrial side of the room the opening was nearer parity than lower and better prices are looked for among them today than are anticipated for rail issues.

LIVESTOCK.

Receipts—Today's estimate called for 3000 cattle, 6500 hogs, 2500 sheep and 800 horses and mules.

CATTLE—While there was nothing particularly choice in the 1800 natives and 1200 Southern cattle received, there was a larger proportion than usual of fair to good kinds received in both divisions; the demand was good from all sources and the market was active at strong prices. The supply of stockers and feeders continues too light to meet the requirements of the trade.

Private wire to a St. Louis commission house states a report is current on the New York Exchange that Rock Island party, under direction of D. G. Reid, is selling stocks.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Tuesday, $10,042,301; last week, holiday. Balances for today, $625,900; last week, holiday.

It is stated there is some private transactions of moment being made in the bonds of the Alton Bridge. No show of activity or even inquiry has been noted on the stock exchange in that security.

An official of one of the largest St. Louis railroad systems in the Southwest said Tuesday that the legislation already enacted and partly enacted in various States of the Southwest including Missouri will force that portion of the population gaining a livelihood in railroad employment into a protective political organization of the same character as that which prompts the confiscatory legislation complained of by railroad officials. This particular official referred immediately to legislation compelling revenue reduction and cited the bill in the Missouri Legislature called the Railway Telegraphers' Eight-Hour Law, the effect of which would be to increase the telegraph operators' pay roll in this State about $60,000 a year on the system he is employed. The only resource open to the railroad is said to be abolition of telegraph offices at small stations, making far less flexible systems of handling trains, and new and slower schedules imperative.

According to this official the force to compel railroad employes to enter politics is outlined sharply in the proposed telegraph operator law. The law would provide shorter hours, but no greater compensation being likely where no contracts exist or where they are to be remade. On the railway system in question the operators did not ask for greater pay, but directed their efforts toward making more employment by appealing to the State Legislature.

Subscription books opened at 10 o'clock Tuesday at the office of A. G. Edwards & Sons to the $6,000,000 10-year, 6-per-cent debenture sinking fund bonds of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company. These bonds are dated June 1, 1906, and are subject to redemption by lot at 102½ and interest unless purchasable cheaper in the open market. The entire issue or any portion of it can be called upon four weeks' notice at 105 and interest. The subscription price is 100 and interest. At the office of Edwards & Sons it was stated Tuesday afternoon that subscriptions had been liberal and that in all probability the subscription would be closed Wednesday as advertised.

An old-line St. Louis banker says: "I don't find much tendency on the part of merchants to restrict themselves for the future. On the contrary, everybody is expanding. This real estate activity has taken a great deal of money. Time certificates of deposit in some institutions I know of are not nearly so large as they were. Rates are 5½ to 6 and it is a mighty good name that is accepted at the first-named quotation."

The deposits of the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis at this time are record-breaking. The bank is doing the greatest business in its history and will make a handsome showing for the initial quarter of the year. New accounts of great value are being constantly received and one point of much satisfaction, according to an official, is the surprising amount of business taken from the old Fourth National Bank. A number of exceptionally valuable accounts have been received since Feb. 1.

The phenomenal activity in the shares of the Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co. in the St. Louis Stock Exchange is significant. A very strong pool appears to be at work in this stock and with determination apparently to raise the price of these shares. It is understood that the deposits of the company have already shown a substantial gain owing to their strength of certain new members of the management. It is predicted in fact that the deposit item of this trust company will increase at least $1,000,000 within a short time.

WHEAT SUFFERS SHARP DECLINE

Prices Broke Severely Early in Session, closed Somewhat Above Bottom.

OTHER GRAINS AFFECTED

Northwestern Movement Is Heavy—World's Visible Increases 500,000 Bushels.

Local wheat, after declining steadily all morning, reacted somewhat and closed ⅝c to ⅞c lower for the day. Corn closed ¼@⅜c lower and oats ⅛c lower.

May wheat opened ⅜@½c lower at 76¾@76⅞c, went as high as 76⅞c, declined steadily to 75⅝c, recovered to 76¼c and closed at 76⅛c sellers. July option opened ¼c lower at 76⅜c, declined to 75½@75⅝c and closed at 76c sellers.

May corn opened ¼c lower at 44½c, declined to 44⅛@44¼c and closed at 44⅜c asked. July corn opened ⅛c lower at 45c, declined to 44¾c and closed at 44⅞c asked.

May oats opened ¼c lower at 39½c, went as high as 39⅝c and closed at 39½c bid. July oats, ⅛c lower at 35⅞c, went as high as 36c and declined to 35¾c, closing with offerings at the low point.

Bradstreet reports a decrease of 997,000 bu in wheat east of the Rocky Mountains, an increase of 1,400,000 bu in wheat in Europe and afloat and an increase of 403,000 bu in the total world's visible. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛d to ¼d lower, Paris ½c to 1c lower on wheat and ½c to ¾c lower on flour. Berlin wheat, ⅜c lower. Antwerp wheat, unchanged and Budapest ⅜c higher.

Trading in the local wheat pit was very active during the early part of the session and the market weak. The heavy movement in the Northwest, with fine weather in that region, cent breaks at Minneapolis and Chicago, indifferent cables and the report that Russia has covered her requirements of wheat up to April 30, were the bearish factors. There was a general selling movement and with practically no demand to meet the liquidation, prices declined steadily, going 1 1-16c to 1⅜c lower than Monday's close. Long lines were pretty well cleaned out and the pressure from the shorts let up about noon and a fair commission house demand cropped out at the extreme break. There were reports of a good export demand in spite of the small clearances, New York reporting 90 loads marked for export and this encouraged the demand, prices reacting fractionally from the low points and closing ⅝@⅞c lower for the day.

The cash demand was very quiet and the market dull. There were few changes in prices, which were sluggish. The cash demand at Minneapolis was slow, with No. 1 northern 1¾c over May option and No. 2 northern ½c under. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 195,000 bu.

Corn was rather quiet. At the start prices declined ⅜@½c in sympathy with wheat, and the ⅜@½d lower cables, but there was a good pit demand at the recession, and as the cable values were ¼@⅜c lower for the day. The world's visible supply of corn increased 1,393,000 bu. The cash demand for corn was quiet. Clearances were 93,200 bu.

Opening prices in the oats market were slightly easier in sympathy with other grains, but a good demand in the pit supported values, which were about steady during most of the session. Near the end there was some scattered liquidation, and the close was ⅛c lower for the day. The world's visible supply of oats decreased 165,000 bu. The curb demand for oats was quiet. Oats clearances were 2000 bu.

Following is the weekly foreign crop summary:

United Kingdom—Occasional complaints heard of thin plant, late sown; otherwise outlook favorable.

France—Reports regarding crop are less optimistic, as nothing definite will be known until spring. Supplies are about sufficient for present requirements and holders are very firm.

Germany—Favorable outlook for crop as reported last week is unchanged; supplies are larger.

Roumania, Hungary and Bulgaria—Crops well provided with snow covering, but weather milder.

Russia—Crop damage reports from Southwest are unconfirmed; elsewhere outlook favorable. There are no arrivals at ports and stocks are decreasing. Millers in the interior are buying Roumanian wheat.

An Odessa advice received from Berlin states that the Government has given notice that they have covered all requirements up to April 30.

Spain—Some scattered complaints heard, but generally crop outlook is favorable.

North Africa—Occasional complaints of excessive rains.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS FIRM AND ACTIVE

Operations of Brokers in Stocks of Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co. and National Candy Co., Halted by Higher Prices Demanded —Consolidated Coa Shares $3 Higher.

While the volume of transactions was n ot up to the standard of the last few months, the trading on the Stock Exchange at Tuesday's forenoon session was good and prices, with the exception of some specialties, were firm. The great demand for shares of Missouri-Lincoln Trust stock, noted during the close last week, and Monday appeared to be satisfied—temporarily at least—and the few offers made were 133 bid and 135 asked. It is known, however, that there are buying orders in the hands of brokers for the stock and it is expected the trading was withheld this morning on account of the probability of advance in the price of the stock to 140.

The trading turned on the issues of the National Candy Company at the opening and it looked for a short time as if the pool which operated last week in the common stock was about to renew operations on a larger scale. The sales of a few small blocks aggregating 110 shares caused holders to ask 19 for their shares and the purchasers refused to pay more than 18½ at which point the trading ceased.

Small lots of United Railways common sold at 42½ and the larger blocks of 100 shares sold at 42¼, the market being characterized as steady. The preferred went in small lots only unchanged at 77.

A ten share lot of Mercantile Trust stock sold at 365, easier than the last recorded sale. Part of common sold unchanged at 266.

Consolidated Coal Company shares were very strong and higher again at the forenoon session, 25 being the bid and 27 the ask price. Holders were unwilling to sell even at this advance of $3 per share.

AGENT OF PROVIDENCE.

Negress Who Was Shot Says She Was Spared to Testify.

Anna Guy, a negress, the principal witness for the State in the Edward Hicks murder case, which was on trial in the Belleville Circuit Court, said in her testimony that "God had let her live so she could tell who had shot and killed Phineas Geters" on the night of Dec. 23d, last. Hicks was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for 20 years. The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Guy on Fourth street, East St. Louis. Mrs. Guy testified that when she returned home that night she found Geters and Hicks, both of whom are, or were, colored, in her room laughing and talking. She said Geters exhibited a large roll of money, and that thereupon Hicks attempted to get him to leave the room and when he refused shot him twice and fired a third shot at her, the bullet passing between her arm and waist.

"Did the bullet strike you?" asked Attorney Schamloeffel on the cross-examination.

"No sir, it didn't strike me," replied the witness, "because God wanted me to live so there would be some one who could tell who had done the killing, but it came powerful near hitting me and I scampered out of the room as soon as I could."

Hicks took the stand in his own behalf and told a vivid story of having been assaulted with a razor by Geters after Geters and the woman had had a quarrel. He exhibited a coat cut to shreds which he said had been done by Geters during the fight. He grew eloquent during his recital and pictured by gestures and a rapid flow of choice English the whole occurrence. Hicks wanted to try the case himself and asked the Court when arrigned to be allowed to do so, but the prosecuting attorney objected and the judge appointed attorneys for the defense.

Moyers, who is recuperating from his recent illness at Citronelle, Ala., in which he states that he is gaining strength rapidly and will return to East St. Louis, March 1, and will open the City Court, March 4. LEARN PLUMBING

The plumber receives a higher wage than any other mechanic. He works from 8 to 12 and from 1 to 5 and is never out of work—he is the most independent mechanic. Compare the difference in wages received by the day laborer at $1.50 a day and the plumber at his average wage of $5 a day—$1100 a year. In 30 years he makes $33,000 more than the laboring man. Also consider the difference in their work—the average day laborer works fully twice as hard as the plumber. A few months at our school, in either day or night classes, will enable any man to learn plumbing. Many of our students have graduated in less than four months and today are working in this city at the regular plumber's wages. We can do the same for you. If you cannot call, write for illustrated catalogue. St. Louis Trades School, 3964 Olive, St. Louis. (Incorporated.)

BLOOD POISON, SKIN DISEASES, SORES, VARICOSE ENLARGEMENTS, URINARY TROUBLES, NERVOUS DECLINE, PILES, FISTULA, KIDNEY, BLADDER OR ANY AFFECTION PECULIAR TO MEN.

Dr. French says: "It is no more than I expect to hear nearly every man who consults me relate a long story of his having been unsuccessfully treated, but in nine cases out of ten such experience can be attributed to the fault of the afflicted man, for he has had himself under the care of physicians of not sufficient age and experience to be past their experimental practice."

Any man seeking treatment should know that to insure himself of effectual treatment he should employ a specialist of ripe age and long experience.

COME TO SEE ME and note the difference in the way an experienced specialist will treat you and how soon you can be benefited by the right kind of treatment. If you are skeptical I can refer you to former patients, who will vouch for my conscientious, successful, "Golden Rule" dealing with them.

MONEY BACK IF NOT CURED—NO CHANCE TO LOSE.

I protect my patients against loss by giving them a written contract to return every dollar they pay me for services, if they are not completely and permanently cured, and it is because my well-tried, effective methods cure such a large per cent of cases that I am able to give this advantage which other specialists do not offer.

SOCIETY

NEWS OF THE DAY

Devotion of Mrs. Ives to Country Life, and the Surprise of Misguided Friends Who Went Out to Console Her.

"SERENA LAMB."

THE Society Department of the Post-Dispatch is now conducted by Miss Lucy Stoughton, known for many years to readers of St. Louis newspapers as Serena Lamb.

"It's high time to plant sweet peas," said Mrs. Halsey C. Ives. She pressed one neat patent leather tip into the soft and springy ground as she spoke.

"But this is February," I expostulated, "and all the gardening books say soak sweet peas over night, a full-moon night, if possible, if not, any other night will do, and plant the first day you see a March hare."

"I can't help that," firmly replied the president of the Morning Choral Club, vice-president of the Art League, director of the Choral Symphony Society, distinguished member of the Wednesday, the Woman's and the Piano clubs. "You must plant sweet peas now, four inches under ground, along the fence, if you have a fence, if not, any other place where you think they'll look well.

"And the frost? And those late blizzards that are sure to get us next month when the coal pile is no more and our winter garments also a reminiscence?

"Sweet peas, four inches underground, will never get nipped by frost or snow. They thrive on it. Plant your sweet peas now," repeated the energetic lady of many affairs, as she boarded her suburban car and waved a big seed package at parting.

Prof. and Mrs. Ives have stayed valiantly by the countryside this winter, not opening their Westminster place house at all. They are enthusiastic—"real farmers," declared the lady, "and the longer we live out Ferguson way the better we like it, and the more determined we are to continue our rural mode of life. We have been country residents for seven or eight summers, but never tried the winter before until this year. Now Mr. Ives, the children and myself agree that it's great."

This fondness for the woods and fields is something Mrs. Ives' town friends cannot understand. They agree that a few weeks in the middle of July or August, when one wishes to recuperate and "to go to bed by day," and Robert Louis Stevenson makes his little girl sing, wouldn't be a fearful hardship—but week after week, month after month? Dreadful to contemplate! Poor Prof. Ives! And, surely, poor Mrs. Ives!

Two or three of these sympathetic friends decided to pay the lady a visit one day. "We will cheer her up. Such long, lonesome hours as she must have nothing to do but sew or read or listen to the crickets—it's fairly frightful to be so buried. We must do our best to liven one day for dear Mrs. Ives, if no more. Our visit will be a veritable act of charity." So these kind friends boarded a car bound for Ferguson and tramped down the half-mile lane leading to the Ives house about noon of that day.

Mrs. Ives wasn't expecting them. They took care of that. "Let's give her a glorious surprise!" said they.

The maid said Mrs. Ives was "right round back o' the barn, and youse can walk over, if ye like." They did. The little lady, swathed in gingham aprons, was engaged in giving minute attention to a brood of tender ducklings, who were being led to water for the first time by their foster mother, Mrs. Hen. When this important matter was finally disposed of, Mrs. Ives gave her guests cordial greeting, waved her hand to signify that the ives domain was theirs for the time being, and then went right on with such trifling duties and circumstances as naturally come about in the cause of a summer's afternoon in the country.

These consisted of prompt attention to some pickled peaches, whose spicy odors filled the air; several pilgrimages into the vegetable garden, a hasty rescue of one of the young pullets, who had strayed into the corn field, where there was a dangerous weasel.

Subsequent, on a message from the man of all work, she made an excited visit to the abode of Madame Pig, who had just added 10 little piggy-wiggies to the farm dwellers. Later she served refreshment for the visitors who had come to condole, but remained to marvel, followed by a tramp to the lower meadow and a round-up of the two Jerseys, the Hired Man having been granted temporary leave of absence to have a tooth pulled. After the chickens had been fed and the evening's milking supervised, Mrs. Ives harnessed the family horse to the carry-all herself, and drove her guests to the car station along toward dewy evening.

"Him!" ruminated the city friends, as the country lady tossed a big bouquet of sweet peas and nasturtiums into their laps, and waved them a sun-burned and cheerful good-by. "our condolences won't exactly do. She doesn't need them. Why, it actually seems to us that Mrs. Ives likes the country," and they pondered o'er this surprising and stupendous fact all the way to town.

Living Art Pictures

A charming entertainment is to be given at the St. Louis Women's Club Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when living reproductions of celebrated art works will be presented in tableaux by young men and women connected with the St. Louis School of Fine Art. The program will be interspersed with music selections by St. Louis artists and singers.

The audience will be a representation of society people and lovers of art.

The entertainment is for the benefit of the American Free Art League.

At the time of formation of the Free Art League of America, a National Executive Committee was appointed to which was entrusted the task of raising the funds required to maintain an educational propaganda in favor of abolishing the tariff on art.

The cities most interested in this movement were assessed as follows: New York, $5000; Boston, $3000; Chicago, $3000; Philadelphia, $3000; Detroit, $1000; St. Louis, $1000.

All these cities except St. Louis have generously responded; and in some cases have contributed in excess of the amount assessed, but up to the present time no payment has been made by St. Louis.

The object of this entertainment therefore is to raise $1000, and place St. Louis in the list of those contributing to such a laudable work.

Painters, sculptors and musicians have arranged the entertainment.

Under the direction of F. O. Sylvester, "Bed in Summer" by Jessie Wilcox Smith, will be impersonated by little Miss Margaret Wuerpel, the young daughter of the artist by that name.

"Portrait of the Painter, David Ryckaert," by Anthony Van Dyck, under the direction of Miss Cordelia Baker, is to be impersonated by Mr. E. H. Wuerpel.

"Art Wins the Heart" by Paul Thurman, under the direction of Miss Henrietta Ord Jones, will be impersonated by Miss Jennie Wahlert and Mr. Kingsley.

"Tra Bello Azalais," by Howard Pyle, under the direction of Edmund H. Wuerpel, will be impersonated by Miss Ward and Mr. Trens.

"Flaming June," by Lord Leighton, under the direction of Dawson Watson, will be impersonated by Miss Wall.

"A Frieze from Greek Pottery," under the direction of Miss Esther Lincoln. Fellows will be impersonated by Miss Petronelle Lambart, Miss Edith Goodrich, Miss Adele Schulenberg and Miss Caroline Tumality.

"Death and the Sculptor," by D. C. French, under the direction of George Julian Zolnay, will be impersonated by Miss May Wall and Mr. Guy Study.

"Belinda at Tea," by Kate Greenaway, under the direction of Miss Grace Hazard, will be impersonated by Miss Althra Holland and Miss Emily Dauernheim.

"Hopeless Dawn," by Frank Bramley, under the direction of Charles Percy Davis, will be impersonated by Miss Nellie Van Moefen and Miss Christine Kiehl.

On the musical program will be: Mrs. Charles J. Daly, James J. Rohan and R. P. Stirne, vocalists; E. R. Kroeger, pianist; Frank Geeks and W. H. Pommer, violin and piano, and Miss M. Teresa Finn, accompanist.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Thomas Stocker's handsome Russell avenue residence was the scene of a jolly card party Tuesday afternoon. Twenty women friends were entertained, the function designed to honor Miss Fanny Rutherford of Atlanta, Ga., who is at present a house guest of Mrs. Stocker.

Miss Rutherford frequently visits in St. Louis and is popular. She will remain for at least a month, and Mrs. Stocker expects to give another afternoon party for her in the near future.

The house Tuesday was trimmed in pink and white flowers—carnations and roses being used. The prizes were dainty pieces of china and cut glass.

Mrs. Stocker wore a princess effect in allover lace, built on chiffon and silk, while Miss Rutherford was in fine pink tissue over pink silk, with lace garniture.

The guests were both married and unmarried friends, including the Mmes. Hugo Stiefel, Herman Stiefel, Beck, Fisse, Julius Rombauer, G. W. Reinhold, Henry Griesedieck, Otto Meister, Herman Meister, Moenig, Woensch, A. Stocker, Henry Conrades; the Misses Haeussler, Ramon, Barthels, the Misses Griesedieck.

Luncheons are a favorite form of entertainment with Mrs. Edward A. Faust. And she invariably achieves much success with them. Her table is always a beauty of floral decoration and she takes great pride in the personal arrangement of her flowers.

That of Tuesday afternoon surpassed even former triumphs. It was a round table seating 14 guests, the cover of pale rose pink silk, covered with the finest linen and lace spread. The centerpiece was large and round and composed of huge pink roses, with tiny electric bulbs concealed in their hearts. The candles and accompanying appointments were all in pink and the hostess wore a pale pink chiffon gown, trimmed with lace, an especially becoming costume.

This luncheon of Tuesday was the first of a series of two, the second to be given on Wednesday.

Mrs. August Anheuser, who is well remembered as Miss Stella Nicolaus, and who has been the guest of her father, Henry Nicolaus, for several weeks, was the honoree. Mrs. Anheuser's home is in Germany. She is expecting to spend at least six months in this country, while Lieut. Anheuser is here on business.

Mrs. Faust's guests of Tuesday included, besides the honoree, Mrs. Giannini, Miss Ella Lamp, Mrs. John Schroers, Miss Almal Holtn, Mrs. Otto Teichmann, Mrs. Stockstrom, Mrs. Kraus, Mrs. Joseph Griesedieck, Mrs. August Busch, Mrs. Charles Trumbull Boyd, Mrs. Charles Norman Jones, Mrs. Victor Ehling.

Mrs. W. B. Anderson of the Buckingham enteretained her card club on Tuesday afternoon at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert are expecting to sail for Paris on either March 5 or March 9, their passage not yet being engaged. They will be abroad for four months, this being their annual spring trip.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Givens will entertain at cards Wednesday afternoon, at her residence, 5545 Clemens avenue. Mrs. Walter Boogher of Arkansas, but formerly of St. Louis, is to be the honored guest.

Mrs. Paul Brown will entertain at luncheon, followed by cards, Thursday afternoon at the Woman's Club, for Mrs. Walter Boogher.

"The Juniors," as certain members who belong to the United Daughters of the Confederacy organization like to call themselves, gathered Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Miss Florence Kramer, one of the members, 4517 Forest Park boulevard. Really they are a club of the unmarried women of the U. D. C., and while their object is almost entirely social, they have managed to effect a very complete organization, tending to promote acquaintance, good fellowship and genuine work among the members.

Miss Anna Lumpkin Force is president, her election having recently taken place. There are four vice-presidents, the Misses Grace McCulloch, Grace Estes, Sallie Heard and Louise Chapman, in the order named. Miss Sophie Massey is the recording secretary, and Miss Mattie Lou Maddox the corresponding secretary. Miss Lucille Campbell fills the office of treasurer and Miss Lula Sloan is registrar.

Tuesday afternoon Miss Force presided and after the usual tontine business a musicale followed, under the direction of Miss Lucille Campbell, who is in charge of the two February programmes: One "Junior," chosen by the president, takes the programmaking for one month and is responsible for the social session. Miss Campbell sang several very acceptable solos Tuesday afternoon.

The "Junior" organization includes about fifty young women.

At the close of the music Miss Kramer served her guests with refreshments, and informal conversation finished the afternoon.

Miss Florence Shepard of Kansas City, who has been a much entertained guest of Miss Sallie West Jackson, is now with Miss Lucille Campbell, and will remain in town for several weeks.

Miss Katherine Ferguson of Rich Hill, Mo., who is Mrs. Warren Bailey's guest, is ill with the grippe.

Miss Norborn Berry of the West End Hotel gave a theater party on Monday night to see Grace George at the Olympic. Miss Berry's party was in honor of Miss Kate Leslie, who is visiting Mrs. Odon Guitar. The other guests were: Miss Etta Estill, the Messrs. Carl Meyer, Henry Bronaugh, George Hoyle. Mrs. Ella Berry chaperoned.

The West End Hotel will give a dance for young people Friday night. The entertainment will be informal.

At the Garrick last night were: Miss Nellie Wickham, in pale blue crepe and violets, who came with eGorge Reynolds.

Mr. L. B. Tebbets, with Kansas City friends in a stage box.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Manning, the latter in white cloth and Irish lace.

Judge and Mrs. Thomas Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barada Widen,; Houston Force, with a party of men; Mr. and Mrs. Leone Gale, Charles McLaran, Miss Katherine Overstolz, R. Park von Wedelstaedt, Mr. and Mrs. George Willard Teasdale, Dr. Willis oYung, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Studniszka, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Chambers, Miss Hazel Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. August Frank.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Steinwender were in front row seats. Mrs. Steinwender, who has entirely recovered from her recent illness, wore a princess effect in deep cream-colored batiste and lace.

MISS FLORENCE KRAMER. (REMBRANDT PORTRAIT)

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER

THE STOMACH

My, but people's stomachs do cause a lot of trouble. I offered to wager some doctors in St. Paul, Minn., that one-half of all sickness is caused by the stomach. After I assured them that my medicine did nothing but put the stomach in shape, and they had spent a day listening to what people who called on me had to say, they had to agree with me. They heard people come in and tell me that for years they had been near the grave with Bright's disease, or lung trouble, or kidney complaint and all manner of diseases and that the New Discovery had cured them. Of course these people were mistaken, it was nothing but their stomachs. As a matter of fact when the stomach gives out most everything else is thrown out of order, too.

C. H. POWELL.

When a person feels tired and dull and despondent, is losing flesh and don't sleep well, has a poor memory, a bad taste in the mouth, a coated tongue, and other troubles he's liable to believe a lot of things are the matter with him. Nine chances to one it's the stomach. I've seen Cooper's New Discovery bring back health to too many people in just this shape to believe anything else. Here's a letter about it:

"I suffered for a long time without knowing just what was the matter with me. I seldom felt like eating. I lost greatly in weight. My digestion was extremely poor, and when I did eat I invariably suffered afterward. I was constipated and frequently suffered from nerve racking, violent headaches. When I heard of what the Cooper remedies were doing for others I resolved to try them.

"Relief came with the first bottle. My appetite and digestion improved rapidly. I am no longer constipated nor do I have those dreadful headaches. I sleep well and am gaining flesh." C. H. Powell, 13 Harrison Addition, Duluth, Minn.

SAYS THIS RELIEVES BACKACHE.

A well-known authority says that Backache is often Nature's danger signal which notifies the sufferer that the kidneys are sick.

The following simple home-made mixture is said to relieve backache and clearse and build up the Kidneys, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist is authority that these ingredients are mainly of vegetable extraction and harmless to use, and can be obtained at small cost from any good prescription pharmacy. Those who think they have kidney trouble or suffer with lame back or weak bladder, should give this prescription a trial, as no harm can possibly follow its use, and it is said to do wonders for some people.

QUADRUPEDAL TOUR CURES THEIR ILLS

Connecticut Men and Women Walk on All Fours to End Suffering.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ANSONIA, Conn., Feb. 19.—Many persons, women and men, who suffer from indigestion or other intestinal ailments are being treated by the 'Nebuchadnezzar cure." Those who read their Bible know that Nebuchadnezzar, who was a very bad man, was condemned to go on all fours and eat grass. The cure named after the wicked King does not compel the patient to eat grass, of course. Any of the breakfast foods that come from Michigan will do. But the patient, woman or man, must go on all fours for a certain fixed time each day. If the patient is a weak woman; a quadrupedal tour of a large room once a day suffices; if he is a comparatively strong man, half a dozen circuits of the room on all fours are enough.

The position the cure demands is neither graceful for a woman nor dignified for a man, but the results are beneficial. The theory back of the cure, its rationale, is that in the course of his evolution man was a quadruped before he was a biped, and that certain ills were acquired when he began to walk erect. So if he reverts to the mode of progression of his remote ancestors, he cures the ailments brought into existence by his change of position. The advocates of the Nebuchadnezzar cure say that the ourangs, chimpanzees and gorillas do not know what indigestion is.

The cure is fine for obesity, too. There is the case of Mrs. X. She has long suffered from what she called "embonpoint." The fact is that the only mode of livelihood left open to her was to become a fat woman in a dime museum. Four months ago Mrs. X. adopted the "Nebuchadnezzar cure." She found it difficult at first, for such was her girth she could get only the tips of her fingers on the carpet. Mrs. X.'s joyous shouts awoke her husband.

"I see my toes,' she was crying happily. "For the first time in 10 years, I see my toes."

WOMEN NOW WANT HALF MEN'S WAGES

Suffragists Applaud When Australian Delegate Proposes Such a Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—A law compelling every husband to turn over half his income and property to his wife, to do with as she pleases, was urged and wildly applauded in the Woman's Suffrage Convention.

Mrs. Alice Henry, a delegate from Melbourne, Australia, in an address on "Woman's Purse," outlined the scheme and aroused more enthusiasm than any speaker during the session of the convention. It was a subject that seemed to appeal to all the women. Mrs. Henry said such a law was now in practical operation in some of the states of the Australian confederation. It had proven a boon beyond the wildest dreams of the women.

"One half the wage of a workman is paid to his wife," said Mrs. Henry. "When he works for the government, every man is compelled to allot his wife her equal share of all he possesses and earns. She is given half the property when he dies whether he wills it to anybody else or not."

Cries of "Good," "That's the way" and "Hurrah for Australia," interrupted the speaker.

"This share falls to her not as a gift, mind you, but as her equity of her share in the matrimonial business."

Mrs. Henry did not explain what effect the law had on marriage statistics.

CLAYTON FARE RESTORED.

You Now Need Pay Only Five Cents From Wellston.

The 5-cent fare between Wellston and Clayton, done away at the time of the Suburban merger, was again put in operation Tuesday morning, and a through line between Kirkwood and Ferguson inaugurated. At Easton avenue a 5-cent fare will be collected north to Ferguson and south to Meramec Highlands.

Formerly the eastbound cars from Ferguson stopped at Suburban Garden. Passengers desiring to go to Kirkwood were required to get off there and take a Hodiamont car east to the De Hodiamont junction, where they transferred to the Kirkwood car. Under the new system the Ferguson cars will cover the entire distance between Ferguson and Kirkwood. Instead of stopping at Suburban Garden they will continue east on the tracks of the Hodiamont line and will turn into the tracks of the Kirkwood line at De Hodiamont.

At Kirkwood transfers will be issued to Meramec Highlands and to the Florisant cars at the Ferguson junction, good as far as Kinloch Park. Cars from Kirkwood to Ferguson will start, as at present, at intervals of 20 minutes.

YOUNG LADY TAKES POISON.

Asheville (N. C.) Mayor's Sister Swallows Strychnine.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 19.—Miss Althea West, sister of W. W. West, formerly Mayor of Asheville, and niece of Admiral Shippen, committed suicide last night at her country place, about seven miles north of Asheville, by taking strychnine. No cause has been assigned for her act, but it is known that Miss West had been in very highly despondent moods for several weeks.

Yesterday afternoon there were a number of callers at the Wests' and after they had taken their departure and in the absence of both her parents, she swallowed 10 grains of strychnine. She died in great agony. Miss West was 25 years of age.

TOILING WHEN HE MET ROYAL BRIDE

Westinghouse in Begrimed Clothing When English Woman Visited Parents.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 19.—That Miss Violet, daughter of Sir Thomas and Lady Brooklebank of London, whose engagement to George Westinghouse Jr., followed a case of pure love, first saw young Westinghouse in his overalls and greasy jumpers, came out today. Miss Violet several years ago saw George Westinghouse Jr., at work in his father's shops, and, not knowing his name, but only admiring the open, frank contenance and the athletic bearing of the workman, she asked him a few questions.

Young Westinghouse signaled the guide who was conducting the party through the works not to uncover his identity to the young lady, and he showed her all she wanted to know about his end of the monster works of his father. She departed, thanking him, even hesitating whether or not she would offer him a tip.

The strangest part of the whole affair was that at this time Sir Thomas and Lady Brooklebank and Miss Violet were guests at Solitude, the Westinghouse suburban residence, from where young George Westinghouse went each day to the works of his father, and to which he returned tired and begrimed each night.

Miss Violet did not know that there was such a person as a young man in the Westinghouse family; she did not meet him on her visit, and it was not until a year later that on one of his trips to Europe young Westinghouse met formally the young lady who will soon be his wife. She remembered her lord of the greasy overalls, and almost fainted when she recognized in young Westinghouse, the heir to $50,000,000, the same young man to whom she had talked so freely as a workman in the shops at Pittsburg.

It will be remembered that three years ago young George Westinghouse entered his father's plant, saying he would learn the business from the ground up. He went on the payroll at $1.35 a day and was graduated only a short time ago.

BOYCOTT CHARGE FAILS.

New Suit Is Laundry Association's Sole Recourse.

A new suit will have to be brought, it is thought, against the St. Louis Laundrymen's Association if the attempt to break up the combination is to be continued. Lawyers say that a second demurrer to the petition of James McDaniel against the association, sustained Monday afternoon by Judge Taylor, makes such procedure necessary. The original suit was brought under the anti-trust statute. It was alleged that the members of the association had confederated to boycott supply houses and machine companies which undertook to sell to independent laundries. The plaintiff alleged that he had been injured to the extent of $10,000 and sued for three times that amount, as the statute allows.

Judge Taylor sustained a demurrer to the petition as it was then, on the ground that the statute does not prohibit combinations having for their purpose the rendering of services, as distinct from the sale of goods or merchandise. The petition was amended and damages of $30,000 asked under the common law. A demurrer was filed to the amended petition, on the ground that it stated a cause of action different from the one stated in the original. Judge Taylor sustained this also.

DEATH UNITES AGED PAIR.

Married 60 Years, He Expired Week After Wife.

William Westhelder, 87 years old, was buried Tuesday beside his wife Margaret, who died only a week ago. He was 87 years old and she was 80, and they had been married 60 years. Both were taken ill at the same time, and for five weeks they lay side by side at their home, 1232 North Seventeenth street.

Westhelder had bronchitis. His wife's malady could not be diagnosed, and physicians said that she was merely sympathetically affected by her husband's illness. They were married in Germany in 1846 and came to America two years later. They are survived by three children, seven grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Westhelder was a steamboat and lumber contractor.

Everybody Knows Linen Is Better Than Cotton

Linen is worth more than cotton—whether you buy it in a tablecloth, handkerchief or a collar. Linen is a purer, finer, more durable fabric than cotton any time, for any purpose—everybody knows that.

But many men evidently do not know that most collars sold them at 15c. (2 for 25c.) are made of cotton. Of course their manufacturers do not tell you so—they talk about "fabric" and expect you'll be deceived.

Every man who is particular about his apparel should be particular about his collars. That means he will be sure his collars are linen, by asking for Triangle Linen Collars every time he buys.

Collars not stamped "linen" are cotton. When you get Triangle Linen Collars you are sure of linen quality. The law says so.

Dealers everywhere sell Triangle Linen Collars in quarter sizes of all popular styles. If you cannot get the style you like, write us and we'll see you get it.
